Whalen Testimonial Is Attended by 250

A resounding tribute to a public-spirited citizen who exemplified the ideal in service to his fellowman was paid to Richard J. Whalen by some 250 friends, business associates and local civic workers at a testimonial dinner Saturday evening at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Whalen, who has been general manager of the Kingston IBM plant, is now directing the construction of a new International Business Machine Corporation plant at Boulder, Colorado, where he will become general manager. A resident of the Kingston area since 1954, he has been active in community affairs serving on the board of trustees of the Kingston Hospital and of the Ulster County Community College and committees of the Community Chest, Chamber of Commerce and Kingston Rotary Club. He also is a director of Kingston Trust Company.

Richard M. Kalish, president of Kingston Hospital, saluted the guest of honor and expressed the high regard in which the IBM official was held by the people of the community.

Christus J. Laros, chairman of the testimonial sponsoring committee, presented Whalen with a landscape oil painting of the mountains as seen from Whalen's home in Hurley. The painting is by Landscape Artist Richard Jeffery of Woodstock.

Dr. Dale B. Lake, president of Ulster County Community College, presided and introduced the honored guests, which included Whalen's parents and sister from Poughkeepsie.

Work Here Appreciated

Kalish, the main speaker, said that tonight the Kingston Area salutes Richard Whalen. What greater tribute can a man receive than to be honored by this large group of his friends who hold him in high esteem and have the greatest respect and admiration for him.

Why are we honoring Dick Whalen? he asked.

He is a man who has assumed many civic responsibilities and with his intelligence, good judgement and pleasing personality has accomplished many things.

As general manager of the Kingston IBM plant he headed the largest industry in our area. This in itself is a real challenge and time consuming. While in Kingston he always found time for worthwhile projects none too large or too small. Most important to all of us is that IBM, through his leadership and example, has become a potent force for all worthwhile endeavors.

Not only in giving generous contributions but they have been equally generous by making available the talents of numerous IBM'ers in the leadership category.

Good Will Ambassador

Over the past 10 years, Whalen has greeted thousands of visitors from all over the world to IBM Kingston. He is an ambassador of good will, without portfolio, for Ulster County.

A native of Poughkeepsie, and one who has grown up in the Hudson valley, he has a deep rooted appreciation for its many attributes.

Being active in community planning, he has expressed great confidence in the future growth of the area. As a participant in many community activities, he not only has conviction in the growth of the area, but of equal importance, has an admiration and respect for the many people who have taken the time and effort to concern themselves with the future of Ulster County.

Like many of us, he enjoys golf and has served as a member of the Board of Directors and chairman of the pool committee at Twaalfskill, Kalish said.

Woman Is Shot To Death Near Trailer Home

A 46-year-old laborer was arrested Sunday at 6 p.m. on a charge of first degree murder in connection with the shotgun slaying early Saturday of Mrs. Georgia Mae Lester, 26, whose body was discovered near a shack not far from her trailer home on North Road, Marlboro.

State Trooper David Wachtel said Oscar Anderson, a laborer employed at a Marlboro cooler and identified as the stepfather-in-law of the victim's husband, James, 32, was picked up for questioning early Sunday and booked last night on the murder charge.

Held Without Bail

Anderson was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Robert Ferrigan, Town of Kingston. He waived preliminary hearing and was ordered held without bail in the county jail.

State Police said an investigation by Lt. Supervisor Edward Crosswell and BCI investigators disclosed that Anderson had loaned Mrs. Lester money for sometime and she owed him $55. Early Saturday, troopers said, Anderson allegedly asked Mrs. Lester for money, which he reportedly said he needed before today to make a payment. An argument ensued and Anderson allegedly shot her.

LBJ Signs School Aid Near Home

$1.3 Billion Bill Is Vital to the Future

BY FRANK CORMIER

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson, sitting in the shadow of "this little school of my childhood," has signed into law a $1.3 billion education aid bill he says will bring "quality and education" to schooling.

At a simple ceremony Sunday two miles from his ranch home, Johnson reached the high point of a busy weekend that saw him pay his respects to Houston's futuristic baseball stadium, select retired Vice Adm. William F. Raborn Jr. as new chief of the Central Intelligence Agency, and sound a fresh warning of American determination in Viet Nam.

Vital to Future

Johnson, with his first teacher sitting by his side, said of the education bill:

"As President of the United States, I believe deeply no law I have signed or will ever sign means more to the future of America."

Behind him was the tin-sheathed home which 53 years ago was a one-room schoolhouse where, as he told several hundred spectators as well as his old teacher, Kate Dedrich Loney, 72, of Rough and Ready, Calif.:

"I started school when I was 4 years old, and they tell me, Miss Kate, that I recited my first lessons while sitting on your lap."

Teacher Gets Pen

Scores of old friends and schoolmates assembled for the occasion from all parts of Texas were ready to testify this was true.

Thus it was fitting that, in setting a precedent by using only one pen to sign the bill, Johnson handed the writing instrument to Miss Kate.

Of the new law, Johnson said: "It represents a major new commitment of the federal government to quality and equality in the schooling that we offer our young people. By passing this bill, we bridge the gap between helplessness and hope for more than five million educationally deprived children in America."

Peace Is Duty

"Again today peace fills our feast day and concerns the world which always has such great need for peace and which feels this blessing of peace so menaced," the Pope said.

"Instead, certain situations place us in doubt whether mankind is any longer able to maintain peace. But the feast of today teaches not only that peace is a duty, but that it is possible."

In divided Berlin, the East German Communists opened their wall again today to West Berliners going to visit relatives in East Berlin during Holy Week.

A comparative few crossed the wall today. More than 400,000 West Berliners have received passes, but the big crush will not come until next weekend, for the Easter holidays.

Can't Visit West

East Berliners are not allowed to visit West Berlin. For the first time in several years, the start of the Jewish Passover, which celebrates the escape of the Israelites from Egypt, coincides with Good Friday this year. The Jewish festival extends for seven days after Friday's Passover supper.

More Effective Combination Is Proposed for Paid, Vol Firemen

A better combination of paid and volunteer firemen rather than emphasis on problems of the uniformed force, is proposed by Mayor John J. Schwenk.

In a recent letter to C. John

Bechtold, president of the Board of Fire Commissioners, the mayor emphasizes the value of the volunteers, and notes that a partially paid fire department, started in 1907 "is a good system."

At a recent meeting the fire board voted to increase the department's budget by $23,500 to institute the career incentive plan starting July 3.

This action, the Common Council by a 7-5 vote April 6, decided to probe to determine if any irregular procedure was involved, and May 15 was fixed as the date of hearing.

Text of Letter

In his letter to Bechtold the mayor wrote:

"I am writing to you as president of the Board of Fire Commissioners to ask you to consider certain factors, which would result from the board's willingness to grant a career pay plan increase in salaries, if such a plan were adopted."

"As of 1965, the annual budget of the fire department stands at $343,153. If the career plan requested by the fire fighters is instituted, and the additional personnel added to the paid fire department, as requested, it would bring the 1966 budget to the level of approximately $450,000, plus an undetermined increase, in future years, in the city's contribution to the state retirement fund and social security."

"I am sure you realize, as a taxpayer, that this will bring our fire department budget to an all-time high in a period when the property owners of the City of Kingston are already oppressed by a very high tax rate."

Ask Board to Look

"I was very interested in your recent comments about communities in the Long Island area having a greater population than Kingston, who have, for years, used a very successful system of combining paid firemen as drivers of equipment and depending upon volunteers to provide the manpower to man the equipment. Therefore, I would appreciate it, if your board would look into the various methods used by other communities our size to more fully utilize the services of our highly competent and well trained volunteer firemen."

"Perhaps you will find it is plausible to reduce the number of paid firemen in our department by making full use of the volunteer services in a more economical combination of paid and volunteer fire fighters. Thus it may be possible to reduce the personal services expenditures of (Continued on Page 8, Col. 3)

Confidence Vote Given To Wilson

A meeting of the Republican town chairmen from every town in Ulster County and the Republican chairmen from the City of Kingston, was held Saturday night at the Kingston-Stuyvesant Hotel at which time the various candidates for surrogate appeared and spoke briefly on his qualifications.

No endorsement of any of the five candidates was called for at Saturday night's meeting and Chairman Kenneth L. Wilson stated that it will be the duty of the delegates to the Republican County Convention to actually select a candidate.

By Acclamation

During the course of the meeting a motion was offered by Supervisor Abram Molyneux of Woodstock, and seconded by John L. Smith, chairman of the Town of Marlborough, that the representative leaders of the Republican party express a vote of confidence in the Republican County Chairman, Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson of Woodstock. The vote of confidence was unanimous and was carried by acclamation.

20,000 Are Driven From Homes by Minnesota Floods

ST. PAUL, Minn., (AP) — Three National Guard units were ordered into the battle today against Minnesota's costliest flood in history, a major disaster which has driven an estimated 20,000 persons from their homes.

The raging Minnesota River continued its relentless destruction. The Mississippi was swelling, and smaller rivers throughout the state spilled over their banks.

39 Disaster Counties

President Johnson declared 39 counties a disaster area Sunday and promised full federal help. The federal aid will apply only to public facilities such as roads, bridges and buildings.

The Red Cross estimated 20,000 Minnesotans homeless. About 30 highways were closed by high water.

Late Sunday night, Gov. Karl Rolvaag ordered an engineers battalion on duty at Hutchinson, about 50 miles west of Minneapolis. The Crook River flooded at Hutchinson, driving 50 families from their homes. About 15 residential blocks and part of the business district were inundated.

Roads Out And Power Crippled

Twisters Losing Force in Spread

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The nation counted 214 killed in a Palm Sunday tornado bombardment of six Midwestern states.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said 37 twisters injured thousands. Property damage estimates came to several millions.

While search of the debris from shattered homes continued today in some sections, Indiana counted 109 dead, Ohio 59, Michigan 36, Illinois 7 and Wisconsin 3. Iowa reported extensive damage but no deaths.

The rampaging weather front spun the twisters through the Great Lakes and Ohio Valley diminished today as it spread into the East and Southeast.

Comparisons Made

Sunday's storms were deadlier than those the night of March 21-22, 1952 when twisters killed 208 in Arkansas, Missouri and Tennessee. The worst single day in terms of tornado death toll was in 1925 when a March 18 barrage of twisters took 689 lives in Missouri, Illinois and Indiana.

Indiana authorities had no estimate of the number of injured or the cost in property damage. There were three twister paths across the state's northern and central area. Power and communication failures hampered any assessment. Some highways were blocked by wreckage.

22 Towns Hit

At least 22 towns had fatalities. Dunlap, southeast of Elkhart, had many dead in a crushed and scattered trailer home community. One hundred houses were destroyed in Greentown near Kokomo. One hundred cottages were flattened at Kootz Lake northwest of Knox. Lapaz and Wyatt near South Bend were washed.

In Ohio, the metropolitan Toledo section took the hardest punches, with 13 deaths listed and searchers seeking other victims.

Red Cross Reports

The Red Cross reported 178 injured were admitted to hospitals.

Near Lima, in the Cairo-Bluffton area 12 were killed; 18 died in Lorain County near Cleveland. Gov. James A. Rhodes declared the tornado-smashed communities a disaster area. Fifty-three cars of a freight train were derailed by the wind south of Lima.

Michigan's southern section was ripped from Grand Rapids to Hillsdale County. Deaths occurred in widely scattered places. Five deaths and 100 injured were reported in the Grand Rapids area. Across the state near Hillsdale, five were killed. Nine died at Manitow Beach in Lemay County, and two at Homelock Lake. There were other deaths.

National Guard Out

National Guard units were called to guard property, establish communications and help the homeless in Michigan, Ohio, and Indiana.

Nonpartisan Chairman Asks Resignation of Dissenters

The chairman of the Nonpartisan Nominating Committee for School Board Candidate today called for the resignation of three committee members who split with the unit and proposed their own candidates.

Mrs. Frances Grafe told The Freeman that Mrs. Margaret Oberkirch Jr. and Mrs. Rudy Fimbach both of the Town of Esopus, and Reuben Gullian of Ulster Park, violated the by-laws of the committee in opposing the committee's selection of Abraham Streifer, Kingston attorney and member of the nonpartisan Committee since its inception, and Morton Kamen, local certified public accountant.

Meanwhile, there were these immediate developments today on the heels of the controversy which arose last week over the Nonpartisan Committee voting:

Streifer declined the nomination, but Kamen accepted.

The dissenting trio said they endorsed Ellsworth L. Johnson of 10 Kierstead Avenue, an advisory engineer at the IBM plant in Kingston, and Arthur H. Withall, presently serving as vice president of the Board of Education, whose five-year term as a board trustee expires this year. Johnson, reportedly was presented to the N-P Committee for consideration as a candidate.

Two trustees are to be elected in the May 4 election. David Kline, present president of the Board, whose term as trustee also expires this year said that he will not be a candidate for reelection.

The rift developed after a meeting of the Non-Partisan Nominating Committee last Wednesday, when Gullian, Mrs. (Continued on Page 6, Col. 4)

Harriman joined with friends of Roosevelt and members of his family for the ceremony held on the 20th anniversary of the wartime president's death.

VATICAN CITY (AP) — This week is a major one for three of the world's leading religions. The Christians are observing Holy Week. The Jews begin celebration of Passover on Friday. Moslems begin the Feast of the Sacrifice today.

Pope Paul VI led Roman Catholics into Holy Week Sunday, expressing concern for world peace. But he voiced faith that mankind's hope for peace may not be in vain.

North Viet Nam Fighting to End, Hanoi Paper Says

TOKYO (AP) — North Viet Nam has said "no" to President Johnson's offer of unconditional peace talks and derided his proposal for $1 billion in aid to Southeast Asia.

"We resolutely fight to the end, that is our answer," the official Hanoi newspaper Nhan Dan said in a 2,000-word editorial Sunday.

"If they want to continue the war, we will also continue to fight back."

The editorial said Johnson's aid proposal impressed no one but "a handful of traitors hankering after the milk and butter left unfinished by U.S. imperialism."

Nhan Dan said Johnson had demanded a peace settlement under which "the U.S. still stays in South Viet Nam and its puppet administration must be maintained."

"In other words, the so-called 'readiness to enter into unconditional discussions' expressed by Johnson is not other than readiness to enter into discussions on the condition that our people must lay down their weapons and submit themselves to the U.S., otherwise the U.S. keeps on using force to attain this goal."

However, the U.S. State Department did not view the editorial as an official rejection of Johnson's offers.

"North Viet Nam has not rejected anything," said Undersecretary of State George Ball in Washington.

Ball said the United States is looking for Hanoi's response to an appeal by 17 nonaligned nations for a start on peace talks without prior conditions.

Asked what the United States will do if the Hanoi government officially rejects Johnson's offer, Ball said: "We will continue what we

"I was very interested in your recent comments about communities in the Long Island area having a greater population than Kingston, who have for years, used a very successful system of combining paid firemen as drivers of equipment and depending upon volunteers to provide the manpower to man the equipment. Therefore, I would appreciate it, if your board would look into the various methods used by other communities of size to more fully utilize the services of our highly competent and well trained volunteer firemen."

"Perhaps you will find it is plausible to reduce the number of paid firemen in our department by making full use of the volunteer services in a more economical combination of paid and volunteer fire fighters. Thus it may be possible to reduce the personal services expenditures of (Continued on Page 8, Col. 3)

Roads Out And Power Crippled

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The nation counted 214 killed in a Palm Sunday tornado bombardment of six Midwestern states.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said 37 twisters injured thousands. Property damage estimates came to several millions.

While search of the debris from shattered homes continued today in some sections, Indiana counted 109 dead, Ohio 59, Michigan 36, Illinois 7 and Wisconsin 3. Iowa reported extensive damage but no deaths.

The rampant weather front spun the twisters through the Great Lakes and Ohio Valley diminished today as it spread into the East and Southeast.

Comparisons Made

Sunday's storms were deadlier than those the night of March 21-22, 1952 when twisters killed 208 in Arkansas, Missouri and Tennessee. The worst single day in terms of tornado death toll was in 1925 when a March 18 barrage of twisters took 689 lives in Missouri, Illinois and Indiana.

Indiana authorities had no estimate of the number of injured or the cost in property damage. There were three twister paths across the state's northern and central area. Power and communication failures hampered any assessment. Some highways were blocked by wreckage.

22 Towns Hit

At least 22 towns had fatalities. Dunlap, southeast of Elkhart, had many dead in a crushed and scattered trailer home community. One hundred houses were destroyed in Greentown near Kokomo. One hundred cottages were flattened at Koonitz Lake northwest of Knox. Lapaz and Wyatt near South Bend were lashed.

In Ohio, the metropolitan Toledo section took the hardest punches, with 13 deaths listed and searchers seeking other victims.

Red Cross Reports

The Red Cross reported 178 injured were admitted to hospitals.

Near Lima, in the Cairo-Bluffton area 12 were killed; 18 died in Loudon County near Cleveland. Gov. James A. Rhodes declared the tornado-strashed communities a disaster area. Fifty-three cars of a freight train were derailed by the wind south of Lima.

Michigan's southern section was ripped from Grand Rapids to Hillsdale County. Deaths occurred in widely scattered places. Five deaths and 100 injured were reported in the Grand Rapids area. Across the state near Hillsdale, five were killed. Nine died at Manitou Beach in Lenawee County, and two at Hemlock Lake. There were other deaths.

National Guard Out

National Guard units were called to guard property, establish communications and help the homeless in Michigan, Ohio, and Indiana.

Nonpartisan Chairman Asks Resignation of Dissenters

The chairman of the Nonpartisan Nominating Committee for School Board Candidate today called for the resignation of three committee members who split with the unit and proposed their own candidates.

Mrs. Frances Grafe told The Freeman that Mrs. Margaret Oberkirch Jr. and Mrs. Rudy Fimbach both of the Town of Saugerties, and Reuben Gullian of Ulster Park, violated the by-laws of the committee in opposing the committee's selection of Abraham Streifer, Kingston attorney and member of the nonpartisan Committee since its inception, and Morton Kamen, local certified public accountant.

Meanwhile, there were these immediate developments today on the heels of the controversy which arose last week over the Nonpartisan Committee voting:

Streifer declined the nomination, but Kamen accepted.

The dissenting trio said they endorsed Ellsworth L. Johnson of 10 Kierstead Avenue, an advisory engineer at the IBM plant in Kingston, and Arthur H. Withall, presently serving as vice president of the Board of Education, whose five-year term as a board trustee expires this year. Johnson, reportedly was presented to the N-P Committee for consideration as a candidate.

Two trustees are to be elected in the May 4 election. David Kline, present president of the Board, whose term as trustee also expires this year said that he will not be a candidate for reelection.

The rift developed after a meeting of the Non-Partisan Nominating Committee last Wednesday, when Gullian, Mrs. (Continued on Page 6, Col. 4)

INTENTIONAL CRASH?—This was the scene early April 10 after a twin-engine private plane skidded across a parking lot and slammed three cars into the wall of the Branding Iron Bar in Pittman, Nev., five miles from Las Vegas. The pilot, John Covarrubias, 39, was killed but only one customer in the crowded bar was seriously injured. Sheriff's deputies said Covarrubias quarreled with his ex-wife, Nellie, owner of the bar, and threatened to crash his plane into the building. (AP Wirephoto)

Crushed to Death By "Dirt" Cave-in

A 56-year-old Greene County man was crushed to death Saturday, when he and a machine he was operating in a dirt and gravel pit off River Road Extension, Town of Cossackie, were buried by a cave-in of partly frozen dirt.

Leeds State Police said Richard Ganter, of 73 Mansion Street, Cossackie, died of a fractured neck and crushed chest. He was pronounced dead by a physician from Greene County Memorial Hospital, Catskill.

According to an investigation by Senior BCI Investigator J. J. Buckley and Zone Sergeant C. C. Crommie, Green County Coroner Henry Millsbaugh, Catskill, gave a verdict of accidental death.

Troopers said Ganter was operating a caterpillar front loader machine, gathering top soil from the dirt and gravel pit and carting it about 75 feet to trucks.

Investigators said the upper level of the bank gave way and buried Ganter and the machine.

The tragedy was discovered at about 9:45 a. m. by Earl Rivenbergh, of Alsen when he drove a truck into the pit to get a load.

Troopers notified the victim's wife, Alida.

The accident occurred on the Green Bedell property.

Cossackie Man Hurt When Car Overturns

Joseph Samaloni, 71, of 87 Mansion Street, Cossackie, was injured at 4 p. m. Saturday when his car went out of control and overturned after hitting an embankment off Route 9W, Town of Athens.

Leeds State Police said Samaloni was driving north on the highway when the vehicle went across the road, hit a soft shoulder and overturned.

The injured man was taken to Greene County Memorial Hospital and treated for lacerations of the head and face and possible fractures of the ribs.

Fighting Grass Fire

While fighting a grass fire that burned close to his home Saturday, John Rolf, 60, of Clove Branch Road, Hopewell Junction, suffered a fatal heart attack. Rolf was employed at Vassar College as a chef.

Fishkill State Police said Rolf was burning brush in his back yard at about 2 p. m. when the fire burned out of control. His wife called the Hopewell Fire Co. and then joined him in an effort to quell the flames with brooms.

Troopers reported Rolf fell into the fire and was pulled to safety by Mrs. Rolf and a neighbor. An ambulance was summoned but Rolf was pronounced dead by a physician before medical aid could be administered.

Chickens Utilized

In N. M. Disease War

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — Chickens will be used as watchdogs against disease in a number of New Mexico communities this year.

The State Health Department will station sentinel flocks around the state to guard against outbreaks of encephalitis — the sleeping sickness which was blamed for 32 deaths in Houston, Tex. last year.

John W. Doll, insect control specialist with the department, said encephalitis shows up in fowl before appearing in humans.

The flocks will be located mainly in areas with large infestations of mosquitos, carriers of the disease.

Bank Teller Slain, One Arrest Made

PLATTSBURGH, N.Y. (AP) — State Police have arrested one man and expect to arrest others soon in the slaying of a bank teller during a $5,100 robbery of an Ellenburg Depot bank.

Albert J. Couture, 36, of Montreal, has been arraigned on a charge of first-degree murder in the shooting of Roy Dominy, 53, during the March 22 holdup at a branch of the National Commercial Bank and Trust Co.

He surrendered to State Police here Saturday night.

Clinton County Dist. Atty. Thomas R. North said the investigation of the robbery was "moving very, very fast," and troopers said arrests were expected within a few days.

North said Couture apparently was the driver of the getaway car. Dominy was shot when he threw a heavy tray of index cards at one gunman.

The robbers fled toward nearby Canada and their auto, stolen in Montreal, was found near Huntingdon, Que., March 23.

Seek Clues in Theft

Of Guns, Ammunition

PLATTSBURGH, N.Y. (AP) — Police pressed for clues today into the theft of two 20-millimeter anti-tank rifles and ammunition from a railway express office.

There was speculation that the weapons and ammunition — sent from Alexandria, Va., to a fictitious address in Plattsburgh — may have been meant for use by bank robbers or in a separatist movement in Quebec, Canada.

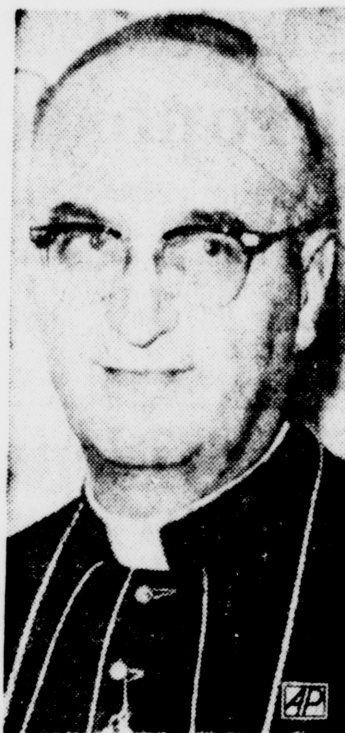

The police and state and federal agencies, however, have refused to discuss the case.

Plattsburgh is 21 miles from the Canadian border. Acts of terrorism have marked a movement to separate the predominantly French-speaking province of Quebec from the rest of Canada.

The weapons and ammunition were stolen from the Railway Express office Thursday morning when a rear door was pried open.

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Tax-paying industries cooperating in pollution control and parents of college students are the object of proposed federal tax-relief legislation.

Rep. Richard D. McCarthy (D-N.Y.), of Buffalo, said Sunday night that in two weeks he would offer in the House legislation to provide tax relief for the parents.

Tax incentives for industries that install water and air pollution control equipment will be proposed in a second bill, McCarthy said.

OLEAN, N.Y. (AP) — St. Bonaventure University students Sunday staged a four-mile "march of awareness" from their campus to downtown Olean.

The march was not primarily in support of civil rights, but an over-all display of the students' concern for human rights and dignity, said a spokesman.

Charged With Illegal Possession of Firearm

Highland State Police today arrested James Baldwin, 59, an employee on a Milton farm, on a charge of illegal possession of a firearm in violation of Section 1897 of the Penal Law.

Trooper Robert Whalen said Troopers Wallace Mahan and Edward Pulver went to the Sam Lafaro farm on Lattintown Road to pick up Baldwin on a warrant charging him with operating an unregistered vehicle. Whalen said the troopers found Baldwin had a .38 calibre unloaded revolver in his home.

Baldwin was slated for arraignment on both charges before Justice of the Peace Patrick Mataraza, Town of Marlboro.

The investigation was continued by BCI Investigator Roger Gardner.

FDR Dead 20 Years Today*Social Justice His Guiding Light, Had No Philosophy

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — In her autobiography, Eleanor Roosevelt said she once asked President Franklin D. Roosevelt, who died 20 years ago today, if he believed all he had been taught about religion.

Roosevelt, a warden of the Episcopal Church, replied: "I never really thought about it. I think it is just as well not to think about things like that too much."

And once, asked about his philosophy, he said: "Philosophy? I am a Christian and a Democrat — that's all." The two answers give an insight into the man and the mind.

He was not an intellectual. He could not think in abstract terms. He was not even a wide reader. His vision was limited and unorganized.

He didn't see the depression coming any more than President Herbert Hoover did. When it did come he had no plan for coping with it, as he showed by trying to outdo Hoover in promising economy.

Called In Intellectuals

But he had a far greater sense of action and of the power of the presidency than Hoover. And, because his mind was not frozen, he had brains enough to know he needed ideas. To help him, he called in intellectuals.

With their help and the needs of the country he patched the New Deal together, a bit at a time, and some of the bits were no good and had to be discarded.

Although he was president a little more than 12 years, the New Deal was finished in his first five, ending with enactment of the 40-hour work week in 1938. By then foreign troubles had become overpowering.

Roosevelt's foundation stone was his temperament. A warm man, with a concern for people, he was responsive to their needs and for the first time gave millions a sense of belonging. No wonder millions wept when he died.

Could Accept Change

His guiding light was a sense of social justice and, because he had no philosophy, he was flexible and could accept change.

He was aristocratic, which gave him a sense of ease, and rich enough to feel secure within himself. Out of both came his self-confidence. The flexibility and the self-confidence enabled him to welcome challenge.

These qualities, and his faith in his country, made him the greatest cement-mixer in American history. Inheriting a shattered country, his task as he saw it was to glue the pieces together, sometimes with fresh cement.

The New Deal has been called a revolution and it was, insofar as it broke with the callous American past by making, for the first time the government responsible for the general welfare.

Basically Conservative

But he was basically a conservative and so was his revolution which can be seen by looking no further than at those two other revolutions of his day, fascism and communism, which were then itching to take over the world.

Much that he did he played by ear, assuming it would be understood that if he didn't do the best right away he would when he could. Once, when he took a step which looked devious and he got a complaint, he said: "For heaven's sake, have some faith."

He looked upon the presidency primarily as a position of leadership, but was haunted by the feeling he had to prepare people for his next step, so much so that he once complained: "It's a terrible thing to look over your shoulder when you are trying to lead and find no one there."

Got Country Moving

As a result of this concern, he failed far too long to lead the country out of neutrality and isolation when the opposite might have changed the history of the world by discouraging Hitler and Japan.

He never quite whipped the depression — the war did that — but he got the country off its back in one of its most desperate hours, started it moving, gave it a new direction, provided inspired leadership in war, and launched the atomic age.

In 12 years he steered his country out of chaos and into leadership of the Western world. In 1956 Clinton Rossiter, in his book, "The American Presidency," said: "Roosevelt, I am sure, will never be ranked with Washington and Lincoln."

Six years later 75 historians were polled on all the presidents and put Roosevelt next after Lincoln and Washington as great ones.

why BEAUTYREST is better!

Ordinary Mattress

Beautyrest

Ordinary mattresses have about 300 wired together springs that sag down together under weight. Push one down and the others sag down too. Beautyrest is different. Over 800 springs are not wired together. They are separate—independent. Push one down and the others aren't affected.

Only Beautyrest has independent coils

Since independent Beautyrest springs are separate and independent each adjusts to your weight and gives firm, body-fitting comfort. No sag—no curved spine. In a Beautyrest double bed there are "his" springs and "her" springs—those in between are not affected. Result: single bed comfort in a double bed. No sag—no rolling together.

Another comforting thought. Beautyrest lasts longer—outlasts other mattresses by 3 to 1 according to rigid tests by the Nationwide Consumer Testing Institute. Costs only a penny more per night than so called "Bargains."

TIME FOR LEISURE

It looks as though the time may be coming when anyone who wants to write a novel, compose a symphony or paint a picture will have the opportunity, thanks to automation. This is suggested, in effect, by Mrs. Alice M. Hilton, author of several books on men and machines.

Mrs. Hilton believes that we should look on the computer as a friend, rather than as a job-robbing bugaboo. For the first time in history, she notes man is going to be able to feed and clothe himself with time left over for spiritual enrichment and creativity. While sustaining life will naturally continue to be his primary goal, enriching it will be his great opportunity.

How to live with new leisure, which some already are experiencing in large degree, does offer a challenge to the old ways. More time to ourselves is good only if we use it well. We should begin now to develop the facilities and talents for our leisure careers.

If we aim to commune with nature we must preserve our wildernesses. Future mass travel will require the roadways and airports to support it. We must meet the challenge both nationally and personally. There are songs to be sung, books to be read, inventions to be thought of, beauty to be admired. However you conceive your leisure, there will be opportunity for it.

Perhaps under automation the centuries can meet. Perhaps the speed and efficiency of today's machines can provide the time for the things of yesterday that we nostalgically miss and the ideas for a tomorrow that we hope to develop. It is a dream, but perhaps a dream not beyond reach.

MILESTONE: 70 MILLION

For the first time, the number of Americans with jobs has passed the 70 million mark. This is an occasion for modest congratulations, but only of the sort a traveler permits himself as he passes a milestone with a long ways still to go.

One measure of how far we have yet to travel on the road to ideal economic conditions is that some 3,740,000 Americans who want to work do not have jobs. In the light of that disturbing fact, and even though the jobless rate has declined to 4.7 per cent after seven years of almost constantly being 5 per cent or higher, 70 million jobs is plainly not yet enough.

The House of Representatives took dramatic note of this when it passed, by a vote of 392 to 0, a bill to expand and improve the Manpower Training and Development Act. A vigorous, sustained effort to train or retrain those who now swell the unemployment total is of the utmost importance.

Such a training program alone is not enough to turn the trick, however. It must be remembered that our present unemployment rate persists in the face of a prolonged maintenance of a high economic level. The obvious conclusion is that there needs to be even swifter expansion of the number of jobs available for those newly qualified to handle them. Seventy million jobs, in a swiftly rising population, is only a marker on the way to a much higher peak.

WHO IS 'THEY' MR. LBJ?

"They have a system where they pay it to the President with the left hand and take it out with the right," said President Johnson as he revealed that he had to borrow money to pay his income tax.

Rep. Charles A. Halleck commented that he had the same problem. "If we don't watch out," said the Indiana Republican, "the government will take everything we have, even our allowances."

All of which may cause plenty million nonelect taxpayers to wonder, just who do they think "they" are, anyway?

FINANCIAL PRESSURE

Alabama's chickens may be coming home to roost. The Childs Securities Company of New York, an investment banking house, has served notice that it will no longer buy or sell bonds issued by Alabama or any of its political subdivisions.

The state's credit is questioned, the company says in a letter to Governor Wallace,

'These Days'

THE RUSSIAN STAKE IN DAWDLING

The Foreign Minister of Ruritania was in another of his skeptical moods. "You Americans," he said, "think that things always have to be settled. But why should anything ever be settled when it is to the interest of big countries to keep things in a state of flux?"

"There's this idea that there's got to be a parley on the South Vietnamese situation, for instance. Well, I won't say there never will be negotiations; the North Vietnamese may decide that the loss of their industrial investments in and around Hanoi is too big a price to pay for continued warfare. But this doesn't mean that Moscow wants the war in Vietnam to end."

"Look at it this way. If the United States were to get its way in a South Vietnamese peace, it would be a prime defeat for Marxist propaganda that wars of 'liberation' must be fought to a successful conclusion. But if the Red Chinese were to dominate the outcome of a parley, it would mean that Peking would be in fair shape to take over the dominant role in the world revolution. The most satisfactory solution of the Russians' problem in this matter of retaining its pretensions to leadership in the 'liberation' racket is, paradoxically, to keep things dawdling along in Southeast Asia."

"This presents some most ticklish problems to Moscow. But one way of forcing Lyndon Johnson to pause a bit in 'escalating' the war in Southeast Asia to the point of forcing a parley on Hanoi and Peking is to warn him that there is another front in the Cold War. This front is symbolized by West Berlin. You've just been treated to some more blockade troubles along the autobahn leading from West Germany across East German territory to Berlin. The Soviets put it out that the closing of the highway—the first shut down in sixteen years—was a reprisal against the scheduled meeting of the West German Bundstag in the old German capital. But, as your J. P. Morgan used to say, there are always two reasons for an action, the good one, i.e., the plausible—reason and the real reason. I take it that the action at the autobahn, and the buzzing activities in the air corridors over the autobahn, had their relation to the situation in Southeast Asia."

"What you Americans must realize is that Moscow is, for the time being, committed to proving the validity of the old French saying that 'nothing endures like the provisional.' It has never wanted the Red Chinese to win a thumping victory in the eastern colonial and ex-colonial areas of the world. When Mao Tse-tung threatened to defeat India, the Soviets threw their weight to the side of the late Pandit Nehru, giving him some military aid and providing him with hopes for a steel mill. On his visit to Hanoi, Kossygin promised the North Vietnamese some help. But it was apparently purely defensive help in the form of anti-aircraft weapons and fighter planes."

"Your Lyndon Johnson could, of course, cross the Russians up by a real escalation of the war in Southeast Asia. For if the Red Chinese had to sue for peace to save their buffer areas in North Vietnam and Laos, Moscow would be made to seem cowardly in the eyes of nations like Nasser's Egypt and Castro's Cuba for its failure to come to the aid of its Communist brothers. On the other hand, if Lyndon Johnson were to pull out of South Vietnam, turning the area over to Red Chinese stooges, it would hurt Moscow by presenting Peking with an unchallenged leadership of the world revolution."

"You see," said the Foreign Minister of Ruritania, "why Moscow should want to divert Washington into turning its eyes toward West Berlin. But I'll stick my neck out and say Moscow doesn't want any real trouble there either. Don't expect anything too critical to happen anywhere unless Peking or Washington itself wants it to happen. The Russians, don't forget, have an agricultural crisis coming up. They are negotiating in the Argentine for wheat. They don't want real war anywhere. Nor do they want peace anywhere on terms that will help either the United States or Red China. They just want to keep everybody bleeding until Russians from Kiev to Vladivostok are eating again."

Celiac Disease Victims Must Avoid Malt Foods

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

In a recent column on celiac disease I stated that the victim should not be given any food that contains even traces of cereals that have gluten as a component. One mother writes that her 21-year-old son has celiac disease and is on a gluten-free diet. She was not aware until she read my column on this subject that she should not give him anything with malt in it and she would like an explanation.

In addition to wheat, gluten is found in barley and rye. Malt may be made from wheat, barley or other grains. Since the source of malt is not stated on the labels of products that contain malt, all malt products should be avoided by her son. Oats contain no chemically detectable gluten but persons with celiac disease who eat oats may get the same harmful results achieved by eating foods known to contain gluten.

Corn, rice and soy contain no gluten and are generally safe, especially if the labels proclaim them to be gluten-free. Other corn, rice and soy products are harmful only insofar as they are combined with or contaminated by other cereals that contain gluten.

One of the items I said should be avoided was ice cream because it sometimes contains a starch filler. I have now been informed by reliable sources that such fillers are not currently used in making commercial ice cream. Thus ice cream may be safely eaten by those who have celiac diseases as well as those who are allergic to wheat.

This points up a difficulty that has long plagued allergists and nutritionists. In the modern manufacture of many of our foods, even though the components are listed on the label, we don't always know what is in them. For example, a label that says starch is present leaves us in the dark as to the exact source of the starch. Likewise the sugar listed may be cane sugar or beet sugar. This is an important distinction to the few unfortunate persons with allergies to one or the other.

Q—Is it a good idea to say to a child when he leaves the table, "Come back and clean up your plate?"
A—Junior may leave food to get your attention. Furthermore, nagging may turn mealtime into a minor nightmare or turn the child against certain foods he might otherwise learn to enjoy. The best policy is to let him go without any fuss but be firm about denying dessert or between-meal snacks.

because of his administration's failure "to protect the citizens of Alabama in their exercise of constitutional rights." It cites also the governor's statement that Alabama did not have sufficient funds to protect the Selma-to-Montgomery march.

If this sort of action occurs often, the advocates of civil rights may gain new allies in Alabama. The question arises, however, as to how much influence leading citizens and businesses have in the state. This may be put to the test as they begin to react to the handwriting they read on the wall.

Washington News

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Hanoi is using the same guerrilla tactics in the air as on the ground.

Instead of an all-out battle to break up a U. S. bombing attack, a few of the Red planes come from cover, pick off one or two of ours, then dart to safety.

This tactic, of course, is not unusual in air battles.

The necessary U. S. shifts to meet these tactics are clear:

One—There will be additional drilling of pilots going on North Viet Nam raids on "alertness in the air" and on MIG 15 and 17 characteristics. Some pilots have discounted the MIGs because of U. S. plane "superiority."

Two—There's need for powerful surveillance radar on the spot to catch hit-and-run attackers before they arrive.

Ground-based radar in South Viet Nam is too distant to be useful in these near-Hanoi northern raids.

One partial solution: Send EC-121s Warning Stars to Viet Nam. This radar pocket version of the Super Constellation has a range of 6,500 miles, flies at 300 miles an hour and carries six tons of electronic equipment.

The EC-121s could circle over the ocean off North Viet Nam or over Laos close to the North Viet Nam border. They're highly vulnerable, so would require a great deal of protection themselves.

The ideal military solution to the hit-and-run problem would be to bomb the Hanoi airfields when parked full with MIGs.

If this strategy isn't O.K.'d for political reasons, a logical tactic would be to deploy McDonnell F-4C Phantoms near the Hanoi airfields (or other key fields) during all far-north bombing raids. When the EC-121 radar planes "sighted" MIGs taking off, the F-4Cs could hopefully catch these Red planes before they got very far.

Otherwise, Air Force pilots say, it's difficult to stop hit-and-run raiding on cloudy, hazy days, especially when enemy fighters are controlled by efficient ground radar.

Three—There'll be more fighter protection for F-105 fighter bombers when they're used as bombers. There's a strong feeling among some pilots for the F-4C.

The fighter protection will be better placed. In the future, for example, there'll be a protecting layer of fighters above any cloud formations that could provide enemy cover.

When the F-105s were hit, they were loaded with bombs and circling for their bombing runs at only 375 knots. They and their fighter protection were both below major cloud formations in which the MIGs hid.

Loaded with bombs as the F-105s were on this mission they're unwieldy against fighters. They can't count on jettisoning their bomb loads fast enough to handle fighters diving on their tails out of a cloud bank.

If MIG 15s and 17s can thus catch our fighter-bombers maneuvering slowly and low for a bombing run, even these obsolete planes can dive fast enough to be effective on hit-and-run raids.

Government Queries About Jobs and Discrimination

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Discrimination is being widely condemned nowadays. Yet the Federal government itself engages in a certain type of discrimination when it insists on knowing the number of Negroes employed by contractors doing government work but does not ask for information which might reveal whether any other form of racial or religious discrimination in employment is being practiced.

When a contractor for example, performs street-improvement work which is subsidized by the Federal government, it is necessary for the contractor to submit a weekly payroll form which not only itemizes the total number of his employees separated into categories of the skilled, semi-skilled and unskilled, but also has a special column to show how many of the total in each group are Negroes.

An executive order issued on March 6, 1961, and subsequently amended by the Democratic Administration here, requires the contractor to agree that he "will not discriminate against any employee or applicant for employment because of race, creed, color or national origin."

The Federal government does not, however, require any report on how many Catholics, Protestants or Jewish persons are employed, nor does it ask the "national origin" of employees—that is, whether they are Italians, Greeks, English, French, Mexicans, Africans or Asians.

The purpose of the governmental forms is to prevent discrimination, but the Federal government seems to be concerned only with discrimination involving Negroes. A contractor in a Western state—whose personnel changes from time to time because of the nature of his work—writes to this correspondent as follows:

"You will notice that, in addition to the number of employees, the form requires that the number of Negroes employed must also be reported. This appears to us to be a most flagrantly discriminatory type of inquiry for our government to make at a time when discrimination is to be punished. Aren't American Indians, Chinese and all other races now being discriminated against by our government because these people are not included in the reporting requirement? It is difficult to believe that thinking Negroes would want to be singled out in this way as the only people named on a government questionnaire."

"We are a small organization and we have employed Negro men in past years who have done excellent work and were a credit to our firm. But when several of these payroll forms were submitted last summer we did not happen to have any Negro employees to report. By our answer to this inquiry in the negative, we naturally are concerned about its effect on government personnel and how it will in turn affect our relationship with the government in the future."

The government has not drawn up its report forms to ascertain whether competent employees applied for the jobs and whether a sincere effort was made to hire persons of different races or nationalities. The form simply asks the total number and how many are Negroes. If there is a suspicion that the percentage of Negroes is too small, the government, of course, can make this a basis for refusing to renew a contract or to do business with the firm in the future.

Naturally, when there are complaints about discrimination on grounds other than race, the government looks into the matter. But the chief concern of many contractors today is whether, when seeking to do work on any project in which government funds are used, they will be granted or denied contracts on the basis of how many Negro employees are actually on their payrolls.

Although the government of the United States now requires lists to be prepared on the basis of white or Negro employees, only last autumn the Supreme Court of the United States struck down as unconstitutional certain laws of the State of Virginia requiring a listing of race on voting, polltax and real estate assessment lists. In some areas, race is not shown on the records of those attending public schools or employed in local government offices, as it is felt that any listing which includes race would in itself be a discriminatory practice.

So it is surprising to see the Federal government requiring contractors to classify their employees by race when they seek government contracts. Incidentally, if a contractor decides that, in order to make sure he will get a government contract, he must have more employees of a certain race or group and limits his hiring to that group, or dismisses some of his present employees to make room for them, there is no way to fix legal responsibility on those officials in the Federal government who have indirectly caused such a discrimination to take place.

TIME FOR LEISURE

It looks as though the time may be coming when anyone who wants to write a novel, compose a symphony or paint a picture will have the opportunity, thanks to automation. This is suggested, in effect, by Mrs. Alice M. Hilton, author of several books on men and machines.

Mrs. Hilton believes that we should look on the computer as a friend, rather than as a job-robbing bugaboo. For the first time in history, she notes man is going to be able to feed and clothe himself with time left over for spiritual enrichment and creativity. While sustaining life will naturally continue to be his primary goal, enriching it will be his great opportunity.

How to live with new leisure, which some already are experiencing in large degree, does offer a challenge to the old ways. More time to ourselves is good only if we use it well. We should begin now to develop the facilities and talents for our leisure careers.

If we aim to commune with nature we must preserve our wildernesses. Future mass travel will require the roadways and airports to support it. We must meet the challenge both nationally and personally. There are songs to be sung, books to be read, inventions to be thought of, beauty to be admired. However you conceive your leisure, there will be opportunity for it.

Perhaps under automation the centuries can meet. Perhaps the speed and efficiency of today's machines can provide the time for the things of yesterday that we nostalgically miss and the ideas for a tomorrow that we hope to develop. It is a dream, but perhaps a dream not beyond reach.

MILESTONE: 70 MILLION

For the first time, the number of Americans with jobs has passed the 70 million mark. This is an occasion for modest congratulations, but only of the sort a traveler permits himself as he passes a milestone with a long ways still to go.

One measure of how far we have yet to travel on the road to ideal economic conditions is that some 3,740,000 Americans who want to work do not have jobs. In the light of that disturbing fact, and even though the jobless rate has declined to 4.7 per cent after seven years of almost constantly being 5 per cent or higher, 70 million jobs is plainly not yet enough.

The House of Representatives took dramatic note of this when it passed, by a vote of 392 to 0, a bill to expand and improve the Manpower Training and Development Act. A vigorous, sustained effort to train or retrain those who now swell the unemployment total is of the utmost importance.

Such a training program alone is not enough to turn the trick, however. It must be remembered that our present unemployment rate persists in the face of a prolonged maintenance of a high economic level. The obvious conclusion is that there needs to be even swifter expansion of the number of jobs available for those newly qualified to handle them. Seventy million jobs, in a swiftly rising population, is only a marker on the way to a much higher peak.

WHO IS 'THEY' MR. LBJ?

"They have a system where they pay it to the President with the left hand and take it out with the right," said President Johnson as he revealed that he had to borrow money to pay his income tax.

Rep. Charles A. Halleck commented that he had the same problem. "If we don't watch out," said the Indiana Republican, "the government will take everything we have, even our allowances."

All of which may cause plenty million nonelected taxpayers to wonder, just who do they think "they" are, anyway?

THE RUSSIAN STAKE IN DAWDLING

The Foreign Minister of Ruritania was in another of his skeptical moods. "You Americans," he said, "think that things always have to be settled. But why should anything ever be settled when it is to the interest of big countries to keep things in a state of flux?"

"There's this idea that there's got to be a parley on the South Vietnamese situation, for instance. Well, I won't say there never will be negotiations; the North Vietnamese may decide that the loss of their industrial investments in and around Hanoi is too big a price to pay for continued warfare. But this doesn't mean that Moscow wants the war in Vietnam to end."

"Look at it this way. If the United States were to get its way in a South Vietnamese peace, it would be a prime defeat for Marxist propaganda that wars of 'liberation' must be fought to a successful conclusion. But if the Red Chinese were to dominate the outcome of a parley, it would mean that Peking would be in fair shape to take over the dominant role in the world revolution. The most satisfactory solution of the Russians' problem in this matter of retaining its pretensions to leadership in the 'liberation' racket is, paradoxically, to keep things dawdling along in Southeast Asia."

"This presents some most ticklish problems to Moscow. But one way of forcing Lyndon Johnson to pause a bit in 'escalating' the war in Southeast Asia to the point of forcing a parley on Hanoi and Peking is to warn him that there is another front in the Cold War. This front is symbolized by West Berlin. You've just been treated to some more blockade troubles along the autobahn leading from West Germany across East German territory to Berlin. The Soviets put it out that the closing of the highway—the first shut down in sixteen years—was a reprisal against the scheduled meeting of the West German Bundestag in the old German capital. But, as your J. P. Morgan used to say, there are always two reasons for an action, the good—i.e., the plausible—reason and the real reason. I take it that the action at the autobahn, and the buzzing activities in the air corridors over the autobahn, had their relation to the situation in Southeast Asia."

"What you Americans must realize is that Moscow is, for the time being, committed to proving the validity of the old French saying that 'nothing endures like the provisional.' It has never wanted the Red Chinese to win a thumping victory in the eastern colonial and ex-colonial areas of the world. When Mao Tse-tung threatened to defeat India, the Soviets threw their weight to the side of the late Pandit Nehru, giving him some military aid and providing him with hopes for a steel mill. On his visit to Hanoi, Kossygin promised the North Vietnamese some help. But it was apparently purely defensive help in the form of anti-aircraft weapons and fighter planes."

"Your Lyndon Johnson could, of course, cross the Russians up by a real escalation of the war in Southeast Asia. For if the Red Chinese had to sue for peace to save their buffer areas in North Vietnam and Laos, Moscow would be made to seem cowardly in the eyes of nations like Nasser's Egypt and Castro's Cuba for its failure to come to the aid of its Communist brothers. On the other hand, if Lyndon Johnson were to pull out of South Vietnam, turning the area over to Red Chinese stooges, it would hurt Moscow by presenting Peking with an unchallenged leadership of the world revolution."

"You see," said the Foreign Minister of Ruritania, "why Moscow should want to divert Washington into turning its eyes toward West Berlin. But I'll stick my neck out and say Moscow doesn't want any real trouble there, either. Don't expect anything too critical to happen anywhere unless Peking or Washington itself wants it to happen. The Russians, don't forget, have an agricultural crisis coming up. They are negotiating in the Argentine for wheat. They don't want real war anywhere. Nor do they want peace anywhere on terms that will help either the United States or Red China. They just want to keep everybody bleeding until Russians from Kiev to Vladivostok are eating again."

Celiac Disease Victims Must Avoid Malt Foods

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

In a recent column on celiac disease I stated that the victim should not be given any food that contains even traces of cereals that have gluten as a component. One mother writes that her 2½-year-old son has celiac disease and is on a gluten-free diet. She was not aware until she read my column on this subject that she should not give him anything with malt in it and she would like an explanation.

In addition to wheat, gluten is found in barley and rye. Malt may be made from wheat, barley or other grains. Since the source of malt is not stated on the labels of products that contain malt, all malt products should be avoided by her son. Oats contain no chemically detectable gluten but persons with celiac disease who eat oats may get the same harmful results achieved by eating foods known to contain gluten.

Corn, rice and soy contain no gluten and are generally safe, especially if the labels proclaim them to be gluten-free. Other corn, rice and soy products are harmful only insofar as they are combined with or contaminated by other cereals that contain gluten.

One of the items I said should be avoided was ice cream because it sometimes contains a starch filler. I have now been informed by reliable sources that such fillers are not currently used in making commercial ice cream. This ice cream may be safely eaten by those who have celiac diseases as well as those who are allergic to wheat.

This points up a difficulty that has long plagued allergists and nutritionists. In the modern manufacture of many of our foods, even though the components are listed on the label, we don't always know what is in them. For example a label that says starch is present leaves us in the dark as to the exact source of the starch. Likewise the sugar listed may be cane sugar or beet sugar. This is an important distinction to the few unfortunate persons with allergies to one or the other.

Q—Is it a good idea to say to a child when he leaves the table, "Come back and clean up your plate?"
A—Junior may leave food to get your attention. Furthermore, nagging may turn mealtime into a minor nightmare or turn the child against certain foods he might otherwise learn to enjoy. The best policy is to let him go without any fuss but be firm about denying dessert or between-meal snacks.

because of his administration's failure "to protect the citizens of Alabama in their exercise of constitutional rights." It cites also the governor's statement that Alabama did not have sufficient funds to protect the Selma-to-Montgomery march.

If this sort of action occurs often, the advocates of civil rights may gain new allies in Alabama. The question arises, however, as to how much influence leading citizens and businesses have in the state. This may be put to the test as they begin to react to the handwriting they read on the wall.

Washington News

BY RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Hanoi is using the same guerrilla tactics in the air as on the ground.

Instead of an all-out battle to break up a U. S. bombing attack, a few of the Red planes come from cover, pick off one or two of ours, then dart to safety.

This tactic, of course, is not unusual in air battles.

The necessary U. S. shifts to meet these tactics are clear:

One—There will be additional drilling of pilots going on North Viet Nam raids on "alertness in the air" and on MIG 15 and 17 characteristics. Some pilots have discounted the MIGs because of U. S. plane "superiority."

Two—There's need for powerful surveillance radar on the spot to catch hit-and-run attackers before they arrive.

Ground-based radar in South Viet Nam is too distant to be useful in these near-Hanoi northern raids.

One partial solution: Send EC-121s Warning Stars to Viet Nam. This radar pocket version of the Super Constellation has a range of 6,500 miles, flies at 300 miles an hour and carries six tons of electronic equipment.

The EC-121s could circle over the ocean off North Viet Nam or over Laos close to the North Viet Nam border. They're highly vulnerable, so would require a great deal of protection themselves.

When the F-105s were hit, they were loaded with bombs and circling for their bombing runs at only 375 knots. They and their fighter protection were both below major cloud formations in which the MIGs hid.

Loaded with bombs as the F-105s were on this mission they're unwieldy against fighters. They can't count on jettisoning their bomb loads fast enough to handle fighters diving on their tails out of a cloud bank.

If MIG 15s and 17s can thus catch our fighter-bombers maneuvering slowly and low for a bombing run, even these obsolete planes can dive fast enough to be effective on hit-and-run raids.

A health board report noted a local milk shortage.

The ideal military solution to the hit-and-run problem would be to bomb the Hanoi airfields when parked full with MIGs.

If this strategy isn't O.K.'d for political reasons, a logical tactic would be to deploy McDonnell F-4C Phantom near the Hanoi airfields (or other key fields) during all far-north bombing raids. When the EC-121 radar planes "sighted" MIGs taking off, the F-4Cs could hopefully catch these Red planes before they got very far.

Otherwise, Air Force pilots say, it's difficult to stop hit-and-run raiding on cloudy, hazy days, especially when enemy fighters are controlled by efficient ground radar.

Three—There'll be more fighter protection for F-105 fighter bombers when they're used as bombers. There's a strong feeling among some pilots for the F-4C. The fighter protection will be better placed. In the future, for example, there'll be a protecting layer of fighters above any cloud formations that could provide enemy cover.

Denise put one arm around the nurse's neck. "I will walk home," she whispered. "If you will let me." The blonde nurse patted the two-year-old posterior. "Not today, little doll," she said. She wears aluminum braces from ankles to hips. She will never walk, as other children walk. She was born with one arm, and no thigh bones. No one knows why. She ran out of luck the day she was born.

Denise took the hand of her mother, and the braces kept the legs stiff enough for a few painful steps out of the physiotherapy room of Variety Children's Hospital in Miami, Florida. It is ironic that this institution, sitting in the middle of the rich gold coast, goes into debt $700,000 every year.

Why? Because the poor do not have to pay anything. Around it are the lush archaic mansions of Coral Gables, the skyscrapers of Miami, and the millionaires who soak sun on the beach. Variety Children's Hospital is rich in children, poor in money. The assistant administrator states the case succinctly: "We owe everybody."

The premature baby in the glass incubator looks like a discarded doll. She weighed less than four pounds when she was born this morning. The doctors sensed that something was wrong with her heart. She was two hours old when she underwent her first major operation. It was open-heart surgery. Was she worth all the time, all the talent, at no fee? The doctors say she was.

Government Queries About Jobs and Discrimination

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Discrimination is being widely condemned nowadays. Yet the Federal government itself engages in a certain type of discrimination when it insists on knowing the number of Negroes employed by contractors doing government work but does not ask for information which might reveal whether any other form of racial or religious discrimination in employment is being practiced.

When a contractor for example, performs street-improvement work which is subsidized by the Federal government, it is necessary for the contractor to submit a weekly payroll form which not only itemizes the total number of his employees separated into categories of the skilled, semi-skilled and unskilled, but also has a special column to show how many of the total in each group are Negroes.

An executive order issued on March 6, 1961, and subsequently amended by the Democratic Administration here, requires the contractor to agree that he "will not discriminate against any employee or applicant for employment because of race, creed, color or national origin."

The Federal government does not, however, require any report on how many Catholics, Protestants or Jewish persons are employed, nor does it ask the "national origin" of employees—that is, whether they are Italians, Greeks, English, French, Mexicans, Africans or Asians.

The purpose of the governmental forms is to prevent discrimination, but the Federal government seems to be concerned only with discrimination involving Negroes. A contractor in a Western state—whose personnel changes from time to time because of the nature of his work—writes to this correspondent as follows:

"You will notice that, in addition to the number of employees, the form requires that the number of Negroes employed must also be reported. This appears to us to be a most flagrantly discriminatory type of inquiry for our government to make at a time when discrimination against Negroes is being punished. Aren't American Indians, Chinese and all other races now being discriminated against by our government because these people are not included in the reporting requirement? It is difficult to believe that thinking Negroes would want to be singled out in the way as the only people named on a government questionnaire."

"We are a small organization and we have employed Negro men in past years who have done excellent work and were a credit to our firm. But when several of these payroll forms were submitted last summer we did not happen to have any Negro employees to report. By our answer to this inquiry in the negative, we naturally are concerned about its effect on government personnel and how it will in turn affect our relationship with the government in the future."

The government has not drawn up its report forms to ascertain whether competent employees applied for the jobs and whether a sincere effort was made to hire persons of different races or nationalities. The form simply asks the total number and how many are Negroes. If there is a suspicion that the percentage of Negroes is too small, the government, of course, can make this a basis for refusing to renew a contract or to do business with the firm in the future.

Naturally, when there are complaints about discrimination on grounds other than race, the government looks into the matter. But the chief concern of many contractors today is whether, when seeking to do work on any project in which government funds are used, they will be granted or denied contracts on the basis of how many Negro employees are actually on their payrolls.

Although the government of the United States now requires lists to be prepared on the basis of white or Negro employees, only last autumn the Supreme Court of the United States struck down as unconstitutional certain laws of the State of Virginia requiring a listing of race on voting, polltax and real estate assessment lists. In some areas, race is not shown on the records of those attending public schools or employed in local government offices, and it is felt that any listing which includes race would in itself be a discriminatory practice.

So it is surprising to see the Federal government requiring contractors to classify their employees by race when they seek government contracts. Incidentally, if a contractor decides that, in order to make sure he will get a government contract, he must have more employees of a certain race or group and limits his hiring to that group, or dismisses some of his present employees to make room for them, there is no way to fix legal responsibility on those officials in the Federal government who have indirectly caused such a discrimination to take place.

Scout Leaders, Others Invited To 'Show-An-Do'

Boy Scout Leaders, Troop Committee members, Commissioners and Scout Dads from all districts of the Rip Van Winkle Council have been invited to participate in the 2nd annual Council sponsored Scout Leaders "Show-An-Do" training program to be held Saturday May 8 at Camp Tri-Mount Scout Reservation in East Jewett.

The purpose of the all-day training session is to aid all scouters in providing their scouts with a top quality Troop Program of Scouting skills and know-how.

Council Leadership Training Chairman Donald Crout of West Hurley has announced that Robert C. Tremper of Ulster Park will serve as chairman of the 1965 edition of this popular and unique training program. Assisting Tremper will be an outstanding faculty including Kenneth Magyar, Saugerties; Harold Harrison, Sherwood Lasher, Kingston; John Carlson Saugerties; Fred Sutter, New Paltz and many other seasoned Scouters from various sections of the Council area.

The "Show-An-Do" training event will get under way at 9:30 a. m. with registration and the assignment of course members to patrol groups.

Following a brief opening assembly period, during which the group will be welcomed by Council Scouting Officials, the patrol groups will go to assigned "stations" on the "Show-An-Do Trail," where they will witness expert demonstrations of Scouting outdoor skills. After each demonstration the course members will try the skills themselves so that they will be able to pass it along to their scouts in the future.

Among the Scouting skills to be demonstrated and practiced will be rope making, realistic first aid, compass, signalling, cooking, axmanship, etc.

During the afternoon period a Show-An-Do Rally will be held featuring competitive events in the scouting outdoor skills demonstrated earlier in the day. A cook-out highlighting the techniques of foil cookery, will be held at 5 p. m.

The all day Show-An-Do training program will conclude in the evening with a campfire program under the direction of Fred Sutter of New Paltz.

Reservations for participation in the 1965 Rip Van Winkle Council Boy Scout Leader's Show-An-Do may be made by contacting the Council Service Center at 260 Fair Street.

Program Is Geared To Boost Tourism

Plans to bolster the resort business in Ulster County were announced today by Clarence C. Raichle, chairman of the publicity committee of the Board of Supervisors. Raichle said brochures and folders were in readiness, and are being mailed out to various distribution points. He indicated that Frank A. Byer, executive director for the publicity committee, plans and handles this phase of work within the framework of the county budget.

"In addition to the regular seasonal mailings," Raichle said, Byer and Michael Starkman, of Valley Advertising, working with Byer, have developed a promotion to help summer vacation and tourist business. The participation program, so-called because the costs are split between the business operator and the county is completely voluntary and could be a good thing if resort business people join up. Although directly involving these businesses," Raichle continued, "it is clear that the whole county stands to gain when more business is brought into the area."

Information on this new phase will be mailed shortly, Byer explained. The mailing will describe how an operator gets the benefit of prominent advertising at low cost—because the county pays part. It worked for the first time during the past ski season, and should get better and better if vacation places co-operate.

Starkman who is working with Byer and coordinating the program explained that competition with other areas, American and foreign, makes such participation imperative. Within the framework of a limited county budget such a program can do much good—and better than the same amount of dollars spent individually. He further said that, "this is a 'plus-program' for the individual; our literature explains that the individual operator should continue to do as he wishes on his own. A few extra dollars spent on the county program—where the county spends part—will do much to bring in more business."

According to Raichle, Byer and Starkman, "All parts of the county will be brought into the program, and establishments of various sizes may join—the large and prosperous name establishment as well as the budget marginal operator. Regardless of rate charged for a vacation, or type clientele catered to all are invited, all will benefit," they said.

Complete Fiscal Exams
ALBANY—State Comptroller Arthur Levitt today announced the completion of the examination of fiscal affairs of a number of towns, villages, schools in District 6, Hurley and 8, Gardiner, and other special districts throughout the state. Copies of the examination reports have been sent to the clerk and other officials of the units of government examined. Since the reports are a part of the public record, they are available for review by interested citizens. A copy of each of the reports is also on file at the Department of Audit and Control in Albany and is available for public inspection.

I am still going through the collection of items loaned to me recently. Most of them are earlier than the Civil War years. One little booklet is a Thanks-giving Discourse delivered in the Presbyterian Church of Rondout, Nov. 30, 1854 by the Rev. B. T. Phillips, pastor of the church. This brochure was published by J. P. Hageman, printer in Rondout, 1854 for "The Benefits of Foreign Immigration."

The Rev. B. T. Phillips said at the Presbyterian Church in Rondout, Nov. 30, 1854 in part: "Every vessel that lands upon our coast, no matter where it comes from, bears its living freight of humanity, to mingle its blood of our young and vigorous Republic—300,000 has, since 1850, set steadily upon our shores, and of these, nine tenths land upon the wharves of the city of New York. Between the years 1840 and 1850, 1,569,550 foreigners arrived in the United States." This was from the census of 1850, he added. It was such a sweeping exodus, that many hamlets in the old world had almost been depopulated. He also mentioned since 1847, many came from Ireland because of the famine there, and the next year because of the revolution in Europe.

Nov. 30, 1854 at the Rondout Presbyterian Church on the benefits of foreign immigration. He mentions the pioneer Germans who went to Texas, and the Norwegians in Wisconsin. In 1850 some land remained unsold and unappropriated like 1,400,000,000 acres. He also spoke about the wisdom of the Delaware and Hudson Canal. "How could they have carried out their plans without the aid of foreign labor? Where were the native born citizens to be found, to burrow through these mountains, and form the highway for the transmission of the mineral wealth of Pennsylvania to our wharves, and thence to the great metropolis to be distributed among the houses and factories of the land, and furnish fuel (coal) for the steamships employed in our foreign and inland navigation. And now that the work has been completed, men are needed for the menial labor in handling the anthracite diamonds, where necessary. The Irish and German laborers performed these labors with great physical endurance, he wrote. He then mentioned the "foreigners" like La Fayette, Rochambeau, from France who helped in this country during the Revolution. Kosciuszko, Pulaski and Baron Steuben, and Montgomery, Witherspoon and others. He also mentions the "accursed rum traffic which transforms the foreigner into a demon... with a grog shop at every turn, and liquor worse and cheaper than he ever saw it, and more money to buy it than he ever had before..." Every generation has its problems, then a century ago in 1854, as even to day in 1965. In those days the men worked hard, so I guess there was little else then spending it at a "grog shop" for rum or other liquor.

Bishops Appeal Gets Underway On April 25th

Francis Cardinal Spellman today announced that the 1965 Bishops Fund Appeal will be conducted in the New York Archdiocese April 25 to May 2 and that the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Henry A. Cauley will direct the campaign in which the 403 parishes of the archdiocese will participate.

The Cardinal also appointed 47 regional directors who will supervise the appeal in their respective areas.

Directors for Ulster County are the Rt. Rev. Msgr. John J. O'Reilly, chairman, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. John L. Cunningham, St. Mary's and St. Andrew's, Ellenville; the Rt. Rev. Charles M. Walsh, St. Augustine, Highland.

Funds contributed to the appeal, which has a national goal of $5,000,000 will be used to finance the operations of Catholic Relief Services which last year, Msgr. Cauley said, distributed to the needy of 73 countries food, clothing and medicine valued at approximately 160 million dollars and weighing over a half billion pounds. Distribution, he emphasizes was without regard to race, creed or color.

Catholic Relief Services also carries on rehabilitation and resettlement programs in many of the countries in which it operates. In 1964 it resettled 16,419 refugees, including 8,276 Cubans. School children of the New York Archdiocese have been participating in the fund raising campaign with classroom collections during Lent. Their contributions will be used to help poor children of other countries.

The combined total for parishes and schools contributed last year to the Bishops' Fund was $705,429.

Newburgh Solon Scores Code of Ethics Bills

NEW YORK (AP)—State Sen. D. Clinton Dominick, R-Newburgh, has voiced objections to two bills proposing a new code of ethics for the State Legislature. The bills were introduced by Assemblyman Daniel M. Kelly, D-Manhattan, who discussed the measures with Dominick on the WCBS-TV "Legislative Hearing" program Sunday.

Dominick contended that the pioneering Code of Ethics adopted by the Legislature in 1954 and strengthened last year had sufficed. It could be improved further if necessary, he added.

The Kelly bills would bar attorney-legislators from practicing before the State Court of Claims, prohibit lawmakers and legislative employees from accepting fees for representing clients before state regulatory agencies, and create a permanent state commission to advise on ethical standards and practices.

Tornado ---

where flying debris in high winds did extensive damage. Damage was estimated at $6 million.

In Wisconsin, three motorists were killed on a highway near Watertown when a tornado wind upset their cars. Monroe, in southern Wisconsin, was the scene of extensive damage, but no lives were lost there.

Without Power
Iowa, also was hit as the tornado raged began its sweep eastward, but only one severe injury was reported. Power disruptions affected many communities.

The windstorms came hours after President Johnson declared 39 Minnesota counties a disaster area in the wake of the state's worst flood in history. Some 20,000 persons fled their homes before spreading flood waters from rivers throughout the state.

The Indiana toll was the worst disaster in the state's history. In 1963 an explosion at an ice show in Indianapolis took 74 lives.

For thousands, Palm Sunday was harrowing. "The house started to shake and tremble. Then all hell broke loose," said one survivor in the Lebanon area, one of the scores of towns in the path of a twister.

At least 11 persons were killed in the area, and 75 homes battered. The injured jammed hospitals and witnesses saw patients being treated in hallways. In nearby Dunlap, a tornado tore through a trailer camp, shredding the tiny homes. Twenty were killed and 91 injured. Most were residents of the camp.

Trapped In Debris
Three tornadoes hit Marion in central Indiana. A shopping center was shattered and many Sunday bargain hunters were trapped in the debris. Across town, another twister tore off the roof to the Veterans Administration Hospital. Many elderly patients were treated for shock and moved to other facilities.

The tornadoes swept through Indiana in two violent spurts, separated by only a few hours. Five counties in northern Indiana were hit by the first attack. The twisters then moved to the south.

Many cities were without electricity and debris littered train tracks for miles, making passage impossible.

The tornadoes moved from Indiana through northern Ohio. At least 56 persons were reportedly killed over a wide area.

Most of the Ohio deaths were in the Toledo area. Eight died when a bus and an auto were shoved off a highway by high winds. Eleven others were found dead amidst the rubble of demolished buildings.

Two deaths were reported in suburbs of Cleveland, seven at nearby Pittsfield. Officials reported the tiny town nearly flattened.

More Fatalities
Another 20 fatalities were reported in rural communities south of Toledo, and farther east.

Bouncing and skipping tornadoes slammed into many areas in southern Michigan and 23 deaths were reported.

Nine persons died at Manitou Beach, where a tornado turned a church into rubble within seconds. Deaths also were reported near Grand Rapids, Hillsdale, Coldwater, Hemlock Lake and Quincy.

National Guardsmen were called out to prevent looting in stricken areas.

Twisters claimed seven lives in Illinois after striking along a 100-mile stretch from the Mississippi River to Crystal Lake, a small town 45 miles northwest of Chicago.

Six persons were killed in the Crystal Lake area and an 8-year-old boy died in Chicago after a tornado wind toppled a sign on him. Damage in Illinois was estimated by police officials at nearly $6 million.

Winds 81 M.P.H.
The winds, reported at up to 81 m.p.h., rattled a plush apartment building on Chicago's Outer Drive and police said debris from the structure blocked the roadway.

In southern Wisconsin, high winds sent three autos plunging off highways, resulting in three deaths. Property damage was so severe that Gov. Warren Knowles declared three counties disaster areas.

Tornadoes were sighted along a 160-mile path in the Badger State. Hardest hit was Monroe, a city of about 8,500 near the Illinois line. Officials said nearly 100 homes were smashed and dozens of persons injured.

Red Cross workers rushed rescue operations to cities along the Illinois-Wisconsin border.

In Iowa, where the first tornado of the day touched down, residents was cut off.

Red Cross operations were set up in Minnesota, where rivers continued to spill over their banks. Nearly 30 highways were closed because of high water.

Officials estimated that 20,000 persons were homeless. Three National Guard units were called in by Gov. Karl Rolvaag in an effort to confine rising waters at Hutchinson, Chaska and Crookston.

A state of emergency was declared in St. Paul, where the swollen Minnesota and Mississippi rivers converged. Three weeks ago more than 3 feet of snow covered the Minneapolis-St. Paul area. Mayor George Vavoulis of St. Paul, fearful of an anticipated 13-foot crest over flood stage, ordered dikes shored with plywood extensions.

HONORED ON RETIREMENT—Maj. Walter J. ## Rosendale Man Completes 20 Years of Services

YAKIMA, Washington (SP)—Army Maj. Walter J. Klepeis, son of Mrs. Rose Klepeis, LeFever Falls, Rosendale, has retired after 20 years of service in the active Army.

Retirement ceremonies for Klepeis, held at a banquet in Yakima, were climaxed by presentation of the Army Commendation Medal by Col. Robert Matter, commander of the Washington Sector, 10th U. S. Army Corps, which has supervisory responsibility for Army Reserve affairs in Washington state.

During the final two and one-half years of his career, Klepeis was commander of the Yakima Subsector, a seven-county area equal in size to all of New York State east of the Finger Lakes. The Commendation Medal was presented because of the outstanding job Klepeis did in supervising Army Reserve affairs in this big area, Col. Matter said.

Prior to his coming to Yakima in December, 1962, Klepeis served for a year on a half as special advisor to the Pakistan Army. He first entered the Army during World War II and after completing the war as a non-commissioned officer in the European Theater, he received his commission through Officers Candidate School at Ft. Riley, Kansas. He then left the Army but was recalled for the Korean Conflict and saw active combat there. He chose at that time to make the Army his career.

While stationed in Japan in 1953, he married Eleanor Finch, a service club director. They have three children.

Other decorations include the Bronze Star with Oak Leaf Cluster. The first award was during World War II, and the second was during the Korean Conflict.

Klepeis is presently enrolled in Yakima Valley College, preparing to enter the University of Washington to prepare for a post-retirement career as a language teacher.

He is a graduate of New Paltz High School.

Other relatives living in this area include a sister, Mrs. Robert (Dorothy) Miller of Kingston, and two brothers, Edward Klepeis of Maple Hill and Frank Klepeis of Tullison.

HST Raps King

NEW YORK (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman described Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. today as "a troublemaker."

He also called the Ku Klux Klan a "no good outfit" which should be "legislated out of existence."

Truman made the comments when asked by reporters, during his customary 20-minute morning walk, to evaluate the effectiveness of the recent civil rights demonstrations in the south.

The former president was reminded by newsmen that King had been awarded a Nobel Peace Prize.

"I didn't give it to him," he replied.

To Focus on 2 States

NEW YORK (AP)—James Farmer, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, says his organization will focus its major attention this summer on Louisiana and South Carolina.

"We are taking on the State of Louisiana," he told a news conference Sunday, because "it is overrun with the Klan and mobs."

Fire at Monticello

MONTICELLO, N.Y. (AP)—Fire destroyed a three-story rooming house Sunday killing one man and forcing 26 other persons to flee.

Paul Doman, 61, was found suffocated on the second floor of the 44-room, wooden building.

Charles J. Marsek, 43, of Scranton, Pa., suffered a broken leg in jumping from a second-story window.

The cause of the fire was not determined. Fire Chief Ralph Meyer said it started about 4 a.m. in a second floor closet.

Lucas Avenue Fire

Buildings which were destroyed by fire last Wednesday during a grass and brush fire on Lucas Avenue Extension, near the Joy Road intersection, were owned by Mrs. Jean Bonny. The destroyed buildings included a storehouse and poultry house. A workshop on the premises of Surgeate Judge Francis X. Tucker was also damaged before the fire was extinguished.

Nonpartisan ---

Oberkirch and Mrs. Firmbach split with the unit to actively seek formation of a new group to support candidates not recommended by the committee.

They claimed that the majority of nine members who joined the committee and voted on the selections Wednesday night were members of the teaching profession and were members of the Kingston Teachers Federation which has long sought recognition by the Board of Education for purposes of collective bargaining.

Feeling of Group
Mrs. Oberkirch said that it was the feeling of the dissenting group that the KTA, or professional teachers did not represent the majority of the committee seeking qualified candidates for the trusteeships on the Board.

Donald J. Sweeney, KTF president, told The Freeman today that the Federation would "let the Non-Partisan Committee answer such charges."

He said that the organizational by-laws call for the designation of two KTF members to officially represent the Federation on the N-P Committee, but that while other members may be members of the Federation they serve on the committee as "individual members and not as members of the Federation."

Statement
Mrs. Grafe, in a statement issued this morning, did not specifically demand the resignations of Mrs. Oberkirch, Mrs. Firmbach and Gullian. However, she said that the statement implied that their conduct constituted violation of the N-P Committee by-laws, and that "I am hopeful that these people will disassociate themselves from their association with the (non-partisan) Committee."

Mrs. Oberkirch declined comment on the statement at this time. However, she said that there was no doubt that it was tantamount to a request for the resignations of herself and the other two dissenting members of the Committee.

They emphasized Saturday however, that they had "no intention of dropping out" of the Committee and expected to continue as members after the May 4 election of school trustees.

Deadline Noted
Potential candidates have until 5 p.m. Wednesday to file their petitions with the school district clerk.

Streifer, who reportedly had indicated his willingness to accept the N-P Committee nomination, announced his declination to Mrs. Grafe in a letter dated Friday.

He said: "Having participated in the work of your committee since its inception, I fully appreciate the honor of your nomination to run for the Board of Education."

The position is most important to our children and the community. Unfortunately, my professional commitments for the months ahead will not leave sufficient time to do justice to the task. It is with sincere regret that I must decline the nomination.

"The Nonpartisan Nominating Committee will have my warm support in the future, as in the past."

Streifer told The Freeman that the decision was final, and that he would not accept a nomination by draft.

Mrs. Grafe said that Kamen had accepted the Committee's nomination. It was expected that another nomination would be made by the N-P Committee.

Point to Teachers
In confirming their split with the Committee, Gullian, Mrs. Oberkirch and Mrs. Firmbach said that four of the original members of the Committee were teachers. Gullian said that at the meeting Wednesday, nine new members joined, paid their dues and participated in the voting, and that of these, eight were teachers.

The trio said that they felt that the Committee no longer represented a nonpartisan group because all but one of the nine new members were of the same profession—teachers. They also said that while the quality of the candidate must not be sacrificed because of his geographical address, they felt it would be beneficial if there was a more general representation.

They pointed out that Johnson, their candidate announced today—was from Kingston. Withal is a resident of Ulster Park, also in the Town of Esopus.

Mrs. Grafe said that Mrs. Oberkirch, Mrs. Firmbach and Gullian "violated the rules" of the Non-Partisan Nominating Committee that they "camouflaged" for candidates other than those selected by the Com-

Parents Flunk In Sex Education Of Kids, Prof Says

BY WILLIAM C. HARRISON
AP Science Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Adults—not young people—have the greater need for sexual education, maintains Dr. Lester A. Kirkendall, professor of family life at Oregon State University.

"Adults constitute the deprived group; they are the ignorant," he told a weekend symposium at the University of California San Francisco Medical Center.

The symposium dealt with sex education for teen-agers. Kirkendall asked, "Who is to teach?" and answered that, "Sex being what it is and humans being what they are," both teachers and learners will continue to be everyone.

"One of the major needs is for our educational programs to strike at attitudes of fear and disgust (about sex) which so permeate all of our efforts that they change education into propaganda," Dr. Kirkendall said.

The symposium title, "The Uncertain Quest: The Dilemmas of Sex Education," indicates there are no definitive answers on how to transmit knowledge about sex to the next generation, said Dr. Ralph Lane Jr., University of San Francisco sociologist.

Several speakers urged that schools take the major responsibility for sex education, questioning that parents are qualified for dealing adequately with it.

But Dr. Bruce Ogilvie, professor of psychology at San Jose State College, said, "The three most important citadels of learning for sex education are the home, playground and the locker room."

Each contributes to negative forms of sex education, he said—the home by the sin of omission, the playground and locker room by preparing "the individual for the retreat to adolescent obscenity."

Parents, teen-agers, teachers and school administrators must be held panel debates on questions raised during the program.

$80,700 for Welfare

ALBANY—State Comptroller Arthur Levitt today announced the distribution of $20,858,000 for April—$80,700 to Ulster County—of the 63 Public Welfare Districts in the state. These monies represent the federal share of the anticipated welfare expenditures by the localities.

Minority Republicans in the Legislature prepared today to intervene—as they did in the leadership fight—in an effort to end the state's budget crisis this week.

They advised the Democratic majority leaders privately, however, that they would not vote for the controversial measure unless they were assured the Assembly would pass it, too.

The outlook in the Assembly was uncertain. The leaders set Wednesday as the target day for action on the fiscal program.

Speaker Anthony J. Travia called the Assembly Democratic majority into closed conference this afternoon to press for more support of the Republican governor's plan to levy a 2 per cent statewide tax on retail sales and services.

George L. Ingalls was awaiting the outcome of the Democratic meeting before summoning GOP lawmakers into a similar conference.

Efforts to settle the fiscal crisis by Wednesday—the state has been without a budget since April 1—were spurred by the fact that major financial obligations are falling due this week.

About 70,000 of the state's 120,000 employees are to be paid on Wednesday. The following day, the state is due to make a $550-million payment in aid to local school districts.

If necessary, the employees could obtain interest-free bank loans equal to their take-home pay, as workers in state institutions did last week under a make-shift arrangement.

It was considered unlikely, however, that any stop-gap plan could be devised for the state-aid payment.

Senate Minority Leader Earl W. Brydges told a GOP dinner in Armonk on Saturday night that, unless the aid were paid on time, school districts would have to borrow money and pass on the interest cost in the form of higher property taxes.

Bishops Appeal Gets Underway On April 25th

Francis Cardinal Spellman today announced that the 1965 Bishops Fund Appeal will be conducted in the New York Archdiocese April 25 to May 2 and that the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Henry A. Cauley will direct the campaign in which the 403 parishes of the archdiocese will participate.

The Cardinal also appointed 47 regional directors who will supervise the appeal in their respective areas.

Directors for Ulster County are the Rt. Rev. Msgr. John J. O'Reilly of St. Joseph's, Kingston, chairman; the Rt. Rev. Msgr. John L. Cunningham, St. Mary's and St. Andrew's, Ellenville; the Rt. Rev. Charles M. Walsh, St. Agostine, Highland.

Funds contributed to the appeal, which has a national goal of $5,000,000, will be used to finance the operations of Catholic Relief Services which last year, Msgr. Cauley said, distributed to the needy of 73 countries food, clothing and medicine valued at approximately 160 million dollars and weighing over and a half billion pounds. Distribution, he emphasizes, was without regard to race, creed or color.

Catholic Relief Services also carries on rehabilitation and resettlement programs in many of the countries in which it operates. In 1964 it resettled 16,419 refugees, including 8,276 Cubans. School children of the New York Archdiocese have been participating in the fund raising campaign with classroom collections during Lent. Their contributions will be used to help poor children of other countries.

The combined total for parishes and schools contributed last year to the Bishops' Fund was $705,429.

Newburgh Solon Scores Code of Ethics Bills

NEW YORK (AP)—State Sen. D. Clinton Dominick, R-Newburgh, has voiced objections to two bills proposing a new code of ethics for the State Legislature.

The bills were introduced by Assemblyman Daniel M. Kelly, D-Manhattan, who discussed the measures with Dominick on the WCBS-TV "Legislative Hearing" program Sunday.

Dominick contended that the pioneering Code of Ethics adopted by the Legislature in 1954 and strengthened last year had sufficed. It could be improved further if necessary, he added.

The Kelly bills would bar attorney-legislators from practicing before the State Court of Claims, prohibit lawmakers and legislative employees from accepting fees for representing clients before state regulatory agencies, and create a permanent state commission to advise on ethical standards and practices.

Tornado ---

where flying debris in high winds did extensive damage. Damage was estimated at $6 million.

In Wisconsin, three motorists were killed on a highway near Watertown when tornado wind upset their cars. Monroe, in southern Wisconsin, was the scene of extensive damage, but no lives were lost there.

Without Power
Iowa, also was hit as the tornado rashed its sweep eastward, but only one severe injury was reported. Power disruptions affected many communities.

The windstorms came hours after President Johnson declared 38 Minnesota counties a disaster area in the wake of the state's worst flood in history. Some 20,000 persons fled their homes before spreading flood waters from rivers throughout the state.

The Indiana toll was the worst disaster in the state's history. In 1963 an explosion at an ice show in Indianapolis took 74 lives.

For thousands, Palm Sunday was harrowing. "The house started to shake and tremble. Then all hell broke loose," said one survivor in the Lebanon area, one of the score of towns in the path of a twister.

At least 11 persons were killed in the area, and 75 homes battered. The injured jammed hospitals and witnesses saw patients being treated in hallways. In nearby Dunlap, a tornado tore through a trailer camp, shredding the tiny homes. Twenty were killed and 91 injured. Most were residents of the camp.

Trapped in Debris
Three tornadoes hit Marion in central Indiana. A shopping center was shattered and many Sunday bargain hunters were trapped in the debris. Across town, another twister tore off the roof of the Veterans Administration Hospital. Many elderly patients were treated for shock and moved to other facilities.

The tornadoes swept through Indiana in two violent spurts, separated by only a few hours. Five counties in northern Indiana were hit by the first attack. The twisters then moved to the south.

Many cities were without electricity and debris littered tracks for miles, making passage impossible. The tornadoes moved from Indiana through northern Ohio. At least 56 persons were reportedly killed over a wide area.

Most of the Ohio deaths were in the Toledo area. Eight died when a bus and an auto were shoved off a highway by high winds. Eleven others were found dead amidst the rubble of demolished buildings.

Two deaths were reported in suburbs of Cleveland, seven at nearby Pittsfield. Officials reported the tiny town nearly flattened.

More Fatalities
Another 20 fatalities were reported in rural communities south of Toledo, and farther east.

Bouncing and skipping tornadoes slammed into many areas in southern Michigan and 23 deaths were reported.

Nine persons died at Manitou Beach, where a tornado turned a church into rubble within seconds. Deaths also were reported near Grand Rapids, Hillsdale, Coldwater, Hemlock Lake and Quincy.

National Guardsmen were called out to prevent looting in stricken areas.

Twisters claimed seven lives in Illinois after striking along a 100-mile stretch from the Mississippi River to Crystal Lake, a small town 45 miles northwest of Chicago.

Six persons were killed in the Crystal Lake area and an 8-year-old boy died in Chicago after gale-force winds toppled a sign on him. Damage in Illinois was estimated by police officials at nearly $6 million.

Winds 81 M.P.H.

The winds, reported at up to 81 m.p.h., rattled a plush apartment building on Chicago's Outer Drive and police said debris from the structure blocked the roadway.

In southern Wisconsin, high winds sent three autos plunging off highways, resulting in three deaths. Property damage was so severe that Gov. Warren Knowlton declared three counties disaster areas.

Tornadoes were sighted along a 160-mile path in the Badger State. Hardest hit was Monroe, a city of about 8,500 near the Illinois line. Officials said nearly 100 homes were smashed and dozens of persons injured.

Red Cross workers rushed rescue operations to cities along the Illinois-Wisconsin border. In Iowa, where the first tornado of the day touched down, electricity for more than 350,000 residents was cut off.

The only serious injury laid to the twister in Iowa came at Clarence, where a farm belonging to Richard Dirks, 65, was struck. Dirks suffered head injuries.

Red Cross operations were set up in Minnesota, where rivers continued to spill over their banks. Nearly 30 highways were closed because of high water.

Officials estimated that 20,000 persons were homeless. Three National Guard units were called in by Gov. Karl Rolvaag in an effort to confine rising waters at Hutchinson, Chaska and Crookston.

A state of emergency was declared in St. Paul, where the swollen Minnesota and Mississippi rivers converge. Three weeks ago less than 3 feet of snow covered the Minneapolis-St. Paul area. Mayor George Vavoulis of St. Paul, fearful of an anticipated 13-foot crest over flood stage, ordered dikes shored with plywood extensions.

Rosendale Man Completes 20 Years of Services

YAKIMA, Washington (Special)—Army Maj. Walter J. Klepeis, son of Mrs. Rose Klepeis, LeFevre Falls, Rosendale, has retired after 20 years of service in the active Army.

Retirement ceremonies for Klepeis, held at a banquet in Yakima, were climaxed by presentation of the Army Commendation Medal by Col. Robert Matter, commander of the Washington Sector, 10th U. S. Army Corps, which has supervisory responsibility for Army Reserve affairs in Washington state.

During the final two and one-half years of his career, Klepeis was commander of the Yakima Subsector, a seven-count area equal in size to all of New York State east of the Finger Lakes. The Commendation Medal was presented because of the outstanding job Klepeis did in supervising Army Reserve affairs in this big area, Cal. Matter said.

Prior to his coming to Yakima in December, 1962, Klepeis served for a year as a half special advisor to the Pakistan Army. He is a graduate of New Paltz High School. Other relatives living in this area include a sister, Mrs. Robert (Dorothy) Miller of Kingston, and two brothers, Edward Klepeis of Maple Hill and Frank Klepeis of Tullahoma.

They claimed that the majority of nine new members who joined the committee and voted on the selections Wednesday night were members of the teaching profession and were members of the Kingston Teachers' Federation which has long sought recognition by the Board of Education for purposes of collective bargaining.

Feeling of Group
Mrs. Oberkirch said that it was the feeling of the dissenting group that the KTA, or professional teachers did not represent the majority of the committee seeking qualified candidates for the trusteeship on the Board.

Donald J. Sweeney, KTF president, told The Freeman today that the Federation would "let the Non-Partisan Committee answer such charges." He said that the organizational by-laws call for the designation of two KTF members to officially represent the Federation on the N-P Committee, but that while other members may be members of the Federation they serve on the committee as "individual members and not as members of the Federation."

Statement
Mrs. Grafe, in a statement issued this morning, did not specifically demand the resignations of Mrs. Oberkirch, Mrs. Firmsbach and Gullian. However, she said that the statement implied that their conduct constituted violation of the N-P Committee by-laws, and that "I am hopeful that these people will disassociate themselves from their association with the (non-partisan) Committee."

Mrs. Oberkirch declined comment on the statement at this time. However, she said that there was no doubt that it was tantamount to a request for the resignations of herself and the other two dissenting members of the Committee.

They emphasized Saturday however, that they had "no intention of dropping out" of the Committee and expected to continue as members after the May 4 election of school trustees.

Deadline Noted
Potential candidates have until 5 p.m. Wednesday to file their petitions with the school district clerk.

Streifer, who reportedly had indicated his willingness to accept the N-P Committee nomination, announced his declination to Mrs. Grafe in a letter dated Friday.

He said: "Having participated in the work of your committee since its inception, I fully appreciate the honor of your nomination to run for the Board of Education."

"The position is most important to our children and the community. Unfortunately, my professional commitments for the months ahead will not leave sufficient time to do justice to the task. It is with sincere regret that I must decline the nomination."

"The Nonpartisan Nominating Committee will have my warm support in the future, as in the past."

Streifer told The Freeman that the decision was final, and that he would not accept a nomination by draft.

Mrs. Grafe said that Kamen had accepted the Committee's nomination. It was expected that another nomination would be made by the N-P Committee.

Point to Teachers
In confirming their split with the Committee, Gullian, Mrs. Oberkirch and Mrs. Firmsbach said that four of the original members of the Committee were teachers. Gullian said that at the meeting Wednesday, nine new members joined, paid their dues and participated in the voting, and that of these, eight were teachers.

The trio said that they felt that the Committee no longer represented a nonpartisan group because all but one of the nine new members were of the same profession—teachers. They also said that while the quality of the candidate must not be sacrificed because of his geographical address, if there was a more general representation.

They pointed out that Johnson—their candidate announced today—was from Kingston. Withall is a resident of Ulster Park, which is in the Town of Esopus.

Mrs. Grafe said that Mrs. Oberkirch, Mrs. Firmsbach and Gullian "violated the rules" of the Non-Partisan Nominating Committee that they "campaign" for candidates other than those selected by the Com-

Parents Flunk In Sex Education Of Kids, Prof Says

BY WILLIAM C. HARRISON
AP Science Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Adults—not young people—have the greater need for sexual education, maintains Dr. Lester A. Kirkendall, professor of family life at Oregon State University.

"Adults constitute the deprived group; they are the ignorant, they are the obstructionists," he told a weekend symposium at the University of California San Francisco Medical Center.

The symposium dealt with sex education for teenagers. Kirkendall asked, "Who is to teach?" and answered that, "sex being what it is and human beings what they are, both teachers and learners will continue to be everyone."

"One of the major needs is for our educational programs to strike at attitudes of fear and disgust (about sex) which so permeate all of our efforts that they change education into propaganda," Dr. Kirkendall said.

The symposium title, "The Uncertain Quest: The Dilemma of Sex Education," indicates there are no definitive answers on how to transmit knowledge about sex to the next generation, said Dr. Ralph Lane Jr., University of San Francisco sociologist.

Several speakers urged that schools take the major responsibility for sex education, questioning that parents are qualified for dealing adequately with it.

But Dr. Bruce Ogilvie, professor of psychology at San Jose State College, said, "The three most important citadels of learning for sex education are the home, playground and the locker room."

Each contributes to negative forms of sex education, he said—the home by the sin of omission, the playground and locker room by preparing "the individual for the retreat to adolescent obscenities."

Parents, teen-agers, teachers and symposium faculty members held panel debates on questions raised during the program.

$80,700 for Welfare

ALBANY—State Comptroller Arthur Levitt today announced the distribution of $20,858,000 for April—$80,700 to Ulster County—to the 65 Public Welfare Districts in the state. These figures represent the federal share of the anticipated welfare expenditures by the localities.

Committee while failing to "disassociate" themselves with the committee as required specifically by the Committee by-laws. She said that such action required that such violation called for resignation of the violators "in handwriting." She said, "I have not received such resignations."

Her statement: "It is most unfortunate that the personal opinions of three individual citizens should be allowed to cast aspersions on the work of an entire committee which, for five years now, has sought only to bring forth from the school district and elect the most able and best qualified candidates for the Kingston School Board."

"These three people have violated the rules of the Committee since our by-laws specifically state that: 'In the event any members disassociate themselves from the decision of the committee or to campaign for some other candidate he shall first present his resignation to the chairman in writing. I have not received such resignations.'"

"In addition, a second principle of the Committee has been violated since voting for the candidates to be supported is held in . . . and again I quote the by-laws . . . a closed session. These candidates are chosen, incidentally, constitutionally by MAJORITY vote;—therefore, the fact that the voting was not unanimous not only should not have been made public but is irrelevant anyway. The standards and rules of the committee have been upheld at all times. . . the candidates chosen for support were chosen by a majority."

"In a taped radio interview, for example, she states that nine members of the KTF walked in, paid their dues, and voted. This is not true. To the best of my knowledge, there were eight members—four of whom belong to the KTF—two to the WTA, one is a principal, one is not a member of the teaching profession. She also states that their membership was in violation of the Committee by-laws; such is not the case and nowhere in our constitution does it state, as she contended, that dues must be paid 'so many days before voting.'"

"The petitions which were circulated Wednesday night supporting the candidacy of Morton Kamen and Abraham Streifer contain the signatures of both Mrs. Oberkirch and Mrs. Firmsbach. We were, therefore, understandably surprised at the public stand taken by these people less than 48 hours later."

"It is, I might add, most certainly the right of every citizen to support the candidate of his choice but because three individuals dissent with the majority opinion does not give them the moral or ethical right to cast aspersions on the opinion of the majority; there are few elections, from that of the president of the United States right on down to the local level, which are unanimous. Therefore I am hopeful that these people will disassociate themselves from their association with the Committee and speak as individual citizens, only."

Appearances Are Rough on Actors, Mitchum Declares

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Would you like some ketchup?" asked the waitress as she delivered the basted eggs and hamburger patty. "Honey," replied Robert Mitchum, "I am in no condition to make any decision."

schedule of interviews and appearances faced him through the day and into the evening.

Mitchum was in the first throes of that peculiar institution known as the personal appearance. Some performers consider it a form of exquisite torture; film companies deem it a necessary adjunct to the merchandizing of movies.

"Mr. Moses," a film he made in Africa with Carroll Baker last year, is the beneficiary of Mitchum's travels. It is the first tour he has made in a dozen years.

He explained the lapse: "No-body asked me."

"The trouble is, you get a different guy to handle you in each city," the actor remarked. "He doesn't realize what you've been through in the previous city, and he books you around the clock. He also wastes a lot of time because he figures I'll be late. When I show up every time five minutes early, he gets shook up."

"Then there's the booze. You see 40 people in a day and each one wants to have a drink with you. That sorta adds up, you know."

His outlook improved as he stabbed at the basted eggs and thought of home at the end of the trail. Home for the past few years has been a horse-breeding farm on Chesapeake Bay 75 miles from Baltimore.

He claims that he doesn't see enough of the place because he

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market drove toward new highs in active trading early this afternoon.

The advance was rolling through its fourth straight session. The pace of trading was somewhat less than Friday's 6.48 million shares.

Large blocks in leading issues still were changing hands, however, and analysts construed this as activity of big, institutional investors.

Selling to meet April 15 income tax payments was cleared up on a regular way basis — four-day delivery — on Friday and this was said to remove some of the brakes from the market.

Steels, chemicals, motors, rails, aerospace issues and nonferrous metals were among the gainers.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.4 at 338.3 with industrials up 1.6, rails up .8 and utilities up .9.

Blue chip leadership pushed up the averages. Gains of around a point were made by American Telephone, Du Pont, Eastman Kodak and Air Reduction.

Westinghouse Electric, traded on a block of 13,500 shares, was up nearly a point, touching a new high.

Maryland Man Is Charged With Illegal Firearm

A 56-year-old Maryland motorist, whose car was involved in a two-car head-on collision Friday afternoon on Route 209, Town of Marbletown, was arrested the following day by State Police on a charge of illegal possession of a firearm.

Trooper David Wachtel said BCI Investigator Joseph Ventriglia of the Kingston substation made the arrest after a 22-caliber pistol was found in a car owned by the defendant, Howard Hazen, of Silver Springs, Md.

Hazen was released in $50 bail pending a hearing Wednesday, April 14 before Justice of the Peace Robert S. Ferrigan, Town of Kingston.

The other vehicle involved in the crash was driven by Jacob Halperin, 43, of Brooklyn, Mass., troopers said.

Mrs. Hazel Hazen, 56, wife of the Maryland man, was seriously injured in the mishap. She was taken to Kingston Hospital by Doctors ambulance, suffering a fractured shoulder and chest injuries.

Others injured according to Trooper P. L. Van Pelt Jr., who investigated, were: Hazen, who sustained back injuries; Halperin, who was treated for facial cuts and the loss of teeth, and Harvey Forman, 38, of Dorchester, Mass., a passenger in Halperin's car, who suffered fractures of the right leg and head injuries.

Trooper Van Pelt reported the Hazens were ejected from their car, and Mrs. Hazen was pinned beneath one vehicle until she was extricated from the wreckage.

The chief of the Viet Cong mission to Peking was reported to have turned down the 17-nation appeal.

Peking's Communist party newspaper, The People's Daily, said U.N. Secretary-General U. Thant would not be welcome if he attempts a peace mission to the Red Chinese capital. It said the United Nations has no right to meddle in a conflict which can be settled only by nations that took part in the 1954 Geneva conference on Indochina.

him the respect and admiration of the many people associated with him in IBM as well as in our community.

He arrived in our midst as a part of a management team that was to build a manufacturing and engineering facility approaching a million square feet. He leaves us at this time, contributing a great deal of time and effort in the building of the Ulster County Community College. No wonder IBM selected him to build its new plant in Boulder, Colorado.

Indicative of his modesty as the manager of IBM in Kingston, Whalen has never been a desire for recognition for the many contributions he and IBM have made to our area. As a matter of fact, it has been somewhat the opposite and this, I think, is due in large part to Dick's guidance upon IBM's quiet way of being a good neighbor.

Service to Hospitals
Stressing Whalen's devoted and dedicated service to the local hospitals Kalish said that the guest of honor served on the board of trustees of the Kingston Hospital for six years and just recently had been re-elected for another term. While on the board, he served as vice president and chairman of the executive committee. He also was chairman of the industrial section of the Kingston Hospital building campaign, which was most successful.

He is also on the planning committee for the Benedictine Hospital fund raising campaign currently being conducted.

Interested in College

His work in connection with the Community College was emphasized by the speaker, who pointed out that Whalen was named to the college board of trustees by the Board of supervisors in 1962. Since that time, he has devoted countless hours and unbounded energy to the opening and developing of the college. He served as chairman of the Curriculum Committee and as a member of Sites and Facilities Committee.

He also mentioned Whalen's interest in the Hurley Little League of which his sons are members. He was vice president of the league and helped in its planning.

George Tanke the new manager of Kingston IBM plant, was welcomed and presented to the gathering.

Whalen expressed his profound appreciation to the people of the community for their cooperation. He described the Boulder-Colorado, where he will be located and said that there too he has already met wonderful people.

Joseph D. Saccomano of Kingston, were each introduced to the Town Chairmen by Assemblyman Wilson and each of the announced candidates spoke briefly of his qualifications.

Present Surrogate Francis X. Tucker also addressed the meeting and explained his reasons for not seeking reelection to the office, as well as stressing the vital importance of the duties of a Surrogate Judge.

At the close of the meeting, County Chairman Wilson announced that there would be another meeting of the town and city chairmen to review the various candidates for the office of sheriff. This meeting will be held in two weeks and all of the announced candidates for that office will be invited to appear and state their qualifications to the representatives of the Republican party.

Q: "I am a widow with a totally blind son. My husband left me $28,000 in savings; $3,000 E bonds; $3,000 H bonds; 160 shares of Interstate Power; 25 Columbia Gas; 50 Pacific Tel. & Tel.; 10 Pacific Northwest Tel. & Tel., and some mutual fund shares. Should these stocks be held or switched? I am thinking of my son's future." C. P.

A: Please allow me to offer my sincere sympathy on your son's condition. All your stocks have merit. Pacific Tel. & Tel. has suffered an adverse rate decision, which may cost the company a great deal of money, unless the courts overrule it. I would switch this issue into General Telephone & Electronics.

Hold your E and H bonds, which may be regarded as cash holdings. In your place, if you can stand some reduced income, I would take $20,000 of savings and put it into stocks which can continue to grow strongly over the years, to assure your son's future.

I suggest Corn Products; Bristol Myers; Eastman Kodak; Sears, Roebuck.

Q: "I have the following assets: 1,300 Jersey Standard;

1,000 shares of a good utility; 500 Telephone; $10,000 in bonds and $150,000 in cash. Under present circumstances, I feel I should like to own some U. S. Treasury short-term bonds as a reserve. Could you suggest some?" A. W.

A: You appear to be in strong shape financially, and it is possible that your tax bracket is quite high. U. S. Treasuries are all fully subject to Federal income taxes and if your bracket is high—say 50 per cent or more — you might do better by purchasing short-term tax exemptions. I will give you some suggestions and you can make your own decisions. U. S. Treasuries 3 1/2% of Feb. 15, 1966 sell to yield 3.95 per cent. Treasury 4 1/2% of May 15, 1966 are on a four per cent basis. As for tax-exempts, there are Chicago, Illinois 2 3/4 per cent due April 8, 1966 offering a 2 1/2% return, or Maryland 2 1/4% of March 15, 1966 which yield 2.10 per cent.

Shotgun Is Used
While the woman was sitting on the step, Anderson allegedly shot her in the abdominal area with a .16 gauge shotgun. The shooting occurred at about 2:30 a. m., troopers learned.

Mrs. Lester had returned home from Newburgh where she was employed, and she was still wearing her waitress' uniform. The victim, it was said, went to the trailer occupied by several children and two teen-age babysitters, and later left with the babysitters and went to a car, where they sat for a while. Mrs. Lester left the car and went to the rear of the trailer, where authorities said the shooting took place on the step of a small building.

The babysitters did not hear the shot because the car radio was playing, according to Senior BCI Investigator Edward Shannon, who took part in the investigation with District Attorney Joseph P. Torraca and Coroner Henry S. Hartley, at the scene of the shooting.

Mrs. Lester's husband was visiting with friends in Newburgh at the time of the shooting, authorities said.

Woman Is Injured When Car Hits Pole

Kingston State Police investigated a one-car accident which occurred at 8:30 p. m. Sunday on Lucas Avenue Extension near Rosendale, according to Trooper David Wachtel of the Kingston substation.

Trooper Robert Mackey reported Ernest Quick, 29, of 1 Maple Lane, was driving his 1955 sedan north when he apparently fell asleep and the car went off the east side of the highway on a curve and hit a utility pole. Hattie Bailey, 31, of the same address, a passenger, sustained injuries of the chin, it was reported.

The injured woman was taken to Benedictine Hospital for treatment by Fatum's ambulance.

lead the world to the peace they craved."

He said Roosevelt "spoke of the great American ideal in terms that all men could understand."

"In this spirit," Harriman continued, "he rallied the free peoples in the war against German and Japanese aggression. And, in this spirit, he sought to use the intimacies of the wartime alliance to lay the basis for the collaboration of peace."

The ambassador noted that Roosevelt in 1941 said that if the United States loses the sacred fire of liberty it will reject the destiny that George Washington and the other Founding Fathers worked so hard to establish.

"That sacred fire still burns today — by the grave over at Arlington and on the fronts, whether in Alabama or Viet Nam, where men fight for liberty, and in the White House itself," Harriman said.

Anna Roosevelt Halsted, only daughter of the late president, was to accept the monument in behalf of the family.

Vols Kept Busy With Brush Fires

Brush and grass fires that kept 31 volunteer fire companies in Ulster County busy during the last weekend exceeded the April, 1962 record of 164 fires and came within eight of breaking the 1963 total of 175 fires for the month, according to a dispatcher at the County Fire Control Center.

Accord volunteers assisted by firemen from Kripplush were called out at 2:45 p. m. Saturday after fire broke out in the main building of a bungalow colony on South Whitefield Road and threatened out buildings on the property. The recall was at 7 p. m. and Chief Lloyd Countyman was in command.

Accord firemen were assisted by Kerkonson firefighters in battling a menacing brush fire on Minnewaska Mountain, which kept volunteers at the scene more than two hours yesterday afternoon.

Mutual Aid headquarters reported a total of 47 brush or grass fires over the weekend in the county, bringing the total number of calls for April to 167.

Plattekill volunteers worked from 9:50 p. m. Sunday until 12:35 a. m. today to quell a brush fire in that district. Flames were visible from the State Thruway during the height of the fire, it was reported.

Woodstock Fire Co. 3, in charge of Capt. Alfred Ostrander and Lieut. Donald Smith and Richard Peters Jr., responded to an alarm at 11:30 a. m. Sunday after a grass fire was reported near the Jerry Brice residence on Sicker Road, Lake Hill.

It was reported the fire burned over about a half acre and ignited a corner of the Brice residence. Volunteers responded to the call with a pumper and tank truck. Firemen pried off a section of siding from the house to quench the flames, which caused slight damage. Firemen were at the scene about an hour.

One of four fires in Walker Valley was discovered as a serious blaze. The fire broke out at 2:15 p. m. Saturday. Highland reported three fires.

Two fires were reported by fire companies in Glasco, Wallkill, Shandaken, Gardiner, Shawangunk Valley and Ellenville, according to records at mutual aid headquarters.

Taken to Hospital

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.4 at 338.3 with industrials up 1.6, rails up .8 and utilities up .9. The AP average was above its record closing figure of 337.6 reached Feb. 4.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 4.07 at 905.36, not far below its record closing high of 906.30 reached Feb. 3.

Blue chip leadership pushed up the averages. Gains of around a point were made by American Telephone, Du Pont, Eastman Kodak and Air Reduction.

Westinghouse Electric, traded on a block of 13,500 shares, was up nearly a point, touching a new high.

Maryland Man Is Charged With Illegal Firearm

A 56-year-old Maryland motorist, whose car was involved in a two-car head-on collision Friday afternoon on Route 209, Town of Marbletown, was arrested the following day by State Police on a charge of illegal possession of a firearm.

Trooper David Wachtel said BCI Investigator Joseph Ventiglia of the Kingston substation made the arrest after a .22 caliber pistol was found in a car owned by the defendant, Howard Hazen, of Silver Springs, Md.

Hazen was released in $50 bail pending a hearing Wednesday, April 14 before Justice of the Peace Robert S. Ferrigan, Town of Kingston.

The other vehicle involved in the crash was driven by Jacob Halperin, 43, of Brooklyn, Mass., troopers said.

Mrs. Hazel Hazen, 56, wife of the Maryland man, was seriously injured in the mishap. She was taken to Kingston Hospital by Doctors ambulance, suffering a fractured shoulder and chest injuries.

Others injured according to Trooper P. L. Van Pelt Jr., who investigated, were: Hazen, who sustained back injuries; Halperin, who was treated for facial cuts and the loss of teeth; and Harvey Forman, 38, of Dorchester, Mass., a passenger in Halperin's car, who suffered fractures of the right leg and head injuries.

Trooper Van Pelt reported the Hazens were ejected from their car, and Mrs. Hazen was pinned beneath one vehicle until she was extricated from the wreckage.

The chief of the Viet Cong mission to Peking was reported to have turned down the 17-nation appeal.

Peking's Communist party newspaper, The People's Daily, said U.N. Secretary-General U. Thant would not be welcome if he attempts a peace mission to the Red Chinese capital. It said the United Nations has no right to mediate in a conflict which can be settled only by the parties that took part in the 1954 Geneva conference on Indochina.

him the respect and admiration of the many people associated with him in IBM as well as in our community.

He arrived in our midst as a part of a management team that was to build a manufacturing and engineering facility approaching a million square feet. He leaves us at this time, contributing a great deal of time and effort in the building of the Ulster County Community College. No wonder IBM selected him to build its new plant in Boulder, Colorado.

Indicative of his modesty as the manager of IBM in Kingston, there has never been a desire for recognition for the many contributions he and IBM have made to our area. As a matter of fact, it has been somewhat the opposite and this, I think, is due in large part to Dick's guidance upon IBM's quiet way of being a good neighbor.

Service to Hospitals
Stressing Whalen's devoted and dedicated service to the local hospitals Kalish said that the guest of honor served on the Board of trustees of the Kingston Hospital for six years and just recently had been re-elected for another term. While on the board, he served as vice president and chairman of the executive committee. He also was chairman of the industrial section of the Kingston Hospital building campaign, which was most successful.

He is also on the planning committee for the Benedictine Hospital fund raising campaign currently being conducted.

Interested in College
His work in connection with the Community College was emphasized by the speaker, who pointed out that Whalen was named to the college board of trustees by the Board of supervisors in 1962. Since that time, he has devoted countless hours and unbounded energy to the opening and developing of the college. He served as chairman of the Curriculum Committee and as a member of Sites and Facilities Committee.

He also mentioned Whalen's interest in the Hurley Little League of which his sons are members. He was vice president of the league and helped in its planning.

George Tamke the new manager of Kingston IBM plant, was welcomed and presented to the gathering.

Whalen expressed his profound appreciation to the people of the community for their cooperation. He described the Boulder-Colorado, where he will be located and said that there too he has already met wonderful people.

Moslem leaders appealed to the government of neighboring Arab countries to allow Israeli Moslems to participate in the traditional pilgrimage to Mecca, Medina and Mt. Ararat during the Feast of the Sacrifice.

Arab countries do not recognize Israel and usually do not allow its citizens to travel across their borders. There are about 180,000 Moslems in Israel's population of more than 2 million.

Widow With Blind Son: Buy Growth Stocks

Q: "I am a widow with a totally blind son. My husband left me $28,000 in savings; $3,000 E bonds; $3,000 H bonds; 160 shares of Interstate Power; 25 Columbia Gas; 50 Pacific Tel. & Tel.; 10 Pacific Northwest Tel. & Tel., and some mutual fund shares. Should these stocks be held or switched? I am thinking of my son's future." C. P. A. Please allow me to offer my sincere sympathy on your son's condition.

All your stocks have merit. Pacific Tel. & Tel. has suffered an adverse rate decision, which may cost the company a great deal of money, unless the courts overrule it. I would switch this issue into General Telephone & Electronics.

Hold your E and H bonds, which may be regarded as cash holdings. In your place, if you can stand some reduced income, I would take $20,000 of savings and put it into stocks which can continue to grow strongly over the years, to assure your son's future.

I suggest Corn Products; Bristol Myers; Eastman Kodak; Sears, Roebuck.

Q: "I have the following assets: 1,300 Jersey Standard;

1,000 shares of a good utility; 500 Telephone; $10,000 in bonds and $150,000 in cash. Under present circumstances, I feel I should like to own some U. S. Treasury short-term bonds as a reserve. Could you suggest some?" A. W.

A: You appear to be in strong shape financially, and it is possible that your tax bracket is quite high. U. S. Treasuries are all fully subject to Federal income taxes and if your bracket is high—say 50 per cent or more — you might do better by purchasing short-term tax-exempted, I will give you some suggestions and you can make your own decisions. U. S. Treasuries 3 1/2% of Feb. 15, 1966 sell to yield 3.95 per cent. Treasury 4 1/2% of May 15, 1966 are on a four per cent basis. As for tax-exempts, there are Chicago, Illinois 2 3/4 per cent due April 8, 1966 offering a 2.175 return, or 1966 which yield 2.10 per cent.

Woman Is Shot

Shotgun Is Used

While the woman was sitting on the step, Anderson allegedly shot her in the abdominal area with a 16 gauge shotgun. The shooting occurred at about 2:30 a. m., troopers learned.

Mrs. Lester had returned home from Newburgh where she was employed, and she was still wearing her waitress' uniform. The victim, it was said, went to the trailer occupied by several children and two teen-age babysitters, and later left with the babysitters and went to a car, where they sat for a while. Mrs. Lester left the car and went to the rear of the trailer, where authorities said the shooting took place on the step of a small building.

The babysitters did not hear the shot because the car radio was playing, according to Senior BCI Investigator Edward Shannon, who took part in the investigation with District Attorney Joseph P. Torraca and Coroner Henry S. Hartley, at the scene of the shooting.

Mrs. Lester's husband was visiting with friends in Newburgh at the time of the shooting, authorities said.

lead the world to the peace they craved."

In this spirit," Harriman continued, "he rallied the free peoples in the war against German and Japanese aggression. And, in this spirit, he sought to use the intimacies of the wartime alliance to lay the basis for the collaboration of peace."

The ambassador noted that Roosevelt in 1941 said that if the United States loses the sacred fire of liberty it will reject the destiny that George Washington and the other Founding Fathers worked so hard to establish.

"That sacred fire still burns today — by the grave over at Arlington and on the fronts, whether in Alabama or Viet Nam, where men fight for liberty, and in the White House itself," Harriman said.

Anna Roosevelt Halsted, only daughter of the late president, was to accept the monument in behalf of the family.

Income Tax Law Questions and Answers

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published by The Freeman as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q—I have been supporting my grandfather for some years. Last year I had to put him in a rest home. Since I am paying this expense may I still claim him as a dependent?

A—As long as you continue to provide more than half his support you are entitled to claim him as a dependent. His relationship to you makes it immaterial for him to be a member of your household, although the usual tests of dependency—the gross income, citizenship, and joint return tests—must still be met.

As your dependent, you will also be able to deduct whatever medical expenses you pay for him.

Q—Is it true that I don't have to file a Schedule B this year to report dividend and interest income?

A—That's right. This income may be reported on the Form 1040. Estimates are that 4 million taxpayers will not have to file Schedule B, because of this change.

Q—What expenses should you include when figuring out whether you are entitled to claim a dependent?

A—Support is generally considered those expenses necessary to provide food shelter, clothing, education, medical and dental care and similar items.

Income taxes, life insurance premiums and the purchase of capital items such as an automobile should not be included.

To meet the support test for a dependency claim, over half the expenses must be paid by the person desiring the dependency deduction except where multiple support agreements are furnished.

Q—My son received a scholarship for college last year. Does he have to report it on a tax return and will it affect our dependency deduction for him?

A—Scholarships are generally tax exempt. It should not affect either your son's tax return or your dependency claim for him.

Q—I had to pay customs duty on a few things I brought back with me from Europe last summer. Can I include customs fees with my other deductible taxes?

A—No. Customs duties like federal excise taxes are not deductible.

Since tax rates will be lower on this year's income, you may want to see what you will owe next year if you keep your withholding at present levels. Get a copy of Publication No. 465 which has the 1965 rates.

By comparing your 1964 withholding with the income reported on your 1964 return taxes at 1965 rates, you will get a rough idea of what additional withholding might be needed.

State Has Four Bills Opposing Smut Literature

District Attorney Joseph P. Torraca told members of Kingston Council 275, Knights of Columbus, that four bills dealing with "smut literature" were currently in committee in the State Legislature.

Speaking before the regular meeting of the organization in the Council Home, Torraca outlined progress in his recent campaign to keep "indecent literature" out of the hands of the youth in Ulster County.

Torraca initiated earlier this year a "cooperative" campaign with county newsdealers to curtail the sale, availability and accessibility of "smut literature" and "girlie" magazines in the county. He said at the time that many newsdealers were "often compelled" to accept these magazines in a "package deal" in order to receive other "legitimate" magazines. These magazines, he said, "are then displayed on racks within the reach of youngsters who enter the store to purchase comic books or other items, and are attracted to the smut literature."

The district attorney noted early response to his appeal, particularly in the Ellenville area. He urged parents, citizens, church and civic organizations to participate in the anti-smut drive and to notify his office of cases where newsdealers made it a practice to display "smut literature" for accessibility or sale to youngsters.

Torraca, a member of the

MODERN MAIDENS

Knights of Columbus, told his fellow knights that the laws dealing with pornography and indecent literature in New York State were weak. He called for public support of the bills currently in the state legislature "hopper" in regard to stronger legislation, and urged interested persons to write letter-to-the-editor expressing their opinion to their elected officials.

Chamber to Name BLU-Trade Group To Promote Jobs

Leonard K. Brooks, International sales manager of the Behr Manning Co., has been named chairman of BLU-Trade, a comprehensive program designed to create more jobs in the Hudson and Mohawk Valleys by helping manufacturers to find more export markets for the goods they produce.

The Chambers in the following cities are co-sponsoring BLU-Trade, and are expected to name local chairmen for their areas: Kingston, Poughkeepsie, Amsterdam, Colonie, Glens Falls, Gloversville, Plattsburgh, Rome, Saratoga Springs, Troy, Schenectady and Utica.

The announcement of Brooks' appointment was made by James

J. Drislane, president of the Greater Albany Chamber of Commerce. The Chamber joined with the National Association of Manufacturers in bringing the program to this area.

Scheduled for May 11-12 at the Thruway Motor Inn (Exit 24), BLU-Trade features a two-day, 10-hour export training seminar for manufacturers, followed by a day of individual consultations with participants by foreign trade experts of the International Marketing Institute of the Harvard University School of Business Administration, who will conduct the seminars.

In addition to the two-day seminars, and the individual help provided in obtaining overseas customers, BLU-Trade will establish a center for future help and information for potential exporters in the Hudson and Mohawk Valleys. Provisions will also be made for the training of leaders who can conduct future BLU-Trade Seminars.

BLU-Trade was developed by the International Marketing Institute, and tested in Boston and Worcester, Mass., and Hartford, Conn. Because of its success in increasing exports in those cities, NAM has undertaken to bring the program to key cities across the country as part of its drive to increase jobs through greater exports, sales, and profit, and to improve the nation's balance of payments.

As your dependent, you will also be able to deduct whatever medical expenses you pay for him.

Q—Is it true that I don't have to file a Schedule B this year to report dividend and interest income?

A—That's right. This income may be reported on the Form 1040. Estimates are that 4 million taxpayers will not have to file Schedule B, because of this change.

Q—What expenses should you include when figuring out whether you are entitled to claim a dependent?

A—Support is generally considered those expenses necessary to provide food shelter, clothing, education, medical and dental care and similar items.

Income taxes, life insurance premiums and the purchase of capital items such as an automobile should not be included.

To meet the support test for a dependency claim, over half the expenses must be paid by the person desiring the dependency deduction except where multiple support agreements are furnished.

Q—My son received a scholarship for college last year. Does he have to report it on a tax return and will it affect our dependency deduction for him?

A—Scholarships are generally tax exempt. It should not affect either your son's tax return or your dependency claim for him.

Q—I had to pay customs duty on a few things I brought back with me from Europe last summer. Can I include customs fees with my other deductible taxes?

A—No. Customs duties like federal excise taxes are not deductible.

Since tax rates will be lower on this year's income, you may want to see what you will owe next year if you keep your withholding at present levels. Get a copy of Publication No. 465 which has the 1965 rates.

By comparing your 1964 withholding with the income reported on your 1964 return taxes at 1965 rates, you will get a rough idea of what additional withholding might be needed.

State Has Four Bills Opposing Smut Literature

District Attorney Joseph P. Torraca told members of Kingston Council 275, Knights of Columbus, that four bills dealing with "smut literature" were currently in committee in the State Legislature.

Speaking before the regular meeting of the organization in the Council Home, Torraca outlined progress in his recent campaign to keep "indecent literature" out of the hands of the youth in Ulster County.

Torraca initiated earlier this year a "cooperative" campaign with county newsdealers to curtail the sale, availability and accessibility of "smut literature" and "girlie" magazines in the county. He said at the time that many newsdealers were "often compelled" to accept these magazines in a "package deal" in order to receive other "legitimate" magazines. These magazines, he said, "are then displayed on racks within the reach of youngsters who enter the store to purchase comic books or other items, and are attracted to the smut literature."

The district attorney noted early response to his appeal, particularly in the Ellenville area. He urged parents, citizens, church and civic organizations to participate in the anti-smut drive and to notify his office of cases where newsdealers made it a practice to display "smut literature" for accessibility or sale to youngsters.

Torraca, a member of the

MODERN MAIDENS

"Now, Mr. Dexter, isn't this a lot more fun than sitting around in that stuffy old office?"

Knights of Columbus, told his fellow knights that the laws dealing with pornography and indecent literature in New York State were weak. He called for public support of the bills currently in the state legislature "hopper" in regard to stronger legislation, and urged interested persons to write letter-to-the-editor expressing their opinion to their elected officials.

Chamber to Name BLU-Trade Group To Promote Jobs

Leonard K. Brooks, International sales manager of the Behr Manning Co., has been named chairman of BLU-Trade, a comprehensive program designed to create more jobs in the Hudson and Mohawk Valleys by helping manufacturers to find more export markets for the goods they produce.

The Chambers in the following cities are co-sponsoring BLU-Trade, and are expected to name local chairmen for their areas: Kingston, Poughkeepsie, Amsterdam, Colonie, Glens Falls, Gloversville, Plattsburgh, Rome, Saratoga Springs, Troy, Schenectady and Utica.

The announcement of Brooks' appointment was made by James

J. Drislane, president of the Greater Albany Chamber of Commerce. The Chamber joined with the National Association of Manufacturers in bringing the program to this area.

Scheduled for May 11-12 at the Thruway Motor Inn (Exit 24), BLU-Trade features a two-day, 10-hour export training seminar for manufacturers, followed by a day of individual consultations with participants by foreign trade experts of the International Marketing Institute of the Harvard University School of Business Administration, who will conduct the seminars.

In addition to the two-day seminars, and the individual help provided in obtaining overseas customers, BLU-Trade will establish a center for future help and information for potential exporters in the Hudson and Mohawk Valleys. Provisions will also be made for the training of leaders who can conduct future BLU-Trade Seminars.

BLU-Trade was developed by the International Marketing Institute, and tested in Boston and Worcester, Mass., and Hartford, Conn. Because of its success in increasing exports in those cities, NAM has undertaken to bring the program to key cities across the country as part of its drive to increase jobs through greater exports, sales, and profit, and to improve the nation's balance of payments.

Garden Programs

Encouraged by the success of the reading project and the monthly program at Green Cottage, the New Palts Study Club has announced it has undertaken a gardening program for all the cottages at the Highland Training School.

Under the able direction of Miss Mavis Taylor and Mrs. Teresa Waters, assisted by Mrs. Steven Netefer and Mrs. Herbert Uriel, the committee has held many planning sessions with the staff at the school. Each cottage parent has been consulted so that all the boys will be able to participate.

Recently the Training School carpenter completed a tray stand on a dolly which can be turned daily to keep seedlings straight, and with the assistance of the boys, the committee supervised mixing of the growing medium and filling of the flats. Zinnia and marigold seeds were planted. Since many of the boys have never planted a seed before, it is anticipated many visits will be made to the plant house before the first green shoot appears.

Next month, petunia seedlings will arrive and a second session will be held to transplant them. Finally by the end of May, pink and yellow snapdragons, ageratum, blue and red salvia, plus 100 tomato plants will be delivered. October Day will find all hands on deck for planting and landscaping around the Cottages.

Throughout the gardening project, the boys will be taught the simple fundamentals of gardening, proper lighting, humidity and heat control. Hardy seeds and plants have been chosen to guarantee maximum success for the young gardeners.

Although this project has the financial support of the State, your help is actively sought. The terrain of the school is naturally beautiful with much rock formation and spots begging for Spring bulbs. Anyone thinning bulbs of any kind might consider donating them to the School.

Horace Greeley, one of the signers of his bail bond, was instrumental in obtaining Jefferson Davis' release from prison.

Bath VA Hospital Likely to Stay Open

BATH, N.Y. (AP)—The Veterans Administration facility here, one of 11 scheduled for closing, may stay open in the event a compromise is reached between Congress and the White House, says Rep. Charles E. Goodell (R-N.Y.).

Goodell expressed his opinion Saturday after two other Congressmen, appointed to a special committee by President Johnson to re-examine his hospital - closing decision, made a 47-minute tour of the Bath VA facilities.

Rep. Olin Teague (D-Tex.) chairman of the House Veterans Affairs Committee, and Rep. E. Ross Adair (R-Ind.) did not indicate what action they would recommend concerning Bath. Goodell said it appeared a compromise was underway to keep open some of the 11 hospitals and "if such a compromise comes I feel confident the Bath VA center will be among those which will be kept open."

Health for All

Spring colds have always been considered good for laughs—especially by people who don't happen to be suffering from spring colds.

Actually, a cold can have serious consequences. The dimmest view of the matter was expressed by a medical commentator who said: "Many diseases that end in death begin with a common cold."

A whole body of tradition surrounds the common cold; much of it is medically sound. Recently Dr. Morris Fishbein, former editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association, voiced a classic theory: that a chill, or wet feet, or a dose of fatigue would make it easier for anybody to catch cold. Of course a virus is involved; but the upsetting of proper heat balance in the body makes it easier for the nasty little fellow to get in his licks.

The old medically approved remedies still hold good, too—as far as they go. There is no specific drug treatment for the common cold. A cold is the most contagious in its initial stage; that's the time to get into bed for a day or two, thus helping yourself and protecting your susceptible neighbors. Keep warm and drink plenty of liquids.

Speaking of tradition, there's an old-time saying about coughs and sneezes that's just as sound today as ever: "If they're yours,

Will Sunset Traffic Mount as Hazard

Can Be Trailers or Pig Sty When a Town Lacks Controls

BY CHARLES H. MCCARTHY
Freeman Staff Writer
(Last in a Series)

Some of the original groups from Sunset Park, particularly on Pine Place, say that their earlier claims that Sunset Gardens would present a traffic hazard have been substantiated; that traffic has increased, and that with the ensuing months it would prove even a greater hazard.

However, original developer Mal Cunningham pointed out that Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp. in early summer (1964) granted the developers permission to construct an access road across lands owned by C-H on Birch Street, and that the development provided for a "horseshoe" road from Pine Place around the initial units with access to Dalewood-Birch-Dogwood, now open, with a secondary access road proposed between Sunset Park and IBM off Boice's Lane.

Birch Prominently Mentioned
Planning Board Chairman Edward Devine said in a letter dated June 20, 1964 to Brininger & Larios, consulting engineers for Sunset Gardens, that he, Town Planner Robert Mickie and Town Attorney Lloyd LeFever felt that the second access road "could hook up on Birch Street some place to the west of Lot No. 13 about midway between Dalewood (formerly Maple) and Evergreen (formerly Hemlock)."

Devine wrote, "I feel that the only way we can approve this complex is by your client (Cunningham) at that time) installing a second access road from the northerly point of your proposed road . . . to Birch Street in Forest Glen Park."

The developer's access road plan, it appears, thus was designed to alleviate traffic in the Van Keuren-Morton Avenue area, with secondary ingress and egress plans connecting to Boice's Lane.

Some Limitations Set

As indicated earlier, there was a limitation placed on town services extended to the new super-development. While the complex was hooked up with town facilities for water connections, other such facilities as snow-plowing and highway services will remain up to the developer.

At the same time, it was obvious that the new development would now have a tremendous role to play in the town's future.

Cunningham, as original developer, anticipated occupancy of each building at 36 persons, or a total of 540 persons. (Presently, the first units were about 40 per cent of rental or in the process of negotiations for rental.)

DEADLY SERIOUS: It might be considered serious today to be blacklisted from a job, but the original blacklist carried a death penalty. When Charles II of England came to the throne in 1660, he listed in a black book the 56 men who had sentenced his father to death. They were all subsequently executed.

"As you can see," Cunningham told town officials "this should not disturb the present setup on your consolidated (Kingston Consolidated) school district."

He further projected school taxes per year for the project at $20,712, and $13,878 annually for town taxes. In a survey conducted by the National Association of Home Builders, he said, "it was concluded that the average family will spend $3,000 per year in the community. Therefore, the community should be enhanced by a cash flow of $450,000 per year."

As of the present, the Sunset Garden property has only been partially assessed, with new appraisal figures expected to be revealed shortly.

Census Figure Influence?

Eventual full occupancy of the development was expected to have some effect on the anticipated town growth both population-wise and structurally. It was for regard of the former growth that Ulster was not among the Ulster County towns engaged in the current county-wide census.

Supervisor Alexander J. Banjo told The Freeman that due to current construction development—residential as well as commercial-industrial—the possibility projected that within a period of just a few months the town might raise the 1960 census figure of 8,448 to a new figure in excess of 10,000, thus designating Ulster as eligible for classification as a first class town.

Others said that this eventually could also enhance the township's eligibility for substantial increases in state aid.

While Ulster remained a growing township, in spite of lack of supervision under the State Building Code, Banjo stressed that "rumors" involved in the long-range Sunset Garden development were just that.

He emphasized there was "absolutely no connection" between the Sunset Garden controversy and the resignations of Mickie as town planning consultant (succeeded by Manuel S. Emanuel of Spring Valley) and LeFever as town attorney (succeeded by Seymour Werbalowsky). Mickie had served the planning board since its inception in 1957.

The town supervisor told The Freeman that both Mickie and LeFever had indicated far before the end of last year that they had planned to resign for their own personal reasons, and that he had succeeded in having both men agree to remain through the end of the year until their successors could be obtained.

Banjo also said that the fact that Werbalowsky represented a group of residents protesting the development (both he and Attorney Louis A. Di Donna were consulted on a "non-retainer" or no-fee basis), had nothing to do with his qualifications to serve as town attorney.

As for the services of Attorney Rathkopf, Banjo said, the board hired him at a set fee appropriation of $1,500 which was approved at a special meeting—but that the final fee paid was $500, including all expenses and services.

Rathkopf, he pointed out, was also appointed at the suggestion of Mickie and others who were aware of his outstanding reputation in the zoning and planning field. And, as such, Rathkopf appeared to have one of the last "final words" in the current situation concerning not only the Sunset Garden development, but the township as well.

For in his Oct. 28 letter to LeFever, Rathkopf reiterated that the jurisdiction of the Town Planning Board "was predicated upon the assertion of the then-owner of the property (Cunningham) that he proposed to subdivide it in connection with the sale of condominium units."

Subsequently, the New York attorney noted, Cunningham sold the entire property as a unit to "Sunset Garden Apartments, Inc." (Germano), which in turn told the town attorney that the property "is not to be subdivided but is to be retained in one ownership with the buildings thereon to be utilized as rental units."

Rathkopf also told LeFever that "I should mention in passing that there was nothing before the Planning Board on Sept. 24, 1964, when it rendered its determination that gave it knowledge of the transfer of the property from Malvern Cunningham to Sunset Garden Apartments Inc.; even though the board may have had knowledge of this from its own sources, it was required to base its decision upon the record before it."

Rathkopf said it was his opinion that any action such as to enjoin any further development of the site, could be defeated by a recital of the facts and the applicable law. He said that "until an effort is made by Sunset Garden Apartments Inc., or any subsequent owner of the property to subdivide the property, that is to establish new lot lines within the property, the requirements of the Planning Board

Rules and Regulations do not apply. "I can only repeat the remarks which I made previously," Rathkopf concluded, "concerning the necessity for a zoning resolution or at least a large-scale development ordinance."

"I can only repeat the remarks which I made previously," Rathkopf concluded, "concerning the necessity for a zoning resolution or at least a large-scale development ordinance."

The "final word", it appeared could be attributed to Cunningham, who told The Freeman in reference to the construction of Sunset Gardens: "We could have built a trailer camp—or a pig sty."

Lockport Warehouse Destroyed by Fire

LOCKPORT, N.Y. (AP) — A large warehouse in downtown Lockport was destroyed in a fire Sunday night that raged unchecked for more than two hours.

One man was injured when a fire engine responding to the alarm struck him, police said. However, no one was reported injured in the fire-fighting operation.

The cause of the fire was not known. There was no estimate of damage.

Firemen said the building, which was located along the State Barge Canal in this Niagara County city, may have been used by as many as four firms for storage of equipment

five guard rail posts and overturned in a field.

Trooper Robert Whalen said Browne was driving east on Route 44-55 west of Fifth Street, Gardiner, when glaring headlights of an oncoming car obstructed his vision. The car went off the left side of the highway, hit the utility pole and guard rail

All-car average: 20.34 miles per gallon, at average speed of 51.6 mph

In America's mileage classic—the Mobil Economy Run—48 different makes and models of American cars, traveling at an average speed of 51.6 mph, crossed the continent from Los Angeles to New York, under the strict supervision of the United States Auto Club (USAC). Look what they averaged on Mobil's High Energy Gasoline!

What does this mean to you?

Simply this: while other gasolines talk about good mileage, Mobil's High Energy Gasoline proves its mileage potential in public!

The cars that compete in the Mobil Economy Run are not "specials" or "doctored" in any way. They're selected at random from dealer showrooms all across the country. The gasoline is the same gasoline you can buy at any Mobil station. Proof of its mileage potential is offered—not on a test track—but in public, over all kinds of roads from city streets to superhighways, through all kinds of conditions from deserts to 11,000-foot mountain passes.

It's America's toughest test of gasoline. Check the results above—certified by the United States Auto Club. Then try Mobil's High Energy Gasoline in your car—Premium or Regular.

CRASH ON RIVER ROAD—Two persons were injured and a motorist was cited for two motor vehicle violations, as the result of a two-car collision 1:15 a. m. Sunday on River Road, Town of Esopus. Trooper David Wachtel said the cars were driven by David Collier, 33, of Sky Top Apartments, Kingston, and John Noonan, 18, of Lakeview Avenue, also Kingston. Collier was attempting to pass a third car not involved in the mishap when the collision occurred, troopers said. Collier was summoned by Troopers Thomas Seales and Martin Krebs for driving an unregistered motor vehicle and having no license. The summonses are returnable before Justice of the Peace John O. Beaver, Town of Esopus. Injured in the mishap were Barbara McDermott, 19, of Colonial Gardens, who received contusion and lacerations of the head, and Joan Bonse, 18, of 52 St. James Street, who sustained bruises of the legs. Miss McDermott was taken to Kingston Hospital. One of the cars (above) is inspected by Town Constable Frank Bartroff Jr.

4 Hurt in Auto Accidents Sunday In County Area

Four persons were injured in traffic accidents investigated on Sunday by Highland State Police.

George Browne, 39, of Minnawaska Trail, Gardiner, and a passenger in his car, William Kreig, 40, of 164 Hudson Street, Cornwall, escaped serious injury at 9:30 p. m. Sunday, when the vehicle hit a pole, knocked down five guard rail posts and overturned in a field.

Trooper Robert Whalen said Browne was driving east on Route 44-55 west of Fifth Street, Gardiner, when glaring headlights of an oncoming car obstructed his vision. The car went off the left side of the highway, hit the utility pole and guard rail and overturned.

Browne sustained a laceration of the lip, and Kreig received cuts of the right hand and bruises of the head, Trooper B. E. Lehr investigated.

Linda Guglielmino, 16, of Box 69, Highland, and her mother, Mrs. Lillian Guglielmino, 50, were injured at 10:45 a. m. Sunday when their car was involved in a collision on South Street about two miles east of Ardonia in Plattekill, according to Trooper Robert Whalen.

Trooper Harry Foster reported the girl was driving north on South Street when the car was involved in a collision with a vehicle driven by Thomas Montfort, 45, of South Street, Highland. Miss Guglielmino sustained bruises of the left arm and her mother received a fractured ankle. Both were treated at St. Francis' Hospital in Poughkeepsie.

Trooper Lehr investigated a two-car collision which occurred at 5:30 p. m. Sunday on Route 9W, about three-tenths of a mile south of Route 299, Town of Lloyd. The vehicles were operated by George Woolsey, 38, of Highland, and Vincent Simone Jr., 18, also of Highland. Troop-

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The brighter the April business sky the more trouble spots stand out against it. Some may be comfortably distant but others are moving in as fast and unpredictably as a thunder storm.

The steel labor stalemate is one. With it is labor unrest in other industries. Union battles make wage negotiations the more uncertain and increase strike threats.

Some Shine Erased

The weather is a great up-setter of plans and hopes. In some areas, storms, floods or cold are hampering the Easter retail trade and industrial production schedules, shipments and prospects.

The slump in home building in many places and the cooling of the booming growth of some communities take some of the shine off the general prosperity in the nation.

Viet Nam and the East German autobahn seem far away, but trying to tell what flares in these spots may lead to is a pre-occupation of business, political and defense planners.

Most U.S. corporations are reporting increased profits for the first quarter of 1965, one of the more convincing proofs of business health. But some executives believe the rate of increase may have hit its peak, perhaps leveled off. They say effects of increased productivity and of tax cuts have been realized, with future stimulants unsighted or hazy. They also warn of rising costs ahead.

Much of this talk is based on belief that labor is more demanding now, seeking both higher wage scales and increased fringe benefits, especially in the fields of job security and pensions.

Observers Are Split

In the sighting of other clouds, observers split into two camps. Some see the economy in danger of overheating. They cite stockpiling by companies fearing that strikes will cut off supplies or raise profits. They also worry that the continuous upgrading of plans for business spending for new plants and equipment may lead to excess productive capacity such as plagued many industries after the expansion spree of the middle 1950s. They fret about rising public and private debts and the possibility of another wage-price spiral.

One group sees a letdown coming and argue that the present rush to build up stocks as a strike hedge means a drop in orders when the labor settlements are reached. They also say that the very age of the present business upswing, now in its 50th month, means that sooner or later there must be a slowdown. Their argument: There always has been.

The other camp says the concept of inevitable recessions is as obsolete now as some of the machines that companies are eager to replace. For this new breed of economists the April skies are bright and the clouds too distant or passing to bother about.

Final Appeal Is Made on Returns For Easter Seals

A final appeal on behalf of the handicapped children and adults of New York State has been issued by Harold M. Edwards, president of the Easter Seal Society of New York State (Association for Crippled Children and Adults). The campaign which opened March 1 ends on Easter Sunday, April 18. The annual appeal accounts for more than 90 per cent of the funds which support the society's year-round rehabilitation programs for the disabled.

According to Edwards this year's campaign is the largest in the history of the Easter Seal Society. "As our population increases, so does our number of handicapped," Edwards said. "It is our duty as responsible and sympathetic citizens to do all we can to make sure that our handicapped children become happy, useful, productive members of the community. The Easter Seal Society makes this possible by

Clinic Disavows 'Mayo Diet'

The following is a release of Dr. Bart J. Dutto, deputy health commissioner of the Ulster County Health Department:

There has been a growing number of requests for the so-called "Mayo Clinic" diet. This diet has been disavowed by the Mayo Clinic in print in the Bulletin of the American Dietetic Association. This disavowal is as follows: Mayo Clinic Disavows Mayo Diet.

"It is interesting to note the remarkable persistence of diets that appeal to the hope for an easy way to weight reduction. The 'Mayo diet' is a good example of this phenomenon. Its continued popularity and circulation on a person-to-person basis probably depends on the belief that it will achieve substantial weight loss in some semi-magical way because of the odd combination of foods specified. 'Hope springs eternal'."

The so-called "Mayo egg diet" or "Mayo reducing diet," which specifies a large number of eggs and claims to achieve weight loss through some alteration of body chemistry, did not come from the Mayo Clinic. There is no resemblance between this diet and any diet used by the Mayo Clinic and associated hospitals. Although we have received inquiries about this diet for many years, we are receiving them now at an increasing rate. Apparently this diet is circulated from person to person, usually in a neatly mimeographed form. We are sure that readers of the Journal of the American Dietetic Association can be of help in informing the public of the uncertain origin of this diet."

Dr. Harry N. Hoffman, chairman of Committee on Dietetics, Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn.

The reason this diet is so good is because it causes the body to use up the glycogen reserves in the liver. This can cause serious damage by depleting the glycogen stores in the liver. This glycogen is needed especially when there is an intake of alcohol, certain medications and liver disease or malfunction.

Big push behind new homes!

Savings Banks are by far the largest source of mortgage money in New York State!

Today nearly 4,000,000 people in New York State live in homes financed by Savings Banks. Four million—that's more than the combined total populations of Manhattan, Albany, Schenectady, Troy, Syracuse, Utica, Rochester and Buffalo!

Year after year in New York State, Savings Banks hold more mortgage loans than all commercial banks, savings and loan associations and insurance companies in the state combined!

Why do so many people turn to Savings Banks for their mortgage needs? Because Savings Banks are by far the most experienced mortgage lenders in the state. With billions of dollars loaned at lowest possible interest rates, Savings Banks mean Grow-Power for homeowners . . . today . . . and for the years ahead.

A new home is the largest single investment most families ever make. It represents financial security for later years . . . power to grow today. And this year alone, nearly a half million people in New York State will move into new homes financed with a mortgage from a Savings Bank!

LINCOLN, Ill. (AP) — Barber James Freeman gives his customers free tonsorial service when they are hospitalized.

When his day's duties are done at the shop, he packs his tools and goes to the hospital.

their possession should not try to follow it because it can lead to greater weight gain after the diet is stopped, and even serious illness. It is the feeling of this office that this was originally started as a joke and has now gotten out of hand, the report concluded.

Big push behind new homes!

Savings Banks are by far the largest source of mortgage money in New York State!

Today nearly 4,000,000 people in New York State live in homes financed by Savings Banks. Four million—that's more than the combined total populations of Manhattan, Albany, Schenectady, Troy, Syracuse, Utica, Rochester and Buffalo!

Year after year in New York State, Savings Banks hold more mortgage loans than all commercial banks, savings and loan associations and insurance companies in the state combined!

Why do so many people turn to Savings Banks for their mortgage needs? Because Savings Banks are by far the most experienced mortgage lenders in the state. With billions of dollars loaned at lowest possible interest rates, Savings Banks mean Grow-Power for homeowners . . . today . . . and for the years ahead.

A new home is the largest single investment most families ever make. It represents financial security for later years . . . power to grow today. And this year alone, nearly a half million people in New York State will move into new homes financed with a mortgage from a Savings Bank!

Takeout Double at Wrong Time

By JACOB & SON
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
A rather plaintive letter reads: "Will you please write a column on when to double an opening bidder. I play with a group which insists that one must double any time he holds as good as an opening bid so that his partner will know about his strength. Please advise."
This will require several columns since it runs into the whole question of what to do when your opponents open the bidding. I will devote today's column to a horrible example.
North has 13 high card points and a good hand. It is surely worth an opening bid and it is surely worth a takeout double of an opposing heart bid. Unfortunately for this particular North he chose to make a takeout double of an opposing spade bid.
This led his partner into a doubled two heart contract and the result was a North-South tragedy. West opened the six of clubs and East signaled come-on with the seven. This held declarer to one club trick. He also managed to lose two diamonds and three trumps and was minus 1,100 when the hand was over.

Strangely enough, North blamed his partner. He said that if South had only passed West would have been set at one spade. North's analysis was on a par with his bidding. Assuming that West played reasonably correct he would have made at least one spade and probably two.

Had North simply passed one spade, chances are that East and West would have gotten too high in no-trump and North and South would have shown a profit.

TV Reviews, Best Bets

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — All over the country, Little Leaguers are practicing knocking dirt off their shoes and tugging at their caps in earnest imitation of their baseball heroes, whose every mannerism can be observed so closely on television.
And, it seems, older fans of televised sports are causing consternation on many of the nation's golf courses where players — particularly the duffers — often go through the leisurely preliminaries they have learned from the professional stars.
During the final rounds of the Masters tournament which CBS covered live Saturday and Sunday, the players actually spent comparatively little time picking up grass, repairing turf on the putting greens or surveying the lie from various angles.
Perhaps the players had been urged to get on with the game. Earlier this season, there were many long periods as players walked up to inspect the fairway beyond a rise, thoughtfully gazed at a water hazard or cleaned up a putting surface.
"Mission to Malaya," ABC's Saturday night special in its "Daring American" series, was an inspiring, warmly human and exciting documentary about two young Peace Corps nurses on a jungle island in Malaya.
We saw nurse Rita Franzone ably administering to the sick during the last few days of her two-year assignment. Then Marjorie Benning, her replacement — eager but a bit unsure of the language and the people — moved on her first day into a life-or-death situation.
The hour closeup of these two fine young women did more to explain the Peace Corps than a thousand inspirational lectures and pamphlets.
Recommended tonight: "FDR Remembers," CBS, 10-11 EST — a memoir of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt on the 20th anniversary of his death.

Admiral Raborn Replaces McCone In Intelligence

BY DON CARSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retired Vice Adm. William F. Raborn Jr. headed back for Washington today, this time to become the new chief of the Central Intelligence Agency.
Raborn, 59, was tabbed for the spot Sunday by President Johnson. He succeeds John A. McCone, the West Coast industrialist who became head of the super-secret agency in 1961.
There have been reports since last December that McCone wanted to return to private life.
The selection of his successor was announced shortly after the President signed the $1.3-billion school aid bill while weekendending at his Johnson City, Tex., ranch.
Raborn, like the President a native of Texas, was on hand. Asked when the job switch would take place, the President replied that Raborn would return with him to Washington today.
Raborn will leave the vice presidency of Aerojet General Corp. of Pasadena, Calif., to take over his new post. He retired from the Navy in September 1963, after serving as deputy chief of naval operations for research, a job in which he also was based in Washington.
Johnson chose Richard G. Helms, 52, a longtime newspaperman, as Raborn's deputy director. Helms has been deputy director for plans since the CIA was created in 1947.
McCone, 62, has served under the last four presidents. He was deputy to the undersecretary of defense in 1948, undersecretary of the Air Force in 1950-51.

Takeout Double at Wrong Time

By JACOBY & SON
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A rather plaintive letter reads: "Will you please write a column on when to double an opening bidder. I play with a group which insists that one must double any time he holds as good as an opening bid so that his partner will know about his strength. Please advise."

This will require several columns since it runs into the whole question of what to do when your opponents open the bidding. I will devote today's column to a horrible example.

North has 13 high card points and a good hand. It is surely worth an opening bid and it is surely worth a takeout double of an opposing heart bid. Unfortunately for this particular North he chose to make a takeout double of an opposing spade bid.

This led his partner into a doubled two heart contract and the result was a North-South tragedy. West opened the six of clubs and East signaled come-on with the seven. This hold declarer to one club trick. He also managed to lose two diamonds and three trumps and was minus 1,100 when the hand was over.

Strangely enough, North blamed his partner. He said that if South had only passed West would have been set at one spade. North's analysis was on a par with his bidding. Assuming that West played reasonably correct he would have made at least one spade and probably two.

Had North simply passed one spade, chances are that East and West would have gotten too high in no-trump and North and South would have shown a profit.

TV Reviews, Best Bets

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — All over the country, Little Leaguers are practicing knocking dirt off their shoes and tugging at their caps in earnest imitation of their baseball heroes, whose every mannerism can be observed so closely on television.

And, it seems, older fans of televised sports are causing consternation on many of the nation's golf courses where players — particularly the duffers — often go through the leisurely preliminaries they have learned from the professional stars.

During the final rounds of the Masters tournament which CBS covered live Saturday and Sunday, the players actually spent comparatively little time picking up grass, repairing turf on the putting greens or surveying the lie from various angles.

Perhaps the players had been urged to get on with the game. Earlier this season, there were many long periods as players walked up to inspect the fairway beyond a rise, thoughtfully gazed at a water hazard or cleaned up a putting surface.

"Mission to Malaya," ABC's Saturday night special in its "Daring American" series, was an inspiring, warmly human and exciting documentary about two young Peace Corps nurses on a jungle island in Malaya.

We saw nurse Rita Franzone ably administering to the sick during the last few days of her two-year assignment. Then Marjorie Bonning, her replacement — eager but a bit unsure of the language and the people — moved on her first day into a life-or-death situation.

The hour closeup of these two fine young women did more to explain the Peace Corps than a thousand inspirational lectures and pamphlets.

Service Is Restored After Derailment

MACHIAS, N.Y. (AP) — Normal service was restored today on the single-track main line of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, scene of a 29-car freight train derailment.

State police said the cause of the derailment Saturday, three miles south of this Cattaraugus County community, was not known.

No one was reported injured. The 115-car train was enroute from Salamanca to Rochester. Christopher Columbus reached Cadiz, Spain, in fetters on Nov. 5, 1500.

Admiral Raborn Replaces McCone In Intelligence

BY DON CARSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retired Vice Adm. William F. Raborn Jr. headed back for Washington today, this time to become the new chief of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Raborn, 59, was tabbed for the spot Sunday by President Johnson. He succeeds John A. McCone, the West Coast industrialist who became head of the super-secret agency in 1961.

There have been reports since last December that McCone wanted to return to private life.

The selection of his successor was announced shortly after the President signed the $1.3-billion school aid bill while weekendizing at his Johnson City, Tex., ranch. Raborn, like the President a native of Texas, was on hand. Asked when the job switch would take place, the President replied that Raborn would return with him to Washington today.

Raborn will leave the vice presidency of Aerojet General Corp. of Pasadena, Calif., to take over his new post. He retired from the Navy in September 1963, after serving as deputy chief of naval operations for research, a job in which he also was based in Washington.

Johnson chose Richard G. Helms, 52, a longtime newspaperman, as Raborn's deputy. Helms has been deputy director for plans since the CIA was created in 1947.

McCone, 62, has served under the last four presidents. He was deputy to the undersecretary of defense in 1948, undersecretary of the Air Force in 1950-51.

Writes About Tornado and Its Victims

By DICK MYERS
News Director, WRIN, Rensselaer, Ind.

LEBANON, Ind., (AP) — I have talked to some of the people who survived the tornadoes that ripped across northern and central Indiana Sunday night and they were still shaking and had a glassy look in their eyes. In a Lebanon hospital I saw a man with blood streaming down his back. I asked why he didn't sit down.

"Why, there's nothing wrong with me," he said. He turned and found he was cut from the shoulder blade to his belt line.

A boy was standing in the hall wrapped in a blanket. All he had under it was a belt. I suppose it was all the clothing he could find. There were so many injured that nurses were treating patients in the halls. Cots had been brought in from the National Guard Armory for the worst hurt. The dead were being taken there as the mortuaries filled up. They were being placed on the floor.

I saw a late model Thunderbird which had been picked up by a twister north of Lebanon and tossed 200 yards into a field. It was literally rolled into a ball. The driver was the only one of the four people in the car wearing a seat belt and he was able to walk back to the road. Two were killed and the other was in critical condition.

Civil defense people said 75 to 80 homes were damaged around Lebanon. Many of them are beyond repair. Some just aren't there any more.

One Guardsman at the armory sent word to his wife to send him some cigarettes and some change and said to tell her not to expect him home for a day or two.

An aged woman was found dead in a smashed house in the Elizaville area. About an hour later an electrical cooperative repair crew found a boy in his early teens—probably the dead woman's grandson—lying critically injured near a barn about a hundred yards away.

Ray Wilk, whose house was badly damaged, said, "The house started to shake and tremble. Then all hell broke loose." He said his wife and daughter were in a front room watching television. And although they were thrown clear across the room, nobody in the family was hurt.

Catholic Teens Take Part in Lenten Parleys

Over 2,100 Catholic teenagers attending public school took part in a Life and Love Conference co-sponsored around the Archdiocese in mid-Lent by the Family Life Bureau and the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine.

The Rev. William F. McManus, Associate Director of the Family Life Bureau and the Rev. William J. Tobin, Assistant Director of the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine, collaborated in organizing the conferences in cooperation with 12 priests who acted as area directors for the boroughs and counties in the Archdiocese.

Local conferences were conducted under the direction of the Rev. Robert E. O'Donnell of St. Catherine Labourer Church, Lake Katrine, at St. Joseph's School Hall and St. Ursula Academy.

The purpose of the conferences was to give teenagers an opportunity to hear youth experts, both clerical and lay, discuss the three themes, Be Somebody! Do Something! and Be Somebody! — Do Something Today! The teenagers not only listened, but actively participated in the discussions in buzz sessions that in several places were conducted by panels of Young Christian Students who had been trained by the Rev. Edmund W. Netter, Archdiocesan Chaplain of the group, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Netter of Hone Street, this city.

Public Hearing
Slated Tonight
On OCS Budget

The proposed 1965-66 gross budget of $2,819,187 for the Ontario Central Schools District will be aired at a public hearing tonight at 8 o'clock.

The Ontario Board of Education will conduct the meeting in the cafeteria of the main building at Boiceville. All qualified taxpayers are invited to attend.

Total anticipated expenditures for next year are $155,830 greater than the 1964-65 figure of $2,663,357.

According to present estimates the local property tax levy will be some $27,899 less than the $1,734,985 raised last year.

The published form of the proposed budget is slightly different in certain categories because of the new state law requiring double entry bookkeeping.

Board president Philip Gordon has assigned specific areas in the budget to various trustees who will be prepared to answer questions raised on these appropriations.

Auxiliary Hears
Several Reports

Monthly reports of standing committees were given by committee chairmen at the regular meeting of Woodstock American Legion Auxiliary. The president, Mrs. Mary Deede, presided.

Members were asked to write letters of protest to President Johnson with regard to the closing of the VA hospitals in this vicinity.

The Unit will sponsor a Poppy Poster contest along with Poppy Day Activities.

There will be a Poppy Hat contest for the members of the unit. Any member who would like to make a hat, may do so. Further details may be obtained from Mrs. Magda Moseman.

A folding table was presented to the Woodstock American Legion Post for their birthday.

Donations were made to the Local Cancer drive, the Department President's project Mobility program for blind children and also to the Memorial Hospital, New York City.

It was voted to pledge five minutes time for Radio Free Europe, and to hold a phantom food sale next month for this pledge.

Mrs. Deede reported on having attended the dinner in New Paltz for the Department Commander and Department President last month.

Paul Ottoson, Commander of the Woodstock Post was present and asked the cooperation of the unit for the Memorial Day Activities. A committee will be named to cooperate with them.

The Middletown State Hospital School of Nursing will hold an Open House from 1 to 3 p. m. Tuesday, April 27, it was announced today.

Mrs. Virginia H. Gardner, principal of the School of Nursing, said parents of students interested in a nursing career were welcomed.

The hospital is nationally approved by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals. LONDON (AP) — Russians just don't talk about Nikita Khrushchev any more, says former U.S. Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Nixon told reporters at London Airport Sunday that he tried to look up the former Russian premier during a visit to Moscow Saturday.

"I didn't try to see him at embassy level," he said. "About the only person to mention him was a cab driver. All references to him have been removed and people refuse to talk about Mr. K."

Aviation Merit Badge

Nine Boy Scouts of Troop 60, Phenicia completed requirements Saturday for their aviation merit badge and in addition received an airplane ride. For most of them this was a first.

The demonstration flight was at Kingston - Ulster Airport with Brian Carrol, airport operator and Cessna aircraft dealer and Hudson Valley Flying Club providing the aircraft for the flights.

James Delmege and William Landelman, counselor, served as pilots.

The following scouts were awarded their merit badges: James Quick, Dennis Gale, Steven Heneon, Alan Simpson, Robert Ostrander, Michael Hereth, Carl Segelken, David Hemeon and Fletcher Landelman.

A large gathering of parents were on hand to witness the flights.

The word hospital comes from the Latin word hospes meaning guests. Hospitals in ancient times were shelters or guest houses for weary or sick travelers.

Recommendation On Insurance And Hospital Aid

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A committee on hospital costs has told Gov. Rockefeller there should be a state law to require all employees and their dependents to have hospital insurance.

Among scores of other proposals advanced Sunday, the Folsom Committee also recommended an expansive program of state aid and loans to hospitals.

There was no total estimate of costs involved. The advisory committee, however, saw needs for spending hundreds of millions of dollars to modernize and replace medical-care facilities.

The need for action, the committee said, has "reached staggering dimensions."

The seven-member committee worked under the chairmanship of Marion B. Folsom, former U.S. Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

Its report was issued against a background of controversy over hospital costs and rates for Blue Cross hospital insurance.

The committee's major proposals included:

—Passing legislation to require all employees and their dependents be covered by hospital insurance plans. Costs would be borne by employees and employers.

—Making counties pay the full costs of hospital care for welfare patients.

—Having the state pay part of the cost of caring for needy patients under age 65.

—Contributing in state funds at least a third of the cost to build or modernize non-profit hospitals and nursing homes and establishing a loan program of up to $200 million to help the institutions meet their share of the costs.

Give Good Example

NEW HARTFORD, N.Y. (AP) —Thirty members of a high school fraternity spent a sunny afternoon cleaning litter from the front of their school and they did it by choice, not command.

The members of Rho Kappa Phi, pupils at Oxford Road High School in this Ulster-area community, turned out for the spring-cleanup Saturday.

"We hope to influence the others to stop being litter bugs by setting this example," said Tan Platt, 17, the fraternity president.

Wood cellulose (tree-derived source of paper) is the fibrous part of wood.

—Providing $5 million a year to aid nursing schools connected with non-profit hospitals.

—Appropriating $1 million a year to compensate hospitals for maintaining stand-by maternity beds.

Dealing with hospitalization plans, the Folsom unit said Blue Cross coverage should be expanded to include pre-admission testing and out-patient care thus deterring persons from entering hospitals just to qualify for financial help.

Also, the committee suggested allowing hospital plans, such as Blue Cross, to offer medical benefits and authorizing medical plans, such as Blue Shield, to offer hospital benefits.

Public Hearing
Slated Tonight
On OCS Budget

The proposed 1965-66 gross budget of $2,819,187 for the Ontario Central Schools District will be aired at a public hearing tonight at 8 o'clock.

The Ontario Board of Education will conduct the meeting in the cafeteria of the main building at Boiceville. All qualified taxpayers are invited to attend. Total anticipated expenditures for next year are $1,535,830 greater than the 1964-65 figure of $2,663,357.

According to present estimates the local property tax levy will be some $27,899 less than the $1,734,985 raised last year. The published form of the proposed budget is slightly different in certain categories because of the new state law requiring double entry bookkeeping.

Board president Philip Gordon has assigned specific areas in the budget to various trustees who will be prepared to answer questions raised on these appropriations.

Chamber to Pick
Three Directors
And Hear Grad

The Woodstock Township Chamber of Commerce will elect three new directors from a list of six nominations at its membership meeting Thursday at 8 p. m. at Deane's in Woodstock. The nominees are: Louis Feinberg, Mrs. Frank Minervini, Warren Marr, George Seibert, Floyd Simmons and Sarah Springer.

The newly-elected directors and the holdover directors will then elect line officers for 1965-66. Oscar VandenDooren is the incumbent president.

Peter Grad will speak on various proposals for state and federal support for the arts, with special emphasis on their application to Woodstock. He will discuss in some detail President Johnson's recent pronouncement on the arts.

Auxiliary Hears
Several Reports

Monthly reports of standing committees were given by committee chairmen at the regular meeting of Woodstock American Legion Auxiliary. The president, Mrs. Mary Deede, presided.

Members were asked to write letters of protest to President Johnson with regard to the closing of the VA hospitals in this vicinity.

The unit will sponsor a Poppy Poster contest along with Poppy Day Activities.

There will be a Poppy Hat contest for the members of the unit. Any member who would like to make a hat, may do so. Further details may be obtained from Mrs. Magda Moseman.

A folding table was presented to the Woodstock American Legion Post for their birthday. Donations were made to the Local Cancer drive, the Department President's project Mobility program for blind children and also to the Memorial Hospital, New York City.

It was voted to pledge five minutes time for Radio Free Europe, and to hold a phantom food sale next month for this pledge.

Mrs. Deede reported on having attended the dinner in New Paltz for the Department Commander and Department President last month.

Paul Ottoson, Commander of the Woodstock Post was present and asked the cooperation of the unit for the Memorial Day Activities. A committee will be named to cooperate with them. After the meeting closed, refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Magda Moseman and Mrs. Ethel Hasbrouck.

Metropolitan Invests $1.9 Billion in N. Y.

Metropolitan Life Insurance Company assets invested in New York amounted to $1.9 billion at the end of 1964, it was announced today by George H. Devine, manager of the Company's Kingston office.

Metropolitan contributed significantly to demands for capital in New York to finance industrial expansion and research; to help meet the needs of large and small businesses; and to spur the trend towards home ownership. For example, more than $748.8 million was invested in corporate securities in New York, and Metropolitan mortgage loans in the state amounted to $434.1 million.

The Company's holdings of U. S. Government bonds alone—apportioned to New York on the basis of its population—amounted to $81.1. Other Metropolitan assets attributable to New York amounted to $580.7 million. Total Company assets—held for the protection of policyholders and in order to pay future benefits—reached a new high of $21.4 billion at year-end, an increase of 4.6 per cent during the year. The net return on the Metropolitan investment portfolio was 4.54 per cent, the highest since 1932.

Maple Sirup Time

Spring in the north country means another crop of maple sirup is on its way. The warm days and cold nights of March and April are ideal for producing collecting sap. Although maple sirup is available in the market year around, it is produced only in the spring, says Louise M. Kakaigo, assistant county home demonstration agent.

New York State ranks first in production — Last year New York produced better than 516,000 gallons of maple sirup and was the leading state in the nation. Production exceeded the recent 5-year average by 25 percent. Prospects this year are for another good supply. Since 1952 New York has replaced Vermont as the top producer in the country.

Increased efficiency brought to maple products production — Maple sirup is expensive to produce. It requires costly labor and equipment to tap the trees for sap, to collect and process the sap to sirup, and to package it. New methods to gather and process maple sap have helped to produce a better sirup at less cost. For example, plastic p-peelings collect sap from several trees and have replaced buckets in some areas. Then, too, production has become specialized. Some producers only collect sap and sell it, according to its sugar content, to processors who boil down the sap to sirup in large evaporators.

Maple sirup is concentrated sweetness — Sugar content of sap varies from 30 to 40 percent. With an average sugar content of two or three per cent, it takes about 40 gallons of sap to process one gallon of sirup. The higher the sugar content of the sap, the less sap it takes to process a gallon of sirup. To meet New York State grades, sirup must contain 65½ per cent sugar and weight 11 pounds per gallon.

New York State laws protect the shopper — New York State law requires all 100 per cent maple products to be marked with the word pure on the label.

New York State does not recognize maple sirup blends. Shoppers may find blends of other sirups, such as corn or cane, combined with pure maple sirup in varying amounts from other states. The label of the product lists the ingredients in order of amount contained. The item listed first is present in the largest amount. If the sirup has imitation maple flavoring, it must be so labeled.

New York State grades guide the shopper — Buying by grade helps to get the type of sirup desired. Official New York State grades for maple sirup in order of quality are New York Fancy, New York No. 1, and New York No. 2. Sirup failing to meet these grades is unclassified.

Color is an important factor in grading and classifying maple sirup. Much sirup is sold as light, medium or darker amber. New York grades include: New York Fancy Light Amber Table Grade — light in color and mild in flavor.

New York No. 1 or Medium Amber Table Grade — slightly darker in color and stronger in maple flavor than New York Fancy grade. It is the most popular table sirup and is often used for cooking due to its slightly stronger flavor.

New York No. 2 or Dark Amber Table Grade — darker than amber and stronger in maple and caramel flavor. This grade is used largely for cooking and is especially good as a topping for ice cream. Processors use this grade to make maple product blends.

First run maple sirup is not necessarily the best flavored. Excellent quality sirup may be made throughout the season, depending on method and care used in collection of the sap and in the processing.

Protect the flavor of maple sirup with proper home care. — Once opened, store containers of maple sirup in the refrigerator. If a sugary crust forms on the surface of the sirup, heat it to dissolve the sugar and thus remove the crust.

Q: I share an apartment with a young woman. She is very neat and pleasant and we get on well together. However, I have discovered lately that some of my things are disappearing. Two weeks ago I missed a pair of good black gloves which I had worn only once. Thinking that I had lost them, I let it go at that. But several days later I missed a pair of nylons and just today, a slip. I hate to accuse anyone of being dishonest, but I can't help thinking that she is taking my things. ### Maple Sirup Time

Spring in the north country means another crop of maple sirup is on its way. The warm days and cold nights of March and April are ideal for producing collecting sap. Although maple sirup is available in the market year around, it is produced only in the spring, says Louise M. Kakagoo, assistant county home demonstration agent.

New York State ranks first in production — Last year New York produced better than 510,000 gallons of maple sirup and was the leading state in the nation. Production exceeded the recent 5-year average by 25 per cent. Prospects this year are for another good supply. Since 1962 New York has replaced Vermont as the top producer in the country.

Increased efficiency brought to maple products production — Maple sirup is expensive to produce. It requires costly labor and equipment to tap the trees for sap to collect and process the sap to sirup, and to package it. New methods to gather and process maple sap have helped to produce a better sirup at less cost. For example, plastic pipelines collect sap from several trees and have replaced buckets in some areas. Then, too, production has become specialized. Some producers only collect sap and sell it, according to its sugar content, to processors who boil down the sap to sirup in large evaporators.

Maple sirup is concentrated sweetness — Sugar content of sap varies from 20 to 40 per cent. With an average sugar content of two or three per cent, it takes about 40 gallons of sap to process one gallon of sirup. Dear Abby . . .

A Lawyer's A Lawyer!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am writing about your response to NO KEY IN MANHATTAN: The writer said that her employer advised her of her legal rights, and you replied, "Unless your employer is a lawyer, don't regard his word as law." I think your sarcasm was pointless. Am I to understand by your remark, that only a lawyer should know anything about law? Every tenant worth his salt knows his rights and his landlord's obligations.

NO LAWYER IN ANAHEIM

DEAR NO LAWYER: You are substantially correct; tenants and landlords should know their rights and obligations. But because the law is so complicated (and laws differ from state to state) the married couple of me and my lawyer, a man with a broken arm can't get a doctor fast enough. But a man with a broken contract resents shelling out for legal advice. I say, if one has a legal problem, hunt up a lawyer and pay him for what he knows.

DEAR ABBY: I hope this gets printed because my husband reads your column and I haven't the nerve to tell him this. We have been married for 15 years and have a lovely family. My husband was engaged to someone else before we met, but she married another man. Soon after, we met and fell in love. (At least, I fell in love with him.) Abby, I have a very strong feeling that my husband is still in love with this woman. (Or the memory of her.) He has said me out of his life completely, and we have nothing in common any more. He isn't mean to me or anything like that. He gives me his whole pay check, but we aren't happy. I am 33, look 45 and feel 80. He hasn't seen this other woman in all these years, so in his mind she is still the same. I have seen her recently, and she isn't. Do you think if I told him to go to see her it would help?

ALL CRIED OUT

DEAR ALL CRIED OUT: It isn't worth the gamble. How do you know your husband is still "in love" with this other woman (for the memory of her)? The best index to a man's feelings is his actions. And if he's good to you gives you his whole pay check and hasn't seen the old flame perhaps you are trying to solve a problem that doesn't exist.

DEAR ABBY: I know you get lots of letters on how to make a marriage work, but I would like to tell you how my mother and father make theirs work. I am 14 years old and have two brothers and three sisters. Well, when my father comes home from work, the first thing he does is go in the room where my mother is and kiss her hello and say, "I love you, Honey." He still holds her on his lap once in a while, too.

My mother is 41 and my father is 47 and they both answer any question any of us kids ask them. If we want to do something they don't want us to do, they won't let us. But they always tell us why.

Don't think my parents aren't strict because they are. None of us kids get to do anything for recreation until all our work is done. I couldn't ask for better parents.

Dear Abby . . .

A Lawyer's A Lawyer!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am writing about your response to NO KEY IN MANHATTAN. The writer said that her employer advised her of her legal rights, and you replied, "Unless your employer is a lawyer, don't regard his word as 'law'." I think your sarcasm was pointless. Am I to understand by your remark that only a lawyer should know anything about law? Every tenant worth his salt knows his rights and his landlord's obligations.

NO LAWYER IN ANAHEIM

DEAR NO LAWYER: You are substantially correct; tenants and landlords should know their rights and obligations. But because the law is so complicated (and laws differ from state to state) the most reliable source of information in the event of a dispute is a competent lawyer. A man with a broken arm can't get a doctor fast enough. But a man with a broken contract needs shelling out for legal advice. I say, if one has a legal problem, hunt up a lawyer and pay him for what he knows.

DEAR ABBY: I hope this gets printed because my husband reads your column and I haven't the nerve to tell him this. We have been married for 15 years and have a lovely family. My husband was engaged to someone else before he met me, but she married another man. Soon after, we met and fell in love. (At least, I fell in love with him.) Abby, I have a very strong feeling that my husband is still in love with this woman. (Or the memory of her.) He has sent me out of his life completely, and we have nothing in common any more. He isn't mean to me or anything like that. He gives me his whole pay check, but we aren't happy. I am 33, look 45 and feel 80. He hasn't seen this other woman in all these years, so in his mind she is still the same. I have seen her recently, and she isn't. Do you think if I told him to go to see her it would help?

ALL CRIED OUT

DEAR ALL CRIED OUT: It isn't worth the trouble. How do you know your husband is still "in love" with this other woman (or the memory of her)? The best index to a man's feelings is his actions. ## Greenwald Travel Service Observes 60th Anniversary

Greenwald's Travel Service, located at 286 Fair Street, is celebrating its 60th year of service to the traveling public of Kingston and the surrounding area.

It was in 1905 that, armed with a working knowledge of Italian, German, and Hungarian, Jacob Greenwald started helping many families in the vicinity bring relatives to the United States from the other side of the Atlantic. At that time, he accepted the appointment of the Cunard Steamship Company as its agent in this area. Other appointments followed and, with his father, Max Greenwald, he founded the travel agency known at that time as "The Transatlantic and Coastwise Steamship Agency" at 49 Broadway. Later, the office moved to 39 Broadway and, in 1931, to its present location on Fair Street.

In 1936, Greenwald's Travel Service was accepted as a member of the American Society of Travel Agents which had been organized in 1933. Greenwald's was among the first 300 member agencies (many of whom have since retired) of an organization that now numbers over 1800 member agencies and over 3200 associates and affiliates. In 1905, a steamship crossing of the Atlantic meant a lapse of 8 to 12 days compared with today's express liners crossing in five days. Air travel was unknown but today Europe's major capitals are a mere 6 to 8 hours from New York. The tourist class accommodations on today's ocean queens are superior, in many respects, to the first class staterooms of yesteryear. It is interesting to note that a trans-Atlantic crossing by steamer in 1905 could be made for as little as $30.

Until the mid-twenties, immigrants that were booked by Greenwald's were placed aboard trains of the West Shore Railroad at Hoboken and were met at the local station by Mr. Greenwald who carefully checked their lapel tags for names and relatives and then turned them over to their families. Many of these families are still in the area and ticket stubs have been kept of some of them as mementoes of a past age. Prior to World War

II, the Greenwald agency was instrumental in bringing over 6,500 people from Central and Southern Europe.

Top Source of Income

In the early years, immigration and foreign remittances were the major form of travel agency operation. Only in the 1920's did the tour and cruise business start to develop. Today, travel represents one of the top five sources of income to most countries of the world that are open to tourist travel.

Much has been said and written of modern travel trends, but much is not new. In "Travel Talks," a publication distributed by Greenwald's in 1926, is an article featuring "moving pictures on a moving train" — and today the movies are on a moving plane. And in the same brochure is an ad featuring a "save-to-travel" club, parent of the vacation clubs of today's banking institutions.

Today, a reputable travel service stands ready to offer professional service and advice in many fields: transportation on steamship, planes, trains and buses at home and abroad, tours and cruises, sightseeing, hotel and resort reservations, foreign car purchases, car rentals, foreign exchange and travelers cheques, travel insurance, passport and visa information, health requirements, customs and shopping. Herbert Greenwald, present president and son and grandson of the co-founders, assumed management of the business in 1946. A graduate of Kingston Schools and the University of Pennsylvania, Greenwald served as superintendent of the Florida Transportation Company of Miami before enlisting in the Army Transportation Corps in 1952. During 42 months of overseas duty, he was stationed in England, North Africa and Italy and was awarded the Bronze Star for meritorious service.

Active in Community

Mr. Greenwald has been a Kiwanian for 19 years, a board member of the Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America and a deputy director of transportation for the Ulster County Civil Defense. He has served as a fire commissioner of the Spring Lake Fire Department and currently serves with their fire police unit. He is a member and former president of the Stampotters Society of Kingston and a member of the Board of Trustees of Temple Emanuel. A past treasurer of the New York State Chapter of A.S.T.A., Mr. Greenwald is also active in Eon Vivans travel fraternity. Associated with Greenwald are Ann Olsen, Agnes Bruce and his wife, Louise Greenwald. Mrs. Olsen, a native of Saugerties and a graduate of Saug-

60th ANNIVERSARY—Congratulations on the 60th anniversary of Greenwald's Travel Service are being extended to Herbert K. Greenwald, president of the agency, by B. V. President, James Fitzpatrick of the United States Lines and fellow member, George Schulbaum. Greenwald has the unique distinction of travelling a greater distance to attend monthly meetings than any other of the 800 members — in excess of 1,500 miles a year.

Town of Olive Cancer Crusade Team Workers

Co-chairman of the Town of Olive committee in charge of that area's participation in the 1965 Cancer Crusade conducted this month by the Ulster County Unit of the American Cancer Society, today announced team workers.

The Crusade was officially launched on April 1 and will continue at least through this month. J. Wilson Tinney, of Port Even, county chairman for the fund raising campaign, said today, "We have never been better prepared. Volunteers have responded with enthusiasm, eager to establish a new record. I am confident they will. All know the success of their assignment will help save lives from cancer through research, education and service. It is a serious job and they know it."

Mrs. Arthur Sampson, chairwoman of the Town of Olive committee and Mrs. Joseph Werner, co-chairman, announced the following volunteers, who are now busily engaged in canvassing the township:

Fined $30, Drivers Licenses Revoked

James W. Clark, 18, of Staatsburg, was charged with three motor vehicle violations on Sunday, after State Trooper David Wachtel of the Kingston substation, pursued his car at high speed along Route 9W in the Town of Ulster.

Wachtel said he booked Clark on charges of speeding, crossing a double white line and possessing two operator's licenses. The trooper said Clark pleaded guilty to the charges before Justice of the Peace Robert S. Ferrigan, Town of Kingston, and was fined a total of $30.

Judge Ferrigan revoked two driver's licenses held by the accused youth. Clark was committed to the county jail until payment of the fines, the trooper said.

Gambling Arrests

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP)—Dist. Atty. Stephen Smyk says a countywide gambling raid by State and Municipal Police resulted in 24 arrests.

Seventy state troopers and 25 city police hit houses and business places, mostly in Binghamton and nearby Endicott, Saturday.

Computer's 'Cupid'

PROVO, Utah (AP)—A Brigham Young University computer that matched a brother and sister as dates for a school dance last Nov. 20 can finally claim success.

The computer also matched Sandra Kanninen, 19, of Brigham and Dale Pearce, 22, of Nampa, Idaho.

They announced their engagement Sunday night.

Parachute Wedding For Italian Couple

PISA, Italy (AP)—Tino Fecola, 24, and his bride Clara, 23, literally plunged into matrimony.

They are members of a parachutists' club. After their wedding Sunday, they bailed out of a C119 flying boxcar over a big meadow outside Pisa to start their honeymoon.

Wishing them well were 243 fellow chuting enthusiasts from Milan, Bergamo and Brescia. A few went up with them and took the leap.

Believing that a wife should always follow her husband, Tino went down first. Clara came right after him. Then they drove off—in a car—for the rest of the honeymoon.

Greenwald Travel Service Observes 60th Anniversary

Greenwald's Travel Service, located at 286 Fair Street, is celebrating its 60th year of service to the traveling public of Kingston and the surrounding area.

It was in 1905 that, armed with a working knowledge of Italian, German, and Hungarian, Jacob Greenwald started helping many families in the vicinity bring relatives to the United States from the other side of the Atlantic. At that time, he accepted the appointment of the Cunard Steamship Company as its agent in this area. Other appointments followed and, with his father, Max Greenwald, he founded the travel agency known at that time as "The Transatlantic and Coastwise Steamship Agency" at 49 Broadway. Later, the office moved to 39 Broadway and, in 1931, to its present location on Fair Street.

In 1936, Greenwald's Travel Service was accepted as a member of the American Society of Travel Agents which had been organized in 1933. Greenwald's was among the first 300 member agencies (many of whom have since retired) of an organization that now numbers over 1800 member agencies and over 3200 associates and affiliates. In 1905, a steamship crossing of the Atlantic meant a lapse of 8 to 12 days compared with today's express liners crossing in five days. Air travel was unknown but today Europe's major capitals are a mere 6 to 8 hours from New York. The tourist class accommodations on today's ocean queens are superior, in many respects, to the first class staterooms of yesteryear. It is interesting to note that a transatlantic crossing by steamer in 1905 could be made for as little as $30.

Until the mid-twenties, immigrants that were booked by Greenwald's were placed aboard trains of the West Shore Railroad at Hoboken and were met at the local station by Mr. Greenwald who carefully checked their travel tags for names and relatives and then turned them over to their families. Many of these families are still in the area and ticket stubs have been kept of some of them as mementoes of a past age. Prior to World War

II, the Greenwald agency was instrumental in bringing over 6,500 people from Central and Southern Europe.

Top Source of Income

In the early years, immigration and foreign remittances were the major form of travel agency operation. Only in the 1920's did the tour and cruise business start to develop. Today, travel represents one of the top five sources of income to most countries of the world that are open to tourist travel.

Much has been said and written of modern travel trends, but much is not new. In "Travel Talks," a publication distributed by Greenwald's in 1926, is an article featuring "moving pictures on a moving train" — and today the movies are on a moving plane. And in the same brochure is an ad featuring a "save-to-travel" club, parent of the vacation clubs of today's banking institutions.

Today, a reputable travel service stands ready to offer professional service and advice in many fields: transportation on steamship, planes, trains and buses at home and abroad, tours and cruises, sightseeing, hotel and resort reservations, foreign car purchases, car rentals, foreign exchange and travelers cheques, travel insurance, passport and visa information, health requirements, customs and shopping.

Herbert Greenwald, present president and son and grandson of the co-founders, assumed management of the business in 1946. A graduate of Kingston Schools and the University of Pennsylvania, Greenwald served as superintendent of the Florida Transportation Company of Miami before enlisting in the Army Transportation Corps in 1952. During 42 months of overseas duty, he was stationed in England, North Africa and Italy and was awarded the Bronze Star for meritorious service.

Active in Community

Mr. Greenwald has been a Kiwanian for 19 years, a board member of the Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America and a deputy director of transportation for the Ulster County Civil Defense. He has served as a fire commissioner of the Spring Lake Fire Department and currently serves with their fire police unit. He is a member and former president of the Stampotters Society of Kingston and a member of the Board of Trustees of Temple Emanuel. A past treasurer of the New York State Chapter of A.S.T.A., Mr. Greenwald is also active in Eon Vivans travel fraternity.

Associated with Greenwald are Ann Olsen, Agnes Bruce and his wife, Louise Greenwald. Mrs. Olsen, a native of Saugerties and a graduate of Saug-

60th ANNIVERSARY—Congratulations on the 60th anniversary of Greenwald's Travel Service are being extended to Herbert K. Greenwald, president of the agency, by B. V. President, James Fitzpatrick of the United States Lines and fellow member, George Schulbaum. Greenwald has the unique distinction of travelling a greater distance to attend monthly meetings than any other of the 800 members — in excess of 1,500 miles a year.

Town of Olive Cancer Crusade Team Workers

Co-chairman of the Town of Olive committee in charge of that area's participation in the 1965 Cancer Crusade conducted this month by the Ulster County Unit of the American Cancer Society, today announced team workers.

The Crusade was officially launched on April 1 and will continue at least through this month. J. Wilson Tinney, of Port Jervis, county chairman for the fund raising campaign, said today, "We have never been better prepared. Volunteers have responded with enthusiasm, eager to establish a new record. I am confident they will. All know the success of their assignment will help save lives from cancer through research, education and service. It is a serious job and they know it."

Mrs. Arthur Sampson, chairwoman of the Ulster County Cancer schools was with the New York Telephone Company and the Kingston Trust Company prior to joining Greenwald's in 1954. She is presently office manager of the travel agency. Mrs. Bruce, a graduate of Bay Ridge High School and St. Joseph's College, was formerly with the County Trust Company of Westchester County and the Hull Travel Service in New York City.

A graduate of Kingston schools, Mrs. Greenwald holds a B.A. degree from Hartwick College and a Master's degree from Columbia University Teacher's College. She has taught English in Kingston High School and English and Dramatics in high schools in Massapequa and Nyack, N.Y. She has served on the Ulster County Girl Scout Council as publicity director and has been a member of the board of directors of the League of Women Voters, the Coach House Players and the Sisterhood of Temple Emanuel. Mrs. Greenwald is a member of the Kingston Hospital Auxiliary, Hadassah and is presently serving as president of the Sisterhood of Temple Emanuel.

In order to gather first hand information, the entire staff travels periodically, and has travelled to many points of the globe including England, France, Italy, Germany, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Italy, Bermuda, Nassau, Canada, Spain, the Caribbean and various points in the United States including Alaska and Hawaii.

Mr. and Mrs. Greenwald reside on Holiday Lane with their sons, Michael, Marc and Eric.

Pine Plains, Boyle's Winners in Tourney Contests

Armstrong's, Judie's Capture YMCA Basketball Titles

Ray's, Armstrong Quintets Lose In Semi-Finals

In the opener, Boyle's AC eliminated Armstrong's Eagles, the Rec and YMCA champions from further play with a, 76-65, decision.

The action continues on Tuesday with Ray's meeting Boyle's at 8 o'clock. The loser will be eliminated and the winning team will meet Pine Plains on Thursday, in what is expected to be the final game of the double elimination affair.

Ray's tried to put the ball into a deep freeze at the beginning but quickly fell behind, 11-4, as the Bombardiers used their good defense to stop the plans.

After pulling away to a, 17-10, first quarter lead and expanding it to 14 points early in the second half, the pre-tourney favorites were played on even terms the rest of the way by the scrappy home side.

Telasky Is High

Bill Telasky, last year's Most Valuable Player and a prime candidate this time, finished with 20 points to pace the winners. Big Warren Isaac had 19, York Larose 14 and Tom Hannon 10. Joe Uhl's 22 markers were high for Ray's, Joe Klonowski riddled 15 and George Carponis had an even dozen.

In the opener, Boyle's pulled away in the second, had the game tied twice in the second half and then won with some all-around good basketball.

The upstarts had only five players in action but they turned in a solid job. Bill Slicks finished with 22 points to pace the attack. Mike Crocco potted 20.

Sam Brown was tops for Armstrong's but his 18 points were well below his usual average. He had trouble shooting against the tenacious defense of the winners.

Nicklaus Now Stands Alone After 271 Score in Masters

By MURRAY ROSE

Associated Press Sports Writer

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Jack

greatest golfer in the world and Jack's Pack has taken over from Arnie's Army.

Still admittedly on cloud nine

finest field with a record Masters score of 271 for 72 holes, 17

strokes under par, the now jovial

strong boy from Columbus,

Ohio, seemed to be as happy

over winning over the galleries as with his fantastic feats on the course.

The 25-year-old blond bomber, treated coldly by some fans be-

tions from the opening round.

His final round Sunday seemed like a triumphal parade, before

than 25,000 at times.

"I felt great to hear the crowds cheer me and it definitely helped my game," said Nick-laus. "I'm not an outgoing person like Arnie Palmer and Gary Player and I guess some of the fans resented me for winning when I was so young. Maybe it's because I've matured, too."

Shoots Record

Nicklaus, who came to the

Augusta National Golf Club a week in advance to make a determined bid for the title he first won in 1963, broke the tournaments wide open with a fabu-

par 64 on Saturday.

Palmer, the 1964 champion and a record four-time winner of the Masters, called Nicklaus' four rounds of 67, 71, 64, 69, "the greatest 72 holes of golf ever

was the difference."

Bobby Jones, a living legend

Masters, paid the muscular

Onion the same compliment.

Palmer and Player, of South Africa, the other member of golf's formidable "Big Three" led by second with 280 each after being deadlocked with Nicklaus for first with 138 at the halfway mark.

72-70 for the par 36-36-72, 6,980-yard course that was massacred

under a birdie barrage Thursday and then held off further

rounds of 65, 73, 79, 73.

"Nicklaus just played fantas-

A non-winner on the winter

circuit, Nicklaus collected $20,-

ters purse. This put him in first place on the PGA's official money winning list for the year with $34,400. Player and Palmer each received $10,200.

Mason Rudolph of Clarksville,

Tenn., took fourth and $6,200

with 283. Dan Sikes of Jackson-

and earned $5,000. Gene Littler, the 1961 Open champion from

San Diego, and Ramon Sota of

and won $3,800 each.

Nicklaus' 64 tied the course and Masters record set by Lloyd

Mangrum 25 years ago; his 52-hole score of 202 was a record, too, and his 271 was three

mark of 274 established by the famed Ben Hogan in 1953. His nine-stroke victory margin also was the best ever, topping Cary

Middlecoff's winning seven stroke edge in 1955.

"I've never played golf like that before and I've never putted like that before," said Nick-laus. "It was the putting that won for me. I felt I had full control of the ball all the way. I was determined not to be short with my putts."

Nicklaus, only golfer ever to

premier events — the U.S.

Amateur and Open, PGA and Masters — said he planned to go after the professional grand

and British Open. He finished second in the British Open in 1963 and 1964.

Ismael Laguna

Tops Carlos Ortiz

PANAMA CITY (AP) — "He doesn't stick around to get hit."

And that's the reason 21-year-old Ismael Laguna now is light weight champion of the world, according to the beaten favorite, Carlos Ortiz.

The elusive young Panamanian won the title with a split 15-round decision over Ortiz Satur-

crowd of 18,000 at Olympic Stadium.

"Laguna is not a strong puncher, but I couldn't get to him," Ortiz said after the fight. The 28-year-old Puerto Rican won the crown from Joe Brown three years ago, defended it successfully four times, and was narrowly favored to win again.

Actually, Laguna — a pro for four years and making his first start as a lightweight — had a puncher's record, scoring knockouts in 25 and his 38 victories going into Saturday night's bout.

Canfield, Jack's Teams Defeated In Playoff Tilts

Armstrong's Eagles rode a 39-point performance by Sam Brown and the backboard play of Tom Waters and Hobe Armstrong to topple Canfield Supply 97-94, to win the YMCA A Basketball league title Saturday night.

In the opening tussle, Judie's Restaurant took a quick lead in the first half and went on to topple Jack's Barber Shop, 71-60, to capture the B league championship.

Armstrong's, which also captured the city's softball title and the Rec cage league crown, had to survive a fourth period blitz by Canfield's to clinch honors.

The losers, with Joe Uhl leading the way, tallied 39 markers in the final session but Armstrong's hit for 27 to retain the lead and clinch the crown.

Uhl Gets 34

Brown scored 14 baskets and added 11 free throws for his 39 points. Bob Smith added 20, Armstrong 17 and Waters 13. Uhl had 11 buckets and 12 foul tosses for 34 points to pace Canfield. Joe Klonowski tossed in 22, Bob Bondar 18 and Harry Pratt 14.

Judie's led, 15-4, 32-19, and 51-40, at the quarter stops, in beating Jack's Barber Shop. John Burris topped the champions with 29 points and Chick Boice added 21. Wally Lucas (25), Dan Potter (13) and Gary Greiner (11) were high for Jack's.

Pine Plains, Boyle's Winners in Tourney Contests

Armstrong's, Judie's Capture YMCA Basketball Titles

Ray's, Armstrong Quintets Lose In Semi-Finals

Though they led from start to finish, the powerful Pine Plains Bombardiers were given their toughest game of the 12th annual Kingston Basketball tournament before downing Ray's Tackle Shop, 79-65, last night at the Municipal Auditorium.

In the opener, Boyle's AC eliminated Armstrong's Eagles, the Rec and YMCA champions from further play with a 76-65, decision.

The action continues on Tuesday with Ray's meeting Boyle's at 8 o'clock. The loser will be eliminated and the winning team will meet Pine Plains on Thursday, in what is expected to be the final game of the double elimination affair.

Ray's tried to put the ball into a deep freeze at the beginning but quickly fell behind, 11-4, as the Bombardiers used their good defense to stop the plans.

After pulling away to a 17-10, first quarter lead and expanding it to 14 points early in the second half, the pre-tourney favorites were played on even terms the rest of the way by the scrappy home side.

Telasky Is High
Bill Telasky, last year's Most Valuable Player and a prime candidate this time, finished with 20 points to pace the winners. Big Warren Isaac had 19, York Larose 14 and Tom Hannon 10. Joe Uhl's 22 markers were high for Ray's, Joe Klonsowski rimmed 15 and George Carponiz had an even dozen.

In the opener, Boyle's pulled away in the second, had the game tied twice in the second half and then won with some all-around good basketball.

The upstarters had only five players in action but they turned in a solid job. Bill Slicks finished with 22 points to pace the attack. Mike Crocco potted 20.

Nicklaus Now Stands Alone After 271 Score in Masters

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus stands out today as the greatest golfer in the world and Jack's Pack has taken over from Arnie's Army.

Still admittedly on cloud nine after spread-eagling the world's finest field with a record Masters score of 271 for 72 holes, 17 strokes under par, the now jovial strong boy from Columbus, Ohio, seemed to be as happy over winning over the galleries as with his fantastic feats on the course.

The 25-year-old blond bomber, treated coldly by some fans before, received tremendous ovations from the opening round. His final round Sunday seemed like a triumphal parade, before galleries which swelled to more than 25,000 at times.

"It felt great to hear the crowds cheer me and it definitely helped my game," said Nicklaus. "I'm not an outgoing person like Arnie Palmer and Gary Player and I guess some of the fans resented me for winning when I was so young. Maybe it's because I've matured, too."

Shoots Record

Nicklaus, who came to the Augusta National Golf Club a week in advance to make a determined bid for the title he first won in 1963, broke the tournament wide open with a fabulous, record-tying, eight-under-par 64 on Saturday.

Palmer, the 1964 champion and a record four-time winner of the Masters, called Nicklaus' four rounds of 67, 71, 64, 69, "the greatest 72 holes of golf ever played. His tremendous putting was the difference."

Bobby Jones, a living legend of golf and originator of the Masters, paid the muscular Ohioan the same compliment.

Palmer and Player, of South

Africa, the other member of golf's formidable "Big Three," tied for second with 280 each after being deadlocked with Nicklaus for first with 138 at the halfway mark.

Palmer had rounds of 70, 68, 72-70 for the par 36-36-72, 6,980-yard course that was massacred under a birdie barrage Thursday and then held off further mass assaults. Player had rounds of 63, 73, 79, 73.

"Nicklaus just played fantastic golf," said Player.

A non-winner on the winter circuit, Nicklaus collected $30,000 of the record $140,075 Masters purse. This put him in first place on the PGA's official money winning list for the year with

Mason Rudolph of Clarksville, Tenn., took fourth and $6,200 with 283. Dan Sikes of Jacksonville, Fla., was fifth with 285 and earned $5,000. Gene Littler, the 1961 Open champion from San Diego, and Ramon Sota of Spain, tied for sixth with 286 and won $3,800 each.

Nicklaus' 64 tied the course and Masters record set by Lloyd Mangrum 25 years ago; his 52-hole score of 202 was a record, too, and his 271 was three strokes better than the Masters' mark of 274 established by the famed Ben Hogan in 1953. His nine-stroke victory margin also was the best ever, topping Cary Middlecoff's winning seven stroke edge in 1955.

"I've never played golf like that before and I've never putted like that before," said Nicklaus. "It was the putting that won for me. I felt I had full control of the ball all the way. I was determined not to be short with my putts."

Nicklaus, only golfer ever to win all four of America's four premier events — the U.S. Amateur and Open, PGA and Masters — said he planned to go after the professional grand slam — the Masters, Open, PGA and British Open. He finished second in the British Open in 1963 and 1964.

Managers Predict Very Tight Races in Both Major Leagues

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

St. Louis and Philadelphia are expected to emerge as the top contenders in a six-team National League race and the New York Yankees, Chicago White Sox and Baltimore Orioles are selected to fight it out in the American League according to the pre-season comments of the 20 big league managers.

The managers went on the record, more or less emphatically depending on their position, before the season opened today with an unusual nine-game program. The only teams not scheduled to start today, Baltimore and the Chicago White Sox, will play their first game Tuesday at Baltimore.

Of prime interest on the program expected to attract 268,000 fans was the first official indoor game at Houston's domed stadium where the Astros were to meet the Philadelphia Phillies in a night game.

Cards in Chicago
The St. Louis Cardinals, the World Series winners, opened defense of their National League pennant in Chicago.

In other day games Milwaukee helped Cincinnati stage its traditional gala opener, the Los Angeles Dodgers took on the New York Mets at Shea Stadium and San Francisco was at Pittsburgh for a duel of new managers Herman Franks of the Giants and Harry Walker of the Pirates.

The New York Yankees were at Minnesota and President Johnson was to throw out the first ball at Washington before the game between the Boston Red Sox and the Senators.

There were two night games in the American League schedule, Detroit at Kansas City and Cleveland at Los Angeles.

In the latest rundown of odds at Las Vegas the Yankees were 4-5 favorites in the American League with Baltimore 5-2 and Chicago 7-2. In the National the Giants were 3-1 with the Cardinals, Dodgers and Phillies bunched at 7-2 and the Reds 4-1. The managers' comments:

AMERICAN LEAGUE
Johnny Keane, New York — "I've got the most talented group I've ever managed and I'm sure we'll win the pennant."
Al Lopez, Chicago — "We're in better shape to catch the Yankees than in any years since I came to Chicago. You can't discount the Orioles and Yankees as tough to beat."

Hank Bauer, Baltimore — "I'm picking Baltimore to win it this time. Our guys profited from being in the race last year and that experience is valuable. It's not gonna be easy. New York, as always, Chicago, Baltimore, Cleveland, Minnesota and Detroit are good clubs."

"My club is improved on the bench. The team that stays healthiest has the best chance and Baltimore's got as good a chance as anybody."

Bob Swift, Detroit — "Six teams will figure in the race. They are Chicago, New York, Baltimore, Cleveland, Minnesota and us. We have as good a chance as anybody."

Bill Rigney, Los Angeles — "No predictions. I never have. I'm confident we're going to have an improved early season. By June 1 last year we were 10th. Despite a 66-50 record after that we could do no better than fifth."

Birdie Tebbetts, Cleveland — "We're definitely a contender. I agree with the 'experts' who pick Cleveland and New York, Baltimore and Chicago. The way I see it the league is divided into three sections: Yankees, Orioles and White Sox; then Cleveland, Detroit, Minnesota, Los Angeles and Boston, an improved team."

Sam Mele, Minnesota — "I think the White Sox will be tougher than the Yankees because they have the best pitching and have added a couple of youngsters who should make their pitching even better."

"I think the Twins have to be better but I can't say how much. We have guys in the bullpen who can save some games for us. We've still got a lot of room for improvement on defense."

Billy Herman, Boston — "I've got to say the Yankees once again are the team to beat. They have a sound ball club and don't beat themselves very of-

ten. Chicago and Baltimore both figure to be tough with good pitching and defense."

Gil Hodges, Washington — "If there was such a thing as a three-sided coin I would flip it among the White Sox, Orioles and Yankees. If the Orioles win, a comeback by Steve Barber would be the key. We are much improved because of our trades with the Dodgers and Indians."

Mel McGaha, Athletics — "You have to go with the Yankees. I think the race will be a great deal like last year with Chicago and Baltimore giving the Yanks the most trouble."

NATIONAL LEAGUE
Red Schoendienst, St. Louis — "I think the Cardinals have an excellent chance of repeating but it will be tough. Milwaukee will be a threat and don't overlook Los Angeles and San Francisco."

Dick Sisler, Cincinnati — "It ought to be a five-or six-club race, depending on whether the Dodgers work out their problems at third and second base and if Koufax and Podres are all right."

Gene Mauch, Philadelphia — "The Phillies were a good club last season. They should be better this year. Some of our players were outstanding like Richie Allen, Johnny Callison, Chris Short and Jim Bunning."

Herman Franks, San Francisco — "Certainly we have a shot at the pennant and so do a half a dozen others. Rate the finish? I'm not going to make any comparisons or worry about what others will do. I just hope we stay healthy."

Bobby Bragan, Milwaukee — "St. Louis and Cincinnati are the teams to beat. It looks like a six-club race. We will be in the thick of it, and so will San Francisco, Philadelphia and Los Angeles. Pittsburgh is a possible dark horse."

Walter Alston, Dodgers — "This is no time to try to pick a winner, but I feel we will be in it all the way."

"If we stay physically sound and, if some of the men, like Tommy Davis, Willie Davis and Maury Wills, are as good during the season as they've been in spring training, we could win the pennant. We'll have as good a chance as any."

Harry Walker, Pittsburgh — "I would say the Cardinals have the ball club. They would be my choice if I had to make a prediction. The dark horse will be Milwaukee in the usual close race where five or six teams can win the pennant."

Bob Kennedy, Chicago — "This is the year the Cubs are going to break out of the second division. We have as good a hitting club as any and might even be better than most."

Lum Harris, Houston — "I think it will be a six-team race and maybe seven if Koufax is all right. Milwaukee is going to be tough, but I like Cincinnati real well."

Casey Stengel, New York — "The Mets have a good chance to climb out of tenth place. We have first-division men at first, second, shortstop, left field and in throwing at catcher."

"All in all, there's more of a chance for good things to happen. As for the pennant race, Cincinnati could provide a big surprise by taking it."

Syracuse Stars New Pin Leaders

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — Jack Smith and Sam Misita, both of Syracuse, have shaken up the singles' handicap and scratch standings in the 40th annual New York State Men's Bowling Tournament.

Smith rolled a 739 series Sunday to bump John Juliano, of Rochester, with 722, from first to third place in singles' handicap. Misita, with 713 pins, uprooted Greg Griffin Sr., of Baldwinsville, who had 696 from his first-place scratch position in singles.

Griffin, however, remained in first place in all events scratch. The Staatsburg Legion was in fourth place as the result of a scoring correction. The team had been tied for fourth place with Sammy's Cafe of Elmira, 3,141, after last weekend's play.

However, the scores were rechecked and it was found the legion had 3,147 pins. This moved Niagara Taverns, of Niagara Falls, with 3,146, from third to fifth and dropped the Elmira team from the top five. The tournament, which began March 27, will continue week-ends through May 30.

UCCC Baseball, Golf Contests Are Postponed

Rain has forced postponement of the scheduled opening of the baseball and golf teams of Ulster County Community College.

The Senators were slated to open their season this afternoon at Queensborough College. The golf squad has slated April 22 at New Paltz as its next scheduled match.

Worden, Sanford Lead in Mixers

George Worden and Marion Sanford were only two pins apart in the Ferraro Sunday Mixed league. Worden clouted 214, 189 and 206 for a 609 series while Mrs. Sanford shot 214, 202 and 191 for 607.

High on the distaff side were Rose Schatzel 202-561, Hilda Murphy 515, Roberta Glass 558, Mildred Pisani 210-523, Laura LeMay 520, Lynn McBride 494, Virginia Hoffman 464, Ruth Cook 473, Helen Rallo 451, Claire Uhler 459, Gilda Bach 472, Terry Beckert 488, Edna VanKleeck 461, Anne Sickler 203-496, Theresa Palladino 520.

Carter, Scott Fight Tuesday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rubin (Hurricane) Carter, the middleweight contender from Paterson, N.J., tries to make it three-for-three in friendly Europe Tuesday night when he fights Harry Scott of England in London.

Carter has won both his previous bouts abroad, including a technical knockout of Scott in London on March 9. Two weeks earlier, he stopped Fabio Bettini of Italy in Paris.

After those two quick victories, Carter began agitating for another title match with Joey Giardello. But the New Jersey puncher will have to stand in line. For one thing, Giardello outpointed him last December, and for another, the champion reportedly is considering a string of other offers.

Lightweight contender Frankie Narvaez of Puerto Rico sees action for the first time since he broke his hand four months ago with a 10-rounder against J. D. Ellis of Trenton, N.J., Tuesday night at New York's Sunnyside Garden. Narvaez injured his hand while winning over Freddie Martinovich last Dec. 11.

The Mamerelli brothers of Miami have hometown bouts Wednesday night. Tony fights Carol Mendoza of Nicaragua in a lightweight 10-rounder and featherweight Mike has an eight-rounder with Eddie Linder of Miami.

Wilson's Bill Would Return Deer Control to Supervisors

A bill designed to restore the deer hunting party permit system to Ulster, with certain qualifications, has been introduced in the State Assembly by Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson of Woodstock.

Assemblyman Wilson pointed out that under his proposed bill the regular deer hunting party permits will still be issued, but no additional deer may be taken in Ulster County by holders of such permits, unless it is authorized by the Ulster County Board of Supervisors.

According to the provisions of Assemblyman Wilson's bill the establishment of an open season on deer of either sex in Ulster County has been removed from the jurisdiction of the New York State Conservation Department and returned to the Board of Supervisors.

In Better Position

Wilson said he felt that the local governing body of the county is in a better position to determine the need, or lack of need, in establishing a deer season in Ulster County and that the Board of Supervisors is more directly concerned with the requirements of both the hunters and the local land owners whose crops may, from time to time, be placed in jeopardy by an increase in herds.

The assemblyman added that he has received the backing of the Federated Sportsmen's Clubs of Ulster County concerning this legislation, as well as from many individual sportsmen in the county. He further stated that such a law is currently in effect in Westchester County and that similar measures have been proposed in other upstate counties.

The taking of deer of either sex and the issuance of party permits is, as usual, one of the hot issues in conservation circles.

International Is at Yonkers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

With two of the better-liked foreign representatives showing dismal form last week, Meadow Skier skied to the front as the possible favorite for Yonkers Raceway's $100,000 International Pace Thursday night.

The four U.S. colorbearers in the International will be selected today, but there is little doubt that Meadow Skipper will not lead the list.

The Skipper paced a mile in 1:59 2-5 in winning the Preview Pace last week at Yonkers.

The International is run at 1½ miles. Overtrick, now retired, won last year.

At Yonkers last Saturday night, Dream High clocked the fastest trotting mile of the season with a 2:03 4-5 as he won the $12,500 Invitational Handicap feature over Pelham Handover. Dream High paid $11.10.

At Batavia Downs, Dickie Volo paced the mile in 2:08 1-5 and won the $2,000 Handicap Pace over Cacciapupi. Dickie Volo returned $10.90.

Norm Ullman's Trick Leads Wings

DETROIT (AP) — Norm Ullman has carried his Johnny-on-the-spot tactics into the National Hockey League playoffs and has brought the Detroit Red Wings to within a game of reaching the Stanley Cup finals.

Ullman scored twice in five seconds in the second period, then completed the hat trick with a tally late in the final stanza in the Wings' 4-2 victory over Chicago Sunday night.

The triumph — which continued the string of home-ice victories which has marked the series — gave the regular season champions a 3-2 edge in the best-of-7 semifinals.

Managers Predict Very Tight Races in Both Major Leagues

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

St. Louis and Philadelphia are expected to emerge as the top contenders in a six-team National League race and the New York Yankees, Chicago White Sox and Baltimore Orioles are selected to fight it out in the American League according to the pre-season comments of the 20 big league managers.

The managers went on the record, more or less emphatically depending on their position, before the season opened today with an unusual nine-game program. The only teams not scheduled to start today, Baltimore and the Chicago White Sox, will play their first game Tuesday at Baltimore.

Of prime interest on the program expected to attract 268,000 fans was the first official indoor game at Houston's domed stadium where the Astros were to meet the Philadelphia Phillies in a night game.

Cards in Chicago
The St. Louis Cardinals, the World Series winners, opened defense of their National League pennant in Chicago.

In other day games Milwaukee helped Cincinnati stage its traditional gala opener, the Los Angeles Dodgers took on the New York Mets at Shea Stadium and San Francisco was at Pittsburgh for a duel of new managers Herman Franks of the Giants and Harry Walker of the Pirates.

The New York Yankees were at Minnesota and President Johnson was to throw out the first ball at Washington before the game between the Boston Red Sox and the Senators.

There were two night games in the American League schedule. Detroit at Kansas City and Cleveland at Los Angeles.

In the latest rundown of odds at Las Vegas the Yankees were 4-5 favorites in the American League with Baltimore 5-2 and Chicago 7-2. In the National the Giants were 3-1 with the Cardinals, Dodgers and Phillies bunched at 7-2 and the Reds 4-1. The managers' comments:

AMERICAN LEAGUE
Johnny Keane, New York — "I've got the most talented group I've ever managed and I'm sure we'll win the pennant."
Al Lopez, Chicago — "We're in better shape to catch the Yankees than in any years since I came to Chicago. You can't discount the Orioles and Yankees as tough to beat."

Hank Bauer, Baltimore — "I'm picking Baltimore to win it this time. Our guys profited from being in the race last year and that experience is valuable. It's not gonna be easy. New York, as always, Chicago, Baltimore, Cleveland, Minnesota and Detroit are good clubs."

"My club is improved on the bench. The team that stays healthiest has the best chance and Baltimore's got as good a chance as anybody."

Bob Swift, Detroit — "Six teams will figure in the race. They are Chicago, New York, Baltimore, Cleveland, Minnesota and us. We have as good a chance as anybody."

Bill Riney, Los Angeles — "No predictions. I never have. I'm confident we're going to have an improved early season. By June 1 last year we were 10th. Despite a 66-50 record after that we could do no better than fifth."

Birdie Tebbets, Cleveland — "We're definitely a contender. I agree with the 'experts' who pick Cleveland and New York, Baltimore and Chicago. The way I see it the league is divided into three sections: Yankees, Orioles and White Sox; then Cleveland, Detroit, Minnesota, Los Angeles and Boston, an improved team."

Sam Mele, Minnesota — "I think the White Sox will be tougher than the Yankees because they have the best pitching and have added a couple of youngsters who should make their pitching even better. I think the Twins have to be better but I can't say how much. We have guys in the bullpen who can save some games for us. We've still got a lot of room for improvement on defense."

Billy Herman, Boston — "I've got to say the Yankees once again are the team to beat. They have a sound ball club and don't beat themselves very of-

ten. Chicago and Baltimore both figure to be tough with good pitching and defense."

NATIONAL LEAGUE
Red Schoendienst, St. Louis — "I think the Cardinals have an excellent chance of repeating but it will be tough. Milwaukee will be a threat and don't overlook Los Angeles and San Francisco."
Dick Sisler, Cincinnati — "It ought to be a five-or six-club race, depending on whether the Dodgers work out their problems at third and second base and if Koufax and Podres are all right."

Gene Mauch, Philadelphia — "The Phillies were a good club last season. They should be better this year. Some of our players were outstanding like Richie Allen, Johnny Callison, Chris Short and Jim Burnham."

Bobby Bragan, Milwaukee — "St. Louis and Cincinnati are the teams to beat. It looks like a six-club race. We will be in the thick of it, and so will San Francisco, Philadelphia and Los Angeles. Pittsburgh is a possible dark horse."

Walter Alston, Dodgers — "This is no time to try to pick a winner, but I feel we will be in it all the way. If we stay physically sound and, if some of the men, like Tommy Davis, Willie Davis and Maury Wills, are as good during the season as they've been in spring training, we could win the pennant. We'll have as good a chance as any."

Harry Walker, Pittsburgh — "I would say the Cardinals have the ball club. They would be my choice if I had to make a prediction. The dark horse will be Milwaukee in the usual close race where five or six teams can win the pennant."

Bob Kennedy, Chicago — "This is the year the Cubs are going to break out of the second division. We have as good a hitting club as any and might even be better than most."

Lum Harris, Houston — "I think it will be a six-team race and maybe seven if Koufax is to be tough, but I like Cincinnati real well."

Syracuse Stars New Pin Leaders

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — Jack Smith and Sam Misita, both of Syracuse, have shaken up the singles' handicap and scratch standings in the 40th annual New York State Men's Bowling Tournament.

Smith rolled a 739 series Sunday to bump John Juliano, of Rochester, with 722, from first to third place in singles' handicap. Misita, with 713, of Baldwinsville, who had 696, from his first-place scratch position in singles.

Griffo, however, remained in first place in all events scratch. The Slootsburg Legion was in fourth place as the result of a scoring correction. The team had been tied for fourth place with Sammy's Cafe of Elmira, 3,141, after last weekend's play. However, the scores were rechecked and it was found the Legion had 3,147 pins. This moved Niagara Taverns, of Niagara Falls, with 3,146, from third to fifth and dropped the Elmira team from the top five.

The tournament, which began March 27, will continue week-ends through May 30.

Highland Keglers Lead
Rip Classic With 3200

Out of town squads gave the Rip Van Winkle Classic's men's division a vigorous shuffling over the weekend, as Highland Five of Highland, soared into first place with a 3200 gross and three other teams sailed past last week's leaders, dropping Nassau Sportsmen into fifth place.

South Shore Bowlmart of Long Island took over the team net lead with 2832.

EVER CATCH AN ICHTHYOSAURUS?

You would be an "old time" fisherman if you ever had. The ichthyosaurus is an ugly fossil marine reptile that is intermediate between a saurian and a fish. The adage that you learn something new every day now has new meaning. Seriously, we wish all you fishermen the best of luck—have a big catch. It would be good if we were able to give you an insurance policy that would assure you of a good-luck fishing day. We admit it, we can't. We can, however, issue a fisherman's insurance policy that will assure you peace of mind from costly accidents and losses while you are on your trip. Fishermen—call us today for all the details on our "good luck" fisherman's policy.

New Mental Health Booklet Is Available

Psychiatric patients can be helped toward more complete recovery when their families, employers, fellow employees and others demonstrate fuller understanding, show greater acceptance of symptomatic behavior, and offer emotional support.

This is the major message of a new booklet directed especially to families of the mentally ill but equally helpful to others who have daily contact with emotionally disturbed patients. Titled, "Helping A Mental Patient at Home," the 23-page booklet was published by the National Association for Mental Health, with a grant from the Shell Companies Foundation.

The booklet discusses frankly some of the questions and feelings of the family, and offers specific suggestions on how to help the patient during difficult periods and how to aid his adjustment to family, job, and community. Prospective employers, the booklet states, can obtain more information about applicants who had a mental illness than about other applicants. When the team of professional persons who have worked with a mental patient say he is ready for employment, employers can count on their judgement. Copies of the booklet are available at a nominal fee from Ulster County Association for Mental Health, 27 East O'Reilly Street, Kingston.

Army Rifleman To Guard Yanks At 75 Viet Areas

by FRED S. HOFFMAN
WASHINGTON (AP)—Army rifleman will be sent to South Viet Nam to strengthen security at some 75 locations where Americans are based, it was learned today.

About 1,100 troops, including some military police, will be spread around the country in detachments.

The infantrymen and MPs will relieve helicopter mechanics, cooks, supply clerks and others who have had to stand guard against attacks from Communist guerrillas.

Since the Reds made a damaging border attack on a barracks compound and an air field at Pleiku earlier this year, many Americans have had to do double duty at many posts— their regular jobs and standing security guard as well.

The infantrymen and MPs are part of the several thousand reinforcements agreed on at the time of Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor's conferences here about 10 days ago.

Most of the additions—which will reach South Viet Nam over a period of months—will be applied to strengthening the logistics system in the country.

On top of straightening out deficiencies, it is obvious the move will lay a logistics base to support larger U.S. combat forces if a decision should be made to introduce them into South Viet Nam.

Among other things, the Army will develop port facilities and supply points at various cities along the South Vietnamese coast.

This will permit supplying U.S. elements inside the country from a short axis rather than by the long air or surface routes leading from Saigon.

Engineer elements will speed some necessary construction which reportedly has been lagging.

The communications system, vital to the efficient operation of modern armies and air forces, will be expanded with more American specialist technicians.

The Army is expected to send an additional light observer airplanes.

PRaises KINGSTON POLICE
Editor, The Freeman

Both Mrs. Eichelmann and myself would like to take this opportunity to give the Kingston Police Department a well earned pat on the back.

We recently went through a very trying time in trying to locate our daughter who was missing. The police department was not only fully cooperative and considerate, but we felt that they took a personal interest in our problem and functioned in a manner above and beyond the line of duty. Their attitude was most reassuring and did much to enable us to maintain a reasonable optimism. They are fine men and should command the respect of the community.

As far as we are concerned the Police Department should certainly have some type of career incentive plan. Without a doubt these men should receive a salary commensurate with the responsibilities and dangers inherent in their calling.

Very truly yours,
HENRY C. EICHELMANN, M. D.

Tubby Suffers Burns in Fire At Gas Station

Kenneth Tubby, 24, of 219 Delaware Avenue, suffered face and arm burns in a fire which damaged the gas station at 420 Albany Avenue shortly after noon today.

Firemen said the blaze started in a pool of gasoline, as Tubby, who had been working on an automobile, lit a cigarette. He suffered first degree burns of the face, right hand and arm. A report on his condition was not available this afternoon. He was taken to the hospital by Doctors' ambulance.

Units from Central and Wiltwyck stations, the Wicks and Excelsior companies answered a call at 12:06 p. m., with Chief James M. Brett and Deputy Chief Robert W. Hardwick in charge.

The fire damaged shelving and contents in the gas station, including batteries, tires and oil. A ceiling area was removed to trace the fire. The station is owned by the Garraghan Oil Co.

Economy Weakened

JAKARTA, Indonesia, (AP)—President Sukarno says Indonesia's economy has been weakened badly by corrupt government leaders who strayed from the path of socialism and guided democracy.

"It is necessary that we make drastic reforms," Sukarno said in a broadcast speech Sunday to the Peoples Consultative Congress.

The first American missionary church in China was established on Nov. 6, 1847.

Examination Ordered In Attempt to Jump

A man charged recently with illegal purchase of a drug, police said, had attempted to jump from the Rondout Creek Bridge Saturday.

A police report at 6:33 p. m., said Charles Sperry, 31, of 36 West O'Reilly Street, had attempted the jump and was pulled from the railing by Richard Deyo, 33, of 24 West Union Street.

Both were taken to Kingston Hospital by Doctors' ambulance for treatment of head and face injuries.

Sperry was arrested recently by Acting Detective Wilmont Hall, of the local police, and a state narcotics agent, on a charge dealing with purchase of a certain cough medicine to use for purposes other than for medicine.

Officers Ernest Bartroff and Robert Sember were dispatched to the bridge Saturday after the report that a man was attempting to jump from it.

Drunken Driving Charged After One-Car Crash

Four Dutchess county residents were taken to Kingston Hospital at 1:30 a. m. Sunday by Fatum Ambulance service following a one-car accident at West Park. The driver of the vehicle was uninjured and arrested on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Troopers Robert Anderson and Edward Pulver reported a car operated by Ronald G. McCormick, 20, of 41 Hooker Avenue, was traveling south on 9-W when the driver failed to negotiate curve, went off the east side of the road knocking down 13 guard posts and plowing down an embankment. McCormick refused a blood test and was held in $200 bail for a hearing at 2 p. m. today before Justice of the Peace John O. Beaver of Town of Esopus.

Injured and taken to Kingston Hospital were John Bernhart, 22, of 30 Boulevard Knolls, Poughkeepsie, lacerations of left shin; Jon Curtis, 22, 161 Parker Avenue, Poughkeepsie, rib and back injuries; John McDermott, 22, 70 Flannery Avenue, Poughkeepsie, shoulder, injury and Thomas McDermott, 20, of 20 South Drive, Hyde Park, lacerations.

Deliver Planes

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands (AP)—Betty Miller, 38-year-old aviatrix who flew the Pacific in 1963, arrived from Paris Sunday after a solo Atlantic flight to deliver a plane to a Dutch factory.

Bad for Tourism

ROME (AP)—Italy's pre-Easter tourist boom was on today, and so was a new wave of strikes certain to hit the tourism industry hard. Hospitals, public transport, railways and hotels all were involved.

Rome was in the first day of a doctors' strike at public hospitals. The 20,000 doctors want more money, better norms for staff categories and faster Health Ministry action on a hospital reform program.

Accord Firemen Battle Two Fires; Probe Underway

Two serious fires involving buildings were battled Saturday and Sunday afternoons by Accord fire companies in command of Chief Lloyd Countryman, who said he called upon the State Police BCI investigators at Ellenville to investigate one of the fires.

Under investigation is a fire that completely gutted an unoccupied two-story frame house at a bungalow colony on Upper Whitfield Road, which is operated by John Piscopo, according to Chief Countryman.

The chief said the house was involved in flames when the fire was discovered at about 2:30 p. m. Saturday. Mutual aid dispatched tank trucks from Kripplush and Kerhonkson to the scene to assist Accord volunteers. Through the efforts of the three companies, two nearby buildings were saved.

According to Chief Countryman, two men were seen on the bungalow colony property between 4 and 5 p. m. Friday. That information was turned over to Ellenville State Police.

Chief Countryman estimated the fire damage to the house between $8,000 and $10,000.

Accord firemen worked for two hours to quell a fire that destroyed a large building and several smaller buildings at the Boy Scout Camp off Jenny Lane at the top of the Minnewaska trail. Chief Countryman said.

The chief reported that he understood some Boy Scouts had stayed at the camp Saturday night. The origin of the fire was not immediately determined and no estimate of the loss was available.

EVER CATCH AN ICHTHYOSAURUS?

You would be an "old time" fisherman if you ever had. The ichthyosaurus is an ugly fossil marine reptile that is intermediate between a saurian and a fish. The adage that you learn something new every day now has new meaning. Seriously, we wish all you fishermen the best of luck—have a big catch. It would be good if we were able to give you an insurance policy that would assure you of a good-luck fishing day. We admit it, we can't. We can, however, issue a fisherman's insurance policy that will assure you peace of mind from costly accidents and losses while you are on your trip. ### New Mental Health Booklet Is Available

Psychiatric patients can be helped toward more complete recovery when their families, employers, fellow employees and others demonstrate fuller understanding, show greater acceptance of symptomatic behavior, and offer emotional support.

This is the major message of a new booklet directed especially to families of the mentally ill but equally helpful to others who have daily contact with emotionally disturbed patients.

Titled, "Helping A Mental Patient at Home," the 23-page booklet was published by the National Association for Mental Health, with a grant from the Shell Companies Foundation.

The booklet discusses frankly some of the questions and feelings of the family, and offers specific suggestions on how to help the patient during difficult periods and how to aid his adjustment to family, job, and community.

Prospective employers, the booklet states, can obtain more information about applicants who had had a mental illness than about other applicants. When the team of professional persons who have worked with a mental patient say he is ready for employment, employers can count on their judgement.

Copies of the booklet are available at a nominal fee from Ulster County Association for Mental Health, 27 East O'Reilly Street, Kingston.
